

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

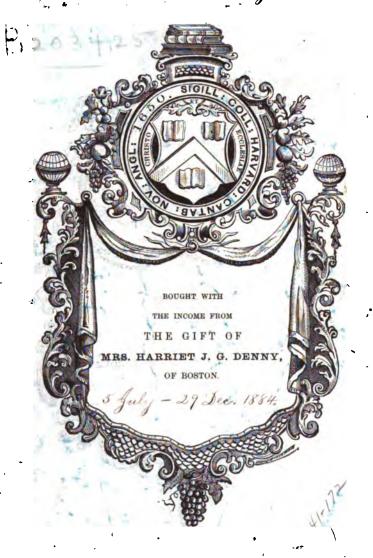

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at http://books.google.com/

The Publishers' Weekly.

THE AMERICAN BOOK-TRADE JOURNAL.

The Publishers' Weekly, established in 1872, with which was incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular (established in 1852), by purchase from Mr. George W. Childs, is recognized as the independent representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States.

The central feature of the paper, that makes it an indispensable aid to the trade, to libraries, and to literary people, is its Bibliographical Department. Every possible facility of reference is afforded by a combination of methods which records the books, by the week, the month, the season, and the year, under the author, the publisher, the title, the subject, and the class. It is acknowledged that no other journal, at home or abroad, supplies as practical and satisfactory a record of the publications of its country.

The bibliographical department includes:

1. A "Weekly Record" of all new American publications and reprints, giving their full titles (according to the rules of the American Library Association), with place and date of publication, publisher's name, size, number of pages, and price; and also descriptive notes of books received. This first and practically the official record is arranged alphabetically by the authors or titles, and for ready reference is placed in the same accessible position in each number.

2. A weekly "Order List," being brief-title entries, with prices, of the "Weekly Record," arranged alphabetically by the publishers. The object of this list is to present at a glance the simultaneous issues of certain publishers, and to

2. A weekly "Order List," being brief-title entries, with prices, of the "Weekly Record," arranged alphabetically by the publishers. The object of this list is to present at a glance the simultaneous issues of certain publishers, and to save time in the making up of orders.

3. A monthly "Index to the Weekly Record," being short-title entries, with the publisher's name and the size and price, arranged alphabetically by the authors, with references from the titles or catchwords, and from the subjects. With each entry is given also the number of the "Weekly Record" containing the full-title entry and note.

4. A monthly "Class Synopsis," grouping the works of the month under such heads as Biography, Description, Education, Fine Arts, History, Law, Literature, Medical Science, Physical and Mathematical Sciences, Poetry and the Drama, Political and Social Science. Theology and Religion, etc.

5. A semi-annual classified list of Forthcoming Publications, given in the Spring and Fall Announcement numbers, in which also the announced books are more fully described under the name of the publishers, arranged alphabetically.

6. An annual Index to the books of the year, advertised by the more prominent publishers in the so-called Annual summary Number, which generally is published in the last week of January. In this number is also given a classified summary of the more prominent published as follows: A complete priced catalogue of Educational Books, in July; a priced list of the Holiday Books and prominent Juvenile Books of the year, in November; a supplementary list of new Educational Books, in February; a list of Guide and Summer Books, in May.

8. Quarterly lists of the Publications of the U. S. Government.

9. Semi-monthly lists of the more prominent New English Books.

10. Special Bibliographies. The timely bibliography, now in course of publication, is "Literary Property:" a catalogue of books and authors relating to literary property (copyright, international copyright, and kindred subjects), by Thorvald Solberg.

The Literary Department includes comprehensive intelligence as to books forthcoming and publishing movements, at home and abroad, gathered with the aid of representatives in other cities; editorial discussions on book and trade subjects, as copyright, postal questions, book production and manufacture, etc.; original contributions and representative extracts on like topics; topical "cues" or references to bibliographical sources or courses of reading and study; journalistic notes; business notes; literary and trade notes, etc.

The Advertising Department is by no means a subordinate feature in a journal chiefly devoted to books. In the Publishers' Weekly, indeed, it is so representative of the publishing enterprises of the day that it becomes an essential supplement to the other departments.

A minor but practical and convenient feature is the "Books Wanted" column, giving subscribers the privilege of a free insertion of five lines in each issue.

Terms, $3.20 per year, 10 cents per number. Sample copies furnished on application.

NOTES IN SEASON.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD will have ready shortiv an edition of Sir Henry Griffin's work, "The Great Republic," which has met with a favorable sception abroad.

FUNK & WAGNALLS publish this week what they claim to be the "only complete edition published in America," of Alphonse Daudet's famous book "L' Evangéliste," founded on the doings of the Salvation Army.

R. WORTHINGTON has nearly ready a "Life of James G. Blaine," by one of the editors of the N. Y. Tribune, to which is added a biographical sketch of Blaine that he furnished to is college society at one of its alumni meeting.

JANSEN, McCLURG & Co. have just ready a neat little pamphlet entitled, "To Mexico by Palace Car," intended as a guide to the principal cities and capital of Mexico, and generally as a tourist's introduction to the life and people of that country. It is written by James W. Steele, author of "Cuban Sketches," etc., and illustrated by a number of well-printed woodcuts.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready "The Life of John Kalb, Major-General in the Revolutionary Army," by Friedrich Kapp, which is not, as was previously announced, a translation of that author's former work under the same title in German, but an original production in the vernacular. They have also issued a cheap edition in paper of that delightful book "The Summer School of Philosophy at Mt. Desert," by J. A. Mitchell.

JOHN WILEY & SONS have just ready vol. 3 of "Materials of Engineering," by Prof. R. H. Thurston, of Stevens Institute, treating of the alloys and their constituents; "The Pencoyd Iron Co.'s Pocket-Book," containing many valuable tables and calculations of interest to bridge engineers and users of iron beams in general, together with the standard shapes and dimensions of this company; "The Modern High Explosives," by M. Eissler, treating on nitro-glycerine, dynamite, etc., showing their constituent parts, manufacture, and best methods of use in the industrial arts; "Practical Mine Ventilation," a treatise for the use of mining engineers and practical men, by Eugene B. Wilson; and a "Text-book of Inorganic Chemistry," by Dr. Hermann Kolbe, translated and edited from the second German edition by Prof. T. S. Humpidge.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a "Student's Manual of Electro-therapeutics," embodying the lectures delivered in the course on therapeutics at the Woman's Medical College of the New York Infirmary, by Dr. R. W. Amidon. The book is presented chiefly as a protest against the mysticism and charlatanry which have ever hung around the literature and practice of electro-therapeutics. The author does not deprecate in any way the real therapeutic value of electricity, but in this work narrows the subject down to the comprehension of the average student and general practitioner. They have published for the Society of Political Education, Economic Tract, No. 12, entitled "The Work of a Social Teacher; being a Memorial of Richard L. Dugdale," by Edward M. Shepard.

FOWLER & WELLS have issued in pamphlet form under the title of "The Diet Question," the chapter headed "The Reason Why," from Mrs. Susanna W. Dodd's excellent new book, "Health in the Household." This book gives the reason why some articles of diet are better than others, more economical as well as more healthful. It opens with tables showing the constituent elements of different articles of food. Wheat and other cereals are compared, and fruits and vegetables come in for a share of consideration, as also the question of meat as an article of diet, which is not considered favorably. What to drink and why, is also viewed as an important question. Closing with dietetic rules, hints on cooking etc., it is not on that account a book of recipes. *

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

Alden, Mrs. I. M. ["Pansy," pseud.] A hedge fence. Bost., D. Lothrop & Co., [1884].

3-03 p. il. D. cl., 60 c.

A little boy is the hero of this story, and the "hedge fence" is a Bible text that a friend sends him every month, as a gentle reminder not to go wrong. A pleasant story is told, and some good moral lessons inculcated.

Amidon, R. W., M.D. Student's manual of electro-therapeutics; embodying lectures deelectro-therapeutics; embodying lectures delivered in the course on therapeutics at the Woman's Medical College of the N. Y. Infirmary. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1884. 5+93 p. il. S. cl., $1.

The aim of the writer has been: 1. To present that amount of the subject of electro-physics necessary to the proper understanding of the construction and use of medical batteries. 2. To point out the commoner gross physiological effects of electricity. 3. To outline the methods of electro-diagnosis. 4. To determine the kind of electricity and its mode of application indicated in different pathological states. thological states.

Armstrong, Annie. Threads of thought. Wash., D. C., Brentano Bros., 1884. 3-124 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Short poems grouped as "Scattered threads;" "Thoughts of religion;" and "Friendship's strand."

Bancroft, T. Whiting. A method of English composition. Bost., Ginn, Heath & Co., 1884. 3+96 p. D. cl., 65 c. composition.

1884. 3+96 p. D. cl., 65 c.

This new attempt to methodize instruction in English composition is not designed to supplant text-books on rhetoric, but to be used in connection with them. The logical relations of rhetoric are distinctly outlined, and yet the different kinds of composition are discussed wholly from a rhetorical point of view. The author's intention is to furnish to colleges, academies, and high-schools, a brief system of instruction in the preparation of essays or compositions. The second part consists of lists of classified themes, with specimens of plans of compositions; also reference lists for reading, with hints from experienced librarians on the use of the library by young writers.

Bellamy, E: Miss Ludington's sister: a romance of immortality. Bost., Ja. R. Osgood & Co., 1884. 3+260 p. S. cl., $1.25.

Mr. Bellamy is well known as the writer of some clever short stories, and of several novelettes. The present story deals with a deception practised by a spiritualistic medium upon a credulous family. Miss Ludington an old lady of sixty is led to accept an odd theory relative to "the immortality of past selves" as the author puts it, and believes she sees in the form of a beautiful young girl, said to be a materialized spirit, the spirit of her own lost youth. She adopts the girl bestowing upon her both her love and wealth.

It touches upon all the problems of the day in its arraignment of the lies of our civilization, and discusses them with a liberality and audacity which are both fascinating and refreshing. Although it was written originally for German readers, and views the world through Teutonic spectacles, yet we find that human nature is the same the world over, and that the existing social, political, and economic institutions are nearly if not quite so much of a lie in America as in Europe, although we can congratulate ourselves upon the fact that their restraints are not so irksome in this land of comparative liberty and plenty. A TRADE WRONG.

THE extent of the bad practice of changing titles after the publication of a book is strikingly shows by the list of books published under more than one title, compiled by Mr. Jas. L. Whitney and issued under the title of "A Modern Protess" by the office of the PUBLISHERS' WILKLY. Mr. Whitney read a protest against this practice at the Buffalo meeting of the American Library Association, accompanying it with a list of instances, which was published at the time in the Library Journal. Since then the list has grown to over three hundred titles, and even then the catalogue is probably not complete.

We reprint else where a severe attack upon this practice from the Nation, and so far as the facts in the cases cited justify these animadversions, we cannot but second the protest. This is not good publishing: it is fair neither to the trade nor to the public. There are cases when a change of title is necessary, especially in the instance of English books reprinted in America, or vice wrae, where a title not before used in one counby is copyright in the other. Even this is a misfortune, and ought to be guarded against by authors as well as publishers through a careful search in the American and English Catalogues. Even then, a sub-title ought to tell the story of the change fairly and squarely. But a change which is made simply and solely to "freshen book" has no defence. It hurts the sale of books and reduces the value of a publisher's imprint. A retailer is often asked to recommend "a new novel," and if he is deceived into recommending a book which has nothing new but its title, by the practice to which the pubinher has lent himself, his business reputation so far damaged, and the publisher is a loser by the future loss of business to the retailer. We shall do all we can to discourage this practice by noting in the PUBLISHERS' WHEKLY, as well as the Library Journal, all cases of changed titles which from time to time come to our knowledge.

CHICAGO'S BOOK TRADE.

A HISTORY FROM 1834 OF THE BOOK MAKERS, SELLBRS, AND PRINTERS.*

From the Chicago Times, June 14.

THE full history of the book trade of Chicago would make a large volume. Sketches of individual firms and general notices have been published by the press from time to time, but no complete history of the book-making, bookselling, and printing business of Chicago has ever been attempted. Albert D. Richardson and Benjamin F. Taylor, some fifteen or twenty years ago, described the leading book stores here in their peculiar style, and Mr. D. B. Cooke, for many years connected with the trade, published some interesting reminiscences of the book-sellers of Chicago from 1852 to 1876 in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of New York.

The Times to-day publishes a fuller history, gathered from original sources, of the book trade of Chicago than has ever before been published, tracing it from 1834, when a few hundred dollars measured the annual sales of the whole business, to 1884, when its amount exceeds $9,000,000. Its growth has more than kept pace with the material progress of the people. Chicago is not only the centre of the book trade of the West, but our leading subscription publishing houses—whose annual sales reach from $250,000 to nearly $1,000,000 each—make extensive sales throughout the Eastern as well as the Western States. The leading Eastern schoolbook publishing houses also have branch houses here to facilitate the introduction of their books to the schools of the West.

RUSSELL & CLIFT.

Aaron Russell, from Boston, and Benjamin H. Clift, from Philadelphia, who kept the first book-store in Chicago, advertised August 26, 1834, that they would open a book and stationery store, which they did soon after, on South Water Street, just east of Philo Carpenter's drug-store. They dissolved partnership October 22, 1835, Mr. Clift continuing the business. June 18, 1836, he advertised for sale miscellaneous, medical, law and theological books, stationery and paper hangings, at the same place. In 1837 he was at 152 or 154 Lake Street, and this is the last record of him here.

STEPHEN FRANCIS GALE,

the pioneer in the general book trade of Chicago, opened a general stock of miscellaneous, school, law, and blank books, stationery, drafting materials, cutlery, etc., in September, 1835, at No. 157 South Water Street, between Clark and La Salle Streets. The stock was considered very large and fine at the time, and his store was regarded as a great acquisition to Chicago, and was a favorite resort for artists, professional men, and the best class of citizens. He kept also a good stock of pianos, musical instruments, music books, and sheet music, and all kinds of goods that might properly be sold in such an establishment in those early days.

^{*} From the history written and copyrighted by Sherman M. Booth.

He had all the field to himself; Milwaukee had not then over two thousand permanent citizens, and there was no book store nearer than Detroit. His enterprise was a success from the start, his goods sold quickly—the best goods first—and the sales the first year amounted to $25,000.

In 1838 Mr. Gale removed to the south-west corner of Lake and La Salle streets, and in 1841 to a store which he had built at No. 106 Lake Street, the change in each case being caused by want of room for his increasing business. Mr. Gale established the first circulating library in Chicago.

Mr. Gale is still living in our midst, hale and well preserved, bright as refined gold, in the full possession of his faculties, though over 80 years old, and the memory of his great services to our city, in the forming periods of its history, should be cherished with fraternal pride by the booksellers of Chicago.

Augustus Harris Burley entered Mr. Gale's store as a clerk in 1837, became an equal partner in 1842, and the firm title was S. F. Gale & Co. It was the only book-store in Chicago at that time. In 1845 Mr. Gale's interest was sold to Mr. Charles Burley, a clerk in the house, and a brother of A. H., and the firm became A. H. & C. Burley. In 1846 they moved to No. 122 Lake Street, occupied previously by B. W. Raymond. In 1855 Charles Burley retired and Isaac N. Perdue and John H. Small, clerks, were taken into the firm, and the name was A. H. Burley & Co. In 1850 they sold out their stock of books to D. B. Cooke, and thenceforth the business of the house was blank books, book-binding, and stationery.

J. M. W. Jones, from Troy, N. Y., bought Mr. Burley's interest in June, 1857, and the firm was Jones, Perdue & Small. Mr. Jones added printing to the business, bought Perdue's interest just besore he died, in 1862, for $29,000, and Small's interest, in 1866, for $73,000, and continued the business alone, removing to Dearborn Street, opposite the Tremont House, where the Dickey Building now is. In 1868 he removed to Nos. 108 and 110 Randolph Street, was burned out there in 1871, and after the fire located at No. 68 Canal Street, with branches at No. 504 Wabash Avenue and at the Methodist Church block, on Clark Street. In 1873 he removed his main store and branches to Nos. 104 and 106 Madison Street. In 1878 he formed a corporation under the title of the J. M. W. Jones Stationery and Printing Company, and in April, 1879, he occupied his present store, on the corner of Monroe and Dearborn Streets. For twenty-seven years the house has honored the good name of the pioneer book-store of half a century. Its specialties now are railroad printing and supplies, blank books, and stationery, and it stands in the front rank as the representative house in its lines of trade in Chicago.

John H. Small, after selling out to Mr. Jones, went to Europe, came back, and went into the book business on the corner of Dearborn Street and Calhoun Place, and was burned out there, but started in business again on the West Side, where he continued about two years after the fire, and was found drowned one morning off the lake pier at Sixteenth Street.

opened a book-store at No. 147 Lake Street in 1843 or 1844, the "Co." being Mark H. New-

Mr. Barlow sold Sanders's school-books, but did not prosper. He started for California, leaving the establishment without a head, and William Bross - ex-Lieutenant-Governor, and one of the proprietors of the Tribune-came to Chicago May 12th, 1848, at Mr. Newman's request, to take charge of the store, which was then at No. 121 Lake Street. In September, 1848, S. C. Griggs came, and a partnership was formed under the title of Griggs, Bross & Co. They continued at No. 121 Lake Street, and did a general book and stationery business. In September, 1849, Mr Bross sold out his interest and went into the Herald of the Prairies. The firm was changed to S. C. Griggs & Co., and located at No. 111 Lake Street to secure more room. Mr. Griggs was henceforth the central figure in the book trade of Chicago until the fire of 1871. At the start he had a stock of $40,000 worth of school, medical, theological, and miscellaneous books.

In 1854 E. L. Jansen, who had been a clerk in the house for six years, became a partner. The firm was early known for its enterprise in introducing new and expensive books, many of them being imported direct from Europe. It is alike creditable to the energy of the firm and to the literary taste of the Chicago of early days that they were among the largest purchasers of "Benton's Abridgment of the Debates of Congress"—an important work in 16 volumes, of which they took 500 sets, the retail price being $80 a set—and 500 sets of Ticknor & Fields edition of the Waverley novels in 50 volumes, 100 sets of them in calf at $250 a set, and that they had a larger number of subscribers to the Encyclopædia Britannica than any book-sellers in the United States except Little, Brown & Co., the publishers' agents.

James T. Fields, in his lecture here in 1873, said: "When a new and beautiful edition of the Waverley novels came out in Boston some years ago, Chicago ordered half the edition, and that as long ago as when 'Hiawatha' was first published the presses were kept running night after night for weeks for the Chicago orders.

In the spring of 1858 they removed to Burch Block, then the finest in the city, at Nos. 39 and 41 Lake Street. In 1864 Lippincott's was the only house in Philadelphia that excelled S. C. Griggs & Co. in the sale of books. Wentworth said in the Democrat that there were fifty cords of books in Griggs's store, and one day, soon after, a Quaker came into the store with a twofoot rule, and proceeded to measure the books. After measuring and figuring in silence for a long time, he said: "The Democrat is right. I've measured fifty-one cords of books, and I have not measured them all." And yet, at this date, Rev. Dr. Eddy stated in the Northwestern Christian Advocate that seventeen book houses had entered the lists and gone down.

In 1866 Gen. A. C. McClurg-a clerk in the house in 1859, who left to serve his country in the war for the Union, and resumed his place at its close with an arrangement for partnership— F. B. Smith a clerk in 1862, and D. B. Cooke became members of the firm. In this year the Chicago Journal published a whole page advertisement of their costly books. They were burned out January 28, 1868, went up-stairs across the street into C. B. Sawyer's store, stayed three months, and then went into Potter Palmer's store on State Street, where Gossage man, of New York, who was the real owner. & Co. now are, Mr. Cooke leaving soor atter to become a partner of W. B. Keen. In the spring of 1869 they occupied the new store built for them by Peter Page, Nos. 117 and 119 State Street, at a rental of $15,000. They had at this time the largest book-store west of New York, containing a stock of over $300,000, comprising many rare and costly illustrated works in the richest bindings the world produces, all of which perished in the flames. They lound temporary quarters at No. 607—now No. 1236—Wabash Avenue, and when the partnership expired by limitation, April 1, 1872, S. C. Griggs relinquished the general trade to his former partners for the purpose of devoting himself exclusively to the publishing business.

Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Smith became successors to the book-selling and stationery departments of the old firm, with the right to publish any book save those allotted to Mr. Griggs in the division, and forming the firm of Jansen, McClurg & Co., they have identified that name with the book trade in its highest and best aspects, throughout not only the West, but the whole country.

Assoon as Mr. Page could put a new building on the old site they occupied it. Here, in refitting, they were the first booksellers in the country to adopt an idea from the great public libraies in putting up galleries around their high walls, thus gaining much additional shelving.

In July, 1881, Edward Cook who had been identified with the book trade since 1859, when be became a clerk in the house of S. C. Griggs & C., was admitted to the firm, which, on May I. 1883, removed to the corner of Wahash Avenue and Madison Street, where it had fitted up a building which is generally admitted to be the largest, best appointed, and most beautiful bookstore in America.

The building is 72x150 feet and the firm occupies its entire six floors; the first floor is devoted to a large retail trade, the second floor mainly to the offices, book-keepers, cashiers, etc., and the remainder of the building to the wholesale trade. We have here sketched the origin and growth of a really great and successful book-store, a store which has been for years, and is to-day, the central resort of the scholars and readers, the wealth and culture of the north-

West

To analyze the history of this firm, and to learn the secret which has here produced so fine a success in a field where so many others, able and enterprising, have failed and gone down, would be an interesting study. Perhaps it may be found in the taste and judgment which have always selected and offered to the public the best and the lasting in literature. It has not followed, but led, the public taste. Fine and rare editions of the best books have been bought is large quantities from the Eastern publishers, and imported from abroad, books which would sever be inquired for, but which once seen, readily secured purchasers. The stock is made and kept as well-nigh complete as is possible, so that every want may be supplied.

Perhaps, too, the courtesy noticeable in all the clerks and assistants may have much to do with it. Visitors are never importuned to buy, but are treated as welcome guests by all, from proprietors to errand boys. As early as 1874 the firm provided, in the centre of the store, a retired space railed off and furnished with chairs and soias, where visitors could examine, at leisure, any works previous to buying them—an innovation which the leading book-stores throughout the country have since imitated.

Though the sale of school-books—formerly a large item of their trade—has gone chiefly into the hands of the publishers' agents, their book sales have steadily increased year by year, and now equal two thirds their entire trade, or more than a million dollars a year.

Although chiefly known as book-sellers, Jansen, McClurg & Co. are rapidly building up a publishing trade of no small dimensions, and of a high character. Their beautifully-printed series of "Tales from Foreign Tongues," embracing translations of Max Müller's charming "Memories" and Lamartine's "Graziella, has attracted wide attention. Their series of "Biographies of Musiciaus," containing lives of Mozart, Beethoven, Haydn, Wagner, and Liszt, has become standard, and their careful translations of the brilliant "Surgeon's Stories" of Professor Topelius are making the English reading public acquainted with one of the world's few great masters of historical fiction-one who is likely to take his seat firmly as next in genius and fascination to Sir Walter Scott. Among their single volumes, Hon. I. N. Arnold's "Life of Benedict Arnold," Hon. E. B. Washburne's "Life of Governor Coles," Mrs. Richardson's "English Literature," Schmidt's "Theories of Darwin," Coxe's "Tales of Ancient Greece," and Miss Kirkland's "History of France" well worthy of mention.

They rank among the largest direct importers of English books in this country, and their prices for books of this class are frequently lower than those of their Eastern competitors.

As the representative house of the North-West for forty years, the citizens of Chicago point the visitor to the great book-store of Jansen, McClurg & Co., not merely as the symbol of the city's growth and prosperity, but as proof that, in their constantly accelerating strides to material and commercial supremacy, they have not neglected the furniture of the mind nor ignored the culture of books.

came to Chicago resolved to build up the largest book-selling estab shurent in the world, and though he may not have reached the height of his ambition, he was unquestionably, for more than a quarter of a century during the forming period of our history, the moulding spirit among book-sellers, and did much to give Chicago its pre-eminence in the book trade of the West. St. Louis was 200 years old, had many men of culture, and fifty times the wealth of Chicago when Mr. Griggs first pitched his tent here. Why is St. Louis to-day so far behind Chicago as a book mart? Because she has had no leading, enthusing spirit in the book trade to lift her out of the atmosphere of Sleepy Hollow when Time struck the hour for sunrise. Rev. Dr. Rylance, formerly rector of St. James's, but now of New York, in a sermon in 1869 dwelt at length, with great force, upon the moral influence exerted in this community by Griggs's book-store, especially in forming the character of the young.

Since the dissolution of the old firm, Mr. Griggs, in connection with Mr. John C. Buckbee, who is the "Co.," has been a large publisher of college text-books and standard literature, including the Greek and Latin text-books of Dr.

Boise, Dr. D'Ooge, Professor Jones, and Professor Stevens; Foster's "Prehistoric Races," Welsh's "English Literature," Anderson's various works in Norse literature, Dr. Alexander Winchell's ethnological, geological, and scientific works, Robert's "Rules of Order," now in its fiftieth thousand; Professor Mathew's works, which have reached a sale of 120,000 volumes; the works of Dr. Benjamin F. Taylor, and many others. The long list of standard publications shows the advance made in the higher walks of literature, And it is a matter of local pride that Chicago publishes more works of a high order than all other cities west of New York, no Greek text-books being published west of the Hudson except those published by S. C. Griggs came here from Philadelphia and opened a book-store at No. 146 Lake Street in 1842. In 1848 Brautigan sold to Joseph Keen, Jr., and William B. Keen, and the style of the firm was J. Keen, Jr., & Brothers. In 1851 they were at No. 161 Lake Street. From 1852 to 1856 they were at No. 146 Lake Street. In 1856 Lee, of Philadelphia, became a partner, and the firm was Keen & Lee, at No. 143 Lake Street. In 1857 Lee died, and Keen continued the business alone at No. 148 Lake Street, and was there in 1863. W. W. Danenhower, No. 123 Lake Street, from 1851 to 1856. He edited The National Citizen at No. 50 Clark Street in 1857. He is father of the Arctic explorer, and went to Washington, D. C., in 1858.

BRAUTIGAN & KEEN

Gustavus Braunhold, book-binder, No. 98 Lake Street, 1851; Braunhold & Sonne, No. 98 Lake Street, 1852; No. 40 Clark Street, 1853; Nos. 51 and 53 La Salle Street, 1855 to 1858; Charles Sonne, 1858. Hewson & Denison, 1851-1852. Part of a from Cincinnati, opened a full stock of school, miscellaneous, law, and medical books, and stationery, in 1852, at No. 135 Lake Street, under the name of D. B. Cooke & Co. Hu had such a stock as was suited to the Eastern cities, but was told that he could not sell such expensive books here. But he did sell them readily, showing that the tastes of Western people were not different from those of Eastern His trade increasing, in 1856 he bought out A. H. Burley & Co.'s stock of books and sought larger quarters at No. 112 Lake Street. Was burned out in 1857, and then went to a small store on the west side of La Salle Street, between Lake and South Water Streets. In December, 1857, he moved to a new store in Portland block, working hard to get in before Christmas. September, 1858, he moved to No. III Lake Street, directly opposite the old stand. September 4th, 1860, he sold out to Mr. E. B. Myers, and engaged with the firm of S. C. Griggs & Co., at Nos. 39 and 41 Lake Street, first as clerk, and in 1860 as partner. After they were burned out in 1868, he became one of the firm of W. B. Keen, Cooke & Co., at Nos. 113 and 115 State Street. Were burned out in 1871. Occupied temporary quarters on the lake shore, and returned to their old quarters as soon as a new store was built on the old site. Went out of the business in 1876.

OLD BOOKS WITH NEW TITLES. From the Nation, June 26.

THE issuing of old books with new titles must be a profitable business if we can judge of the matter by the frequency with which one firm of publishers resort to the practice. G. W. Carleton & Co., of this city, have just issued four anonymous novels, which they advertise as "New Summer Novels." To all appearances they are new, having copyright notices and dates of 1884, and with no intimation on the title pages that they are old books. The names of the four are: "A Faithful Lover;" "Fettered, yet Free;" "Love's Warfare;" and "Rival Charms." The first is a reissue of "The Rangers and Regulators of the Tanaha," by A. W. Arrington, published in 1856; the second is "Undercurrents of Wall Street," by R. B. Kimball, 1862; the third is "'Twixt Hammer and Anvil," by Frank Lee Benedict, 1876; and the fourth consists of two stories by Annie Edwardes, called "A Blue Stocking," 1877, and "A Vagabond Heroine," 1873. The author of a work, in publishing a new edition, may change the title to one more suitable to the book, if the change is not concealed, but here there is no question of this kind. The titles have been altered, and all evidence removed of the original names, evidently for the purpose of palming off on the unsuspecting purchaser books which he may have bought and read years ago. The only method, apparently, to protect the book-buyer from such practices is to give such publicity to these publishing methods as will stop the sale of the books, and so render the practice unprofitable.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

PROF. BEERS is said to have accumulated much valuable material for his "Life of N. P. Willis." The poet's family have given him the use of many letters written to him by English men and women most distinguished in letters and society forty years ago.

J. C. GOLDSMITH, author of "Himself Again," novel to appear in a few days, in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, will be better recognized perhaps, by journalists at least, as for many years the famous "P. I. Man" of the New York Herald, which being interpreted means, the editor who had charge of the "Personal Intelligence" column.

IT will be glad news to Rev. C. H. Spurgeon's many admirers to hear that he is again at work upon "The Treasury of David." He writer Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls, his authorized pub lishers in this country, that the seventh and last volume of this great work, which has been so long delayed by reason of sickness, will, he hopes, be ready for issue before the close of the present year.

FRANCIS S. DRAKE believes that he ha learned the names of 100 of the persons who took part in the famous "tea party" in Boston harbor, December 14, 1773, and he will embod his information about them in a small quarto which he has nearly prepared for publication under the title of "Tea Leaves." The materia is mostly gathered from documents and bic graphical notes which have not hitherto appeare in print. The volume will contain portraits c Warren and Revere, and views of the wharf an vessels.

SIR CHARLES GAVAN DUFFY is to edit a series of Irish Nationalist publications based on the lines laid down by the Young Ireland party of 1848, the object of which is to be the infusion of a new national spirit into the Irish people, while not openly opposing Mr. Parnell and his party. Sir Duffy has secured the services of well-known Irish writers and politicians. Mr. John O'Leary will contribute to the series two volumes—"The Life of Theobald Wolfe Tone," and a sketch of Fenianism. Thomas Clarke Luby, one of the I.R.B. Council of Three in 1865, will be another contributor, while Sir Charles himself is preparing a life of Thomas Davis, the Irish Nationalist poet.

M. Ernest Renan is about to publish a new book under the title, "Nouvelles Études d'Histoire Religieuse." In the preface, M. Renan seems to promise the world a volume of a still more novel character. He says: "Some persons having told me of the satisfaction with which they have read certain passages of my writings, and have drawn edification and consolation from the same, I have thought of collecting those passages and publishing them in a little volume to be called 'Lectures Pieuses.' I should divide it into fifty-two parts for the fifty-two Sundays of the year. For each Sunday I would give an extract from the Gospels and from the Fathers of the spiritual life, to be followed by a prayer and a short passage for edification and comfort, after the fashion of François de Sales."

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, Mass. — FRANK C. HERRICK, formerly with Lee & Shepard, has succeeded to the business formerly carried on by Mr. Spiain, at the Parker House.

HALIFAX, N. S.— Buckley & Allen, wholesale and retail stationers and booksellers, have dissolved partnership. Thomas C. Allen continues the business.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Joseph A. Shaw, forberly of the firm of Shaw & Swarts, has made his headquarters for the present at the bookstore of S. Rider, 17 Westminster Street, where he will two prompt attention to all orders that may be reat to him.

ROCKLAND, ME. — R. H. Burnham & Co., booksellers, etc., have dissolved partnership. R. H. Burnham continues the business.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

C. N. CASPAR, Milwaukee, is preparing a list of the dealers in antiquarian and second-hand books in the United States, and requests that all connected with these branches send him their addresses, giving particulars as to what are their specialties, etc.

ROBERTS BROS, have just ready "On History and the Study of History," by William P. Altimon, Professor of English and History in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a visable little manual, full of hints and suggestions.

CHARLES A. RINGLER, bookseller and stationer. Pittsburg, Pa., died on Tuesday, the 17th alt, after a brief illness. He was attacked with presumonia on Friday, the 13th. His funeral kok place on Thursday, June 19, and was attended by the members of the Pittsburg book and stationery trade in a body.

A. C. Armstrong & Son, in addition to the works of Edgar Allan Poe, noticed in our last issue, announce the following in preparation: a new book by the author of "The Cruise of the Snow Bird," being the further adventures of the Snow Bird crew, entitled "Wild Adventures Round the Pole;" a new library edition of Josephus in three volumes; "Anecdotes Illustrative of new Testament Texts," a new volume in their Clerical Library; a new line of the standard English poets in a unique style of binding; and two new juveniles—"The Crusoes of Guiana," by Louis Boussenaud; and "The Children's Forget-me-not," a handsome quarto with colored illustration.

CLARK BRADEN, 913 Pine St., St. Louis, Mo., has in press "The Braden-Kelly Debate on Mormonism," held in Kirtland, Lake Co., Ohio, in which the following propositions are discussed: I. Is the Book of Mormon of divine origin, and worthy of the confidence and acceptance of all Christian people? 2. Is the church, of which I, Clark Braden, am a member, the Church of Christ, and identical in faith, teaching, organization, ordinances, worship, and practice, with the Church of Christ, as it was left completed by the Apostles of Christ? 3. Is the Reorganized Church of Latter-Day Saints the true Church of God in fact, and accepted of Him? The volume will be ready, probably, July 1.

GINN, HEATH & Co. have ready this week, "A Sanskrit Grammar, including both the Classical Language, and the Older Dialects of Veda and Brahmana," by Prof. William Dwight Whitney; "The Expurgated Family Shake-speare," by Dr. Henry N. Hudson, in 23 vols.; "First Book of Geology," by N. S. Shaler, Professor of Palecntology, Harvard University; an epitome of well-selected facts that serves as a key to the knowledge of the earth; "A Method of English Composition," by Prof. T. Whiting Bancroft, of Brown University, a new attempt to methodize instruction in English composition, to which is added lists of classified themes and reference lists for reading, with hints from experienced librarians.

D. LOTHROP & Co. have a very extensive list of publications for the coming holiday season. Among the most important are "The Golden West, as seen by the Ridgeway Club," by Margaret Sidney; "A Family Flight around Home," by Rev E. E. Hale and Susan Hale; a new edition, with an elegant cover, and 100 fine illustrations, of "Æsop's Fables," with versification by Clara Doty Bates; "Pictorial Decorations," illustrated by Garratt, Lungren, Hassam, Barnes, and others; "It is the Christmas Time," an illustrated volume of the most popular Christmas hymns; "A Romance in Song," a translation of Heine's "Lyrical Interludes," by Franklin Johnson; and Wordsworth's "Ode to Immortality," profusely illustrated by Garratt, St. John Harper, Smedley, and Miss Humphrey.

"Few people," says the Evening Post, "are acquainted with the curious circumstances under which the novel of 'Called Back' has advanced from obscurity to its present extraordinary notoriety. The name on its title-page, 'Hugh Conway,' is the nom de guerre of Mr. F. J. Fargus, a member of a firm of auctioneers in Bristol, England. 'Called Back' appeared originally in a Bristol publication of local repute only, named Arrowsmith's Almanac. Somewhat to the publisher's surprise, calls for this began to come from many quarters, and several editions proved inadequate to supply the growing demaid. As soon as it became clear that Called Back was the attraction in the number, a separate edition of it was issued at the low price of a shilling. This came to the notice of Mr. Comyns Carr, the editor of the English Illustrated Magazine, who saw the dramatic possibilities in it, and soon afterward a highly eulogistic review in Mr. Labouchère's newspaper, Truth, brought the book prominently before the public. Edition after edition has been issued, until now the circulation has reached its eightieth thousand.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SON have in press, for early publication, a new novel by Miss Virginia "The Fainalls W. Johnson, entitled, Tipton" - the scene of which is laid in New England, and which is promised to be as happy in the delineation of character as any of her former books; also the fifth volume of Stories by American Authors which contains Henry James's story "A Light Man," which has been tale, Park Benjamin's "End of New York,"
E. P. Mitchell's "Tachypomp," George Arnold's "Why Thomas was Discharged," and
"Yatil," by F. D. Millet. They have also made arrangements with the author to publish an American edition of Mr. John Rae's admirable book, "Contemporary Socialism," which is just issued in England, and is attracting such wide and unusual attention from the English press. Among the chapters that follow an admirable historical analysis of the general subject, are those on Ferdinand La-salle, Karl Marx, the "Socialists of the Chair," the Christian Socialists, Russian Nihilism, and a chapter on the theories of Henry George. Later in the season they will publish Prof.

Reville's (Hibbert) lectures on "The Ancient Religions of Mexico and Peru.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation popular editions of "Pepys's Diary," in ten volumes, substantially uniform in size with the Eversky Kingsley, and of the "Poetical Works of Mrs. Browning." in five volumes. These will be printed from the plates of their Editions de luxe. published a short time ago, and will be gotten up in the best style possible. They have also under way E. P. Roe's new novel, "A Young Girl's Wooing," which was first announced in 1882; the second volume of Woltmann's and Woermann's "History of Painting," which finishes the work, bringing the subject down to modern times; Church's "Stories of the Persian War," and "Roman Life in Days of Cicero." uniform with the previous volumes of this author; a limited large paper edition of Main's "CCC. Sonnets;" "Raphael and the Farnes. ina," a quarto, with many illustrations, of which fuller particulars will be given later; "French "Etchers," a new volume similar to their "Group of Etchers" and "Score of Etchings," illustrating the French school; "The very Joyous, Pleasant and Refreshing History of the Feats, Exploits, Triumphs and Achievements of the Good Knight, without Fear and without Reproach, the Gentle Lord de Bayard," set forth in English by Edward Cockburn Kindersley, uniform in size with "Chronicle of the Cid" published last season, (illustrated); "The Merchan Vessel," by Chas. Nordhoff, a record of per sonal experience at sea by the author; a ner volume in the Elsie Series, entitled "Elsie ii Nantucket," and a new one in the Mildred Serie entitled "Mildred at Home;" "At any Cost, a story by Edward Garrett; and a number cadditions to their series of dollar novels an their popular juveniles.

AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE

For 1884 [Fifteenth Year].

COMPILED BY G. D. T. ROUSE.

The Educational Catalogue has been found so valuable to the Trade, not only as a finding list, but for circulation among educational customers, for the purpose of soliciting orders and saving at the same time much troublesome correspondence, that its permanent continuance is recognized as a necessity.

The catalogue this year follows the alphabetical system pronounced by the experience of the trade the most satisfactory for practical use. It includes a price-list arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject, so that the advantages of both a finding list for the trade and a class catalogue for the use of schools are combined. No other list in the market gives this practical combination.

The list has been entirely reset, to include the new books in their proper alphabetical order, and also to embody all the corrections of prices, omissions, or other errors in last year's catalogue.

Publishers' prices are in all cases given—retail, if retail (in first column); "net," if "net" (in second column); where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk. A carefully drawn explanation in the heading, to private buyers, adapts the catalogue to the use of the retail trade.

It should be understood that, of the regular retail-price publishers, only the retail price is given, and the net prices only of those publishers who make it a practice to mail net-price lists to schools—in fact, make their net prices their regular school-supply prices. This point is emphasized in order to meet the objections raised to the quotation of net prices.

It should be well considered that any attempt at withholding, from the educational public, what the publisher, through his agents, advertisements, lists, and circulars, takes special pains to make known, must be an unwise policy. It is not objectionable, but quite proper and legitimate, to charge the retail or mailing price for single copies of any book; but the Educational Catalogue is not generally given away to single-book customers. It is intended only for those who purchase for schools in quantities. Now any one putting himself on record by quoting fictious prices, or prices other than those quoted by the publisher (which prices, it is now understood, are generally still subject to a trade discount), necessarily must drive his school trade into the hands of those who solicit their orders from a catalogue, the prices of which tally with that of the publishers.

The following paragraph from a previous year's Educational Catalogue further elucidates the reasons for our strict adherence to publishers' prices: "Plainly, if it wished to sustain its official character, it was bound to respect the desire of those who have a right to stand by their prices, and who, should their established prices be disregarded, could by their public protest soon discredit the Educational Catalogue as well as those who handled it for circulation. At a time when the public mind, from causes so often discussed and lamented in these columns, is fast losing faith in honest prices, so far as books are concerned, it is of the utmost importance that there be one official list which can be consulted with confidence by the public, as well as by the trade.

In making up special orders for the Educational Catalogue, booksellers should bear in mind that it possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

For 1884 (Twelfth Year),

A Large 8vo, over 2500 pages. (Ready in September.)

The improvements of recent years in the Trade-List Annual have given such general satisfaction that there will be no change in the forthcoming volume (twelfth year) as to the essential features, which are:

- I. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS AND MANUFACTURERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm names.
- 2 A complete reprint of the "Publishers' Weekly" full title RECORD OF BOOKS published (inclusive of all the descriptive notes) from July 7, 1883, to June 28, 1884. In order to facilitate reference, it will be accompanied by a full INDEX, by which every book on record can be found, whether it is looked for under author, title, or subject.
- 3 The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1884, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

The price will be One Dollar per copy net, bound in cloth, or can be sent postpaid for One Dollar and a half net, payable in advance. The price of the volume will be raised after day of publication.

Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription rice ($1).

Hughes' New Wall Maps.

Prepared expressly for School Use under the personal Supervision of WILLIAM HUGHES, F.R.G.S. (late Proser of Geography in King's College, London). The NAMES are introduced with great judgment, and free from the same fault of overcrowding. The physical features are boldly and distinctly delineated, and the political boundaries carefully colored. They are adapted to any series of Geographies, no keys being required.

LAL

By William A. Hammond, M.D.

Few, probably, have had better opportunities for ctudying sharactive in the several strata of society, in different parts of the civilized world, and under all the various conditions of life, than the author of this book. It will be found that in "Lal" he has known how to avail himself of his advantages, that, moreover, he has had a story to tell, and that he has told it gracefully, forcibly, and dramatically.

Not the least interesting feature of the novel is that relating to the education of woman, and her ability to cultivate a science, even though it may present repulsive aspects, without losing the delicacy and refinement that belong to her. Dr. Hammond has discussed this as well as other social questions of the day with a boldness and a thoroughness that, it is believed, will be admired by the majority of readers, and that, though some may differ from him in his conclusions, few will fail to recognize the force with which the subject is presented.

Outlines of Psychology,

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO THE THEORY OF EDUCATION. A Text-Book for Colleges. By JAMES SULLY, A.M., Examiner for the Moral Sciences Tripos, in the University of Cambridge, etc., etc. Crown 8vo, 712 pages, cloth. Price, $3.

"A book that has been long wanted by all who are engaged in the business of teaching and desire to master its principle. In the first place, it is an elaborate treatise on the human mind, of independent merit as representing the latest work of all schools of psychological inquiry. But of equal importance, and what will be prized as a new and most desable feature of a work on mental science, is the educational applications that are made throughout in separate text ad type, so that with the explication of mental phenomena, there comes at once the application to the art of education."

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE Annual Autumn Trade Sale of books, wationery, etc., will take place at Geo. A. Leaviu's in September. Invoices of lists of books should be sent in by the 20th inst.

S. W. Green's Son has just ready a novel childed, "A Double Life; or, Starr Cross," by Herbett E. Chase, a mixture of the impossible and the conceivable. The mysteries of mesmerism, of clairvoyance, and of the future possibilities of scientific research are all made to do good service.

- D. APPLETON & Co, will publish early next week the anxiously-expected novel, "Lal," by Dr. Wm. A. Hammond. The author of this volume has had opportunities for studying character in the several strata of society, and in different parts of the civilized world, afforded to but few men, and if the readiness of his pen serves him in this direction as well as it has in the direction of his professional writings, a most interesting work may be looked for.
- J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have just ready a new and thoroughly revised edition of Lewis's "American Sportsman," which contains a large amount of useful information for sportsmen, notes on shooting, and the habits of the game birds and wild fowls of America; also, Sewall's "Prayer-Book and Hymnal," compiled and arranged by Rev. Frank Sewall and Rev. W. G. Day, for the use of the New Church. They announce as just ready, E. Cobham Brewer's "Dictionary of Miracles," which is considered as the best work the author has written.
- J. R. Osgood & Co. have just ready, "Song and Story," by Edgar Fawcett, which contains his most recent productions, such as "The Republic," an ode read at Harvard College in 1870 before the Phi Beta Kappa Society; "The River," a long lyrical poem read at Yale, and a poem in blank verse entitled "Alan Eliot," which the author considers in many respects his best and strongest dramatic poem. They have also just issued a second group of Round Robin Novels, in paper covers, including "Homoselle," by Mary F. Tiernan; "Damen's Ghost," by Edw. L. Bynner; "Rosemary and Rue," by Lizzie W. Champney; and "Madame Lucas," the authorship of which will probably remain a secret.

IOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE NEW YORK NEWS Co. have become publisher's agents for The Figaro, a new pictorial paper of the order of Puck and The Judge, published in New Orleans.

THE Century will commence in the August number a series of three papers by Mr. W. J. Stillman, recording the experiences of a classical expedition undertaken for the magazine. His object was to trace the wanderings of Ulysses, as described in Homer's "Odyssey," and to identify, as far as it is possible to-day, the localities visited by the Ithacan king. The articles will have archæological value, as well as special interest for modern travellers. illustrations have been drawn by Mr. Fenn, from sketches or photographs made by Mr. Stillman, who has closely described the localities as they appear to-day. Mr. Stillman made his journey in a yacht, in order to examine at leisure all the localities in question. At Ithaca he discovered an archaic inscription of great interest, a fragment of which had previously been found by Schliemann, and the method of the latter's investigations is inci-dentally spoken of. The distinguished Italian epigraphist, Comparetti, to whom the inscription was referred for restoration and translation, makes it the subject of a report to the Italian Academy, as one of the most interesting and among the earliest of archaic inscriptions, being, in fact, the earliest known in the Doric Greek of Ithaca.

"The book pursues the deductive rather than the inductive method, and so is slightly foreign to the habit of the Anglo-American mind; but the author's thought is so keen and stimulating and his argument so close, that those who are most strongly opposed to the method of the book, may learn much from it. NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

CAMERON, AMBERG & Co., Chicago and New York, have sent us the sixth catalogue (1834) of their "Cabinet Letter Files," in which the latest improvements in their construction are to the notice of all those who admire fine printing. The woodcuts, of which there are quite a number, show to as good effect as the finest steel eagraving could. The cover is of a cream tint, the title, in gothic type, in the centre, with a band of blue and gold above and below. [581, 46].

WARD, LOCK & CO., 31 Bond St., have issued a catalogue of their standard works, illustrated, and fine art volumes, scientific and educational works, books of reference, books for school and college prizes, juvenile gift books, etc. (59 p. 8°.)

H. D. CHAPIN, Chicago, has published a has-list of books on fishing, shooting, poultry, best the garden, the horse, the farm, architecters. (§ p. 16³.)

Brentano Bros., 5 Union Sq., N. Y., have seed, with their imprint, the catalogue of works on rural sports, pastimes, etc., prepared by Scribner & Welford, and noticed in our issue of June 7. They have also just issued a "Catalogue of Books" published and controlled by Brentano Bros., N. Y., Chicago and Washington, (5 p. 16°); and a "Monthly List of New Publications," a handy little catalogue, for the vest-pocket, of all the recent important publications in fiction and general literature and guide books.

JULY 12, 1884.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries" thankfully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

ANOTHER COPYRIGHT FAILURE.

AGAIN Congress has adjourned without making any legislative progress toward the measure demanded by every consideration of justice and expediency, International Copyright. We feel strongly that every author, every publisher, and every reader interested in the promotion of justice and of good literature has a right to feel aggrieved that the last effort for some measure of relief has come to naught. While it is true that the present has proved almost a do-nothing Congress, we believe, nevertheless, that a welldirected and vigorous effort during the session would have succeeded in giving us some approach to justice in this matter. And we regret therefore the more the position taken at the outset by several authors, and later on by the executive committee of the Copyright League. General union on some measure, which would, at least, have been a step in the right direction, would, we think, have not been without practical results.

There is likely to be presented, at the next session of Congress, a bill so drawn as to cover the general principle and the limitations suggested from different sides, and so shaped as to permit modification, without endangering the general measure, whatever be the specific opposition of this or that class of those interested. Such a bill would probably have been presented to the present Congress but for the fact that the Dorsheimer bill, having the right of way, was entitled to full discussion without confusion of the issue by the presentation of a rival measure. The teelings of the immediate promoters of the Dorsheimer bill were so strong in the belief that it was possible to pass this measure, more or less amended, that we did not feel justified in pushing forward on the lines suggested by the WEEKLY of April 26, 1884. But we believe now that had the leading members of the Copyright League and other friends of international copyright been willing to unite in a strong effort such as was then suggested, we might at this moment be a year nearer the desired result than we are to-day. In preparation for the next session this journal will do all that it can to harmonize the several interests, not simply in behalf of publishers, but in behalf of justice to authors, on a bill, which, while it may not meet fully the desires of all, will in no wise surrender the principles for which many of us are fighting, and will be in practicable shape to be passed.

Another thing which was not done by the present Congress was the proper provision for the Library of Congress. The national collection of books is left in its present dangerous and disgraceful condition, and there is no hope of relief until the next session. By that time it is to be hoped that Congress will see the absolute necessity of making some provision for our superb national library, and we shall gladly aid next fall in promoting a memorial to Congress, by the trade and by authors, in behalf of a suitable building for the library.

CHICAGO'S BOOK TRADE.

SELLERS, AND PRINTERS.

THE history of the subscription-book trade, through which alone the best, most useful, and costly publications can be obtained by persons of moderate means, is both interesting and instructive. Rightly understood, the mission of the book agent is a beneficent one, disseminating among the masses the choicest art, historical, and miscellaneous publications, making the desire for useful knowledge grow by what it feeds on, and supplementing, to an extent little appreciated, the free-school system, for adults as well as children.

The instalment plan of selling books is a graft from England, is not over thirty years old in this country, was first thoroughly organized here by Haywood & Crean, of New York, in 1869, and some of our leading subscription-book publishers served their apprenticeship there. Within twenty years great improvements have been made in the dress and style of publications, and a marvellous growth in this branch of the book trade has occurred. In the West, especially, this growth almost exceeds belief. Ten years ago a few houses and a few thousand dollars represented the agencies and capital employed in this trade. Now, a large number of firms, millions of capital, and thousands of agents traversing the Western States and taking subscriptions for all classes of standard works, from the cheap popular history, in one volume, to the encyclopædia in many volumes, and art works costing hundreds of dollars, represent the subscription book trade of Chicago alone. It is carried on so quietly and makes so little outside show, that few are aware of its magnitude. few office rooms for headquarters, a limited number of correspondence, shipping, and office clerks, and storage-room, comprise the central equipment of a business which reaches to all parts of the United States, the Canadas, and even to Australia, India, and the Sandwich Islands. The central offices have State organizations, which employ canvassers and manage the business for their respective States, under the control of the central head. There are two classes of dealers-those who sell for cash, and those who sell on the instalment plan-so much per week or month till the book is paid for. Most of the books sold by subscription are large and valuable works, and they help the general dealers by cultivating a taste for books and awakening a desire for more.

A very significant feature of this trade is the constantly increasing demand for the very best class of literature, in all its branches. The subscription-book publishers have invested large sums, and made great advances in mechanical, literary, and artistic excellence in the production of their works, and by immense sales at small profits have reaped their reward, and at the same time have furnished the public with the best and most costly works at lower prices than would be possible on the old plan.

This branch of the book business is a trade of itself, to be learned as any other trade. It deals directly with the consumer instead of the middle man, and while the failures have not been fewjust as in other trades-those who have become prominent as successful subscription-book men have, almost without exception, been agents, and have risen from the ranks with a thorough knowledge of the details gained from actual ex-

SUBSCRIPTION-BOOK HOUSES.

Baird & Dillon, cash and instalment subscription-book publishers, are recognized landmarks in the subscription-book trade of this country; Mr. Baird, with headquarters at the Lakeside Building, Chicago, cultivating the territory south and west of Toronto, Pittsburg, and New Orleans, and Mr. Dillon, at No. 25 Park Place, New York, supplying the Eastern States.

They began business in the instalment branch at Akron, O., May 20th, 1876, and after working that region went to Buffalo, and then canvassed the chief towns in Central New York. Opened in Detroit in the fall of 1876; in Chicago, August, 1877, and in New York in 1878. Western exceeds their Eastern business, the St. Louis trade alone averaging $100,000 a year. They sell to fifteen instalment houses and are represented in every city of 15,000 in the United States. The cash subscription feature of their business is one of marvellous growth, rivalling the instalment branch in extent of business done, territory covered, and number of agents and representatives.

Messrs. Baird & Dillon carry a stock of $300,000 to $400,000, employ fifteen hundred canvassers, and do a business of $20,000 a week. They have the exclusive sale of "Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms," make large sales of Milton's and Dante's works, illustrated by Doré, and other standard works, and have an immense trade in family Bibles-of which they publish many styles—and in photograph albums, which they import from Germany. One of the most valuable books they publish is "The Farmers' Complete Encyclopædia." A house that began business in the centennial year, carrying its headquarters at first in its gripsack from city to city, and has grown in eight years to such gigantic proportions that its yearly sales of books alone amount to $1,000,000, is worthy to stand as the model representative of the indastry, sagacity, enterprise, and thrift of the subscription-book trade of Chicago.

The Western Publishing House, L. W. Yaggy, proprietor, and James J. West, manager, the leading cash subscription-book publishing house in Chicago, began business in February, 1874, on the north-east corner of Clark and Randolph streets. In November of the same year, T. L. Haines became a partner and continued five years, when Mr. Yaggy bought him out. For two years they sold the works of T. S. Arthur and J. M. Stoddard, and in the mean time got up "Our Home Counsellor." In 1876 they prepared and published "The Royal Path of Life," which proved a great success, nearly 800,000 copies of it having been sold. Mr. Yaggy travelled in Europe and got up "The Museum of Antiquity"-1000 pages with copious illustrations—of which he sent to his branch house in New York on one order 28,500 copies, which made seven car-loads of books. Two books were issued by this house last year—"Wit and Humor of the Age," by Mark Twain, Bob Burdette, Josh Billings, Alexander Sweet, and Eli Perkins, and the "Practical Home Physician." the best medical work for the family ever published—a book of 1100 pages, with forty colored plates—written by four of the most eminent physicians in the West, which cost $17,000 to get ready for the press. This book is being introduced in all the English speaking countries of Europe. The business abroad is conducted through the branch house in Guelph, Ont., which has a duplicate set of all the plates and manufactures all the books for the European market. The main house here manufactures its own books, and last year made sales amounting to a million dollars.

The Coburn Publishing Company, Nos. 96 to 100 Metropolitan Block, Mr. A. L. Coburn, manager and treasurer, sells only its own publications, owning the electrotype plates and copyrights, and has a larger line of first-class subscription books than any house in the West, Mr. Coburn began business here in 1877, by publishing a large quarto volume on American history, elegantly illustrated with steel plates, entitled "The Two Americas."

His "America," planned and published by him in 1881, written by Professor Newman, of Ripon College, comprising 1100 pages, and giving all the principal events in chronological order, is the only complete encyclopædia of American history and biography extant, and has been declared by the highest literary authorities, as well as by the leading presses of the country, to be the best reference book on American history ever published.

Nine large leading books on subjects of general interest, ably written and elegantly bound, attest their claim to be pre-eminently a publishing house. Within the last three years they have produced more valuable original books of genuine literary merit than all the leading subscription houses here combined.

A unique feature of the business of this house is the production of manuscripts and electroplates for other book houses. Being admirably equipped with an able corps of talented writers and experienced proof-readers for this work, it does a large business in this line. The profits of their business are invested in the production of new books, instead of "corner lots," with the purpose of building up a great publishing house that shall fitly represent the subscription-book trade of the West in its ripest development. Their books are already widely distributed throughout the Union by their branch houses. and their imprint gives them currency like the stamp on the "coin of the realm.

The Hill Standard Book Company, Thomas

E. Hill, a large and responsible subscriptionbook publisher, proprietor, began business at No. 103 State Street in 1868. Mr. Hill has produced the best and most popular books known to the trade, and is constantly getting out something new, attractive, and useful. His "Manual of Social and Business Forms," for the production of which he was specially prepared—now in its 270th thousand—is the best book of its class extant, and has been prolific of poor imitations and bad plagiarisms. It has passed through forty editions, has been seven times revised, enlarged, and improved, and is as popular as ever. In 1880 he got up "Hill's Album of Biography and Art," with portraits and sketches of notable individuals of all ages, containing a vast amount of information in a small compass.

Prominent among Chicago's publishers is A. P. T. Elder, proprietor of the Elder Publishing Company, No. 364 Wabash Avenue. Though young, he has built up a business covering every State and Canada. His long experience as a canvasser enables him to produce the most practical and useful books, such as "The Heart of the World" and "The Lives and Graves of Our Presidents," having the largest sales of any subscription books sold. His general and State agents have all been successful canvassers, and hold their places by merit. His manager, Mr. Moore, has worked his way up in a few years from a canvasser to his present position. Mr. Elder believes that when authors understand the subscription plan they will have their works sold in no other way. Rev. Dr. Todd says on this subject: "Selling books by subscription is in its infancy. It is the great system for creating an enlightened community." Several journalists are negotiating with Mr. Elder for the publication of a monthly of a high literary character to be sold only by subscription.

G. W. Borland & Co., cash subscription-book publishers, No. 103 State Street, have been in the business twelve years—seven in Peoria, five in Chicago. Three books are handled—"The World," "Gaskell's Compendium," and the "Imperial Highway," the sales of which are twelve thousand copies a month. Mr. Borland is also President of the Chicago Instalment Book Company, which sells on the instalment plan. They publish everything they sell except such works as Webster's Dictionary and Chambers's Encyclopædia, and their sales amount to $250,000 a year.

The People's Publishing Company, H. L. & D. H. Kochersperger, proprietors, began business at No. 103 State Street, July, 1883, on the cash plan, chiefly. They moved to No. 15 Washington Street May 1st, 1884. The house has had a practical training and experience in the subscription-book business, which, supplementing excellent business capacity and requisite capital, has already secured for it a large and successful trade, extending to all parts of the country, the same day's mail often bringing orders from the extreme opposite points of the Union. The company handles the "People's Cyclopædia,' and the "People's Illustrated and Descriptive Family Atlas of the World," a very popular work, which is its exclusive property, copyrighted in 1884. This is an energetic, enterprising, responsible, practical, pushing house.

The National Publishing Company, Philadelphia, established a branch here in 1866, now at

No. 130 East Adams Street, for the publication of pictorial books, family Bibles, and albums. The company has a large Bible trade.

Moses Warren came here as the subscription-book agent of the Appletons in 1869. He had a desk at No. 80 Dearborn Street, and began business the day after he was burned out in 1871, soon recovering his losses. In 1873, at No. 103 State Street, he published "Sheahan's Historical Atlas" and "Hill's Manual," and in 1875 "Treasures of Science" and "History and Literature." Surviving publishers speak thus of him: "Hadn't a dishonest hair in his head." "He gave thousands of dollars to his employes in distress." I would give $25,000 to have him alive and well to-day." Such men don't overflow the business profession. He left an estate of $200,000.

A. S. Barnes & Co. at Nos. 34 and 36 Madison Street, a branch of the New York house, which publishes the National series of school books, have been here seventeen years. J. R. Casselberry, Nos. 129 and 131 Wabash Avenue. Western agents for the "Encyclopædia Britanica." Fairbanks, Palmer & Co., No. 135 Madison Street, are subscription-book publishers. The number of the subscription-book agencies is so great that it would be impossible to enumerate them all within the limits of this article.

Belford & Clarke, Nos. 315 to 321 Wabash Avenue, large publishers of books, refuse to give information concerning their business, saying they had rather pay for withholding information respecting them than for publishing it; and that their business was such that a notice would do them harm rather than good. The Times thinks it due to Chicago to say that they supply the train newsboys on all the railroads of this country with books, and that as the proprietary publishers of 'Peck's Bad Boy" they were not born "to blush unseen and waste their sweetness on the desert air." R. S. Pease and the Caxton Publishing Company, in the same building, are in the same category.

A YEAR BOOK OF AMERICAN ART.

In connection with the art catalogue of the fourth annual autumn exhibition, at Boston, of the New England Institute, there will be issued a Year Book that is to present by means of suitable graphic arts, the highest American art products of the year. The illustrations will be accompanied by text, and the book itself as an example of paper, typography, printing, and binding is designed to be a specimen of American bookmaking unexcelled hitherto. The following subjects will be treated more or less fully: Oil Painting, Water Color Painting, Etching, Lithography, Black and White Drawing, Wood Engraving, Pastel, Steel Engraving, Brass Work. Iron Work, Architecture, Interior Decoration, Silver and Gold Work, Glass, Ceramics, An Books, Bookmaking, Textiles, Mural Decoration, Art Needlework, Furniture. The work will be issued in the following styles: The édition de grand luxe (limited to forty copies), will have extra wide margins, appropriately adorned by hand illumination and ruling, and three sets of proofs on India, Japan, and plate papers, all in a richly bound portfolio, complimentary copies of which will be inscribed and forwarded according to official etiquette to the constituted representatives, for such purposes, of the governments of England, France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Sweden, Russia, Switzerland, Austria, Japan, Norway, and to the President of the United States. The édition de luxe (limited to one hundred copies), will have wide margins, two sets of proofs in a portfolio. The regular-edition (two thousand copies) will contain all that has been referred to above as contents. And the extra edition (four thousand copies) will contain a few illustrations besides the text and is intended for general sale as a catalogue. The "New England Institute Art Year Book for 1884," as the work will be entitled, has been suggested by the success of the catalogue of 1883. Mr. A. B. Turnure will have charge of the printing, and Mr. J. M. Little, Hotel Pelham, Boston, Mass., will furnish further particulars.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Boston, Mass.—Carl Schoenhof, importer and dealer in foreign books, has removed from store No. 146 to chambers at 144 "A" Tremont Street.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—Edward Perry, stationer, has admitted D. J. Touhey and W. F. Barragan to partnership, and the new firm will do business under the style of Edward Perry & Co.

CHICAGO.—We learn from Bradstreet's that G. W. Borland & Co., book publishers, have assigned to W. N. Law; that the Chicago Instalment Book Co. and George W. Borland & Co., the proprietors of it, were closed by sheriff on confessed judgments for $40,679, and both assigned to W. N. Law; and that Fairbanks, Palmer & Co., publishers, were closed by sheriff. It is said that the latter held paper of G. W. Borland & Co. for $42,000.

CLAREMONT, N. H.—The Claremont Manufacturing Co., says the Boston Post, has been attached by Boston creditors. The nominal assets are about $15,000 over the liabilities, but are in the shape of water power and real estate, which may prove of small value. The company owes some $8000 to the bank, about $4000 of which is secured by mortgage. No dividend has been paid for about fourteen years. The business carried on at present is mainly book and job printing and binding, though formerly a large and profitable part of the business was the manufacture of paper. A fire destroyed this portion of the mill, and, as the agent had neglected the insurance, the company was never in a condition to rebuild.

DATTON, OHIO.—Sullivan & Chancellor, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. J. M. Chancellor continues the business.

New York City.—Sypher & Co., the well-known dealers in bric-à-bruc and antiquities, propose to add a department of old books, which will be under the charge of J. O. Wright, formerly with John Wiley & Sons.

OSHKOSH, WIS.—Allen & Hicks, publishers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. J. Hicks succeeds to the business.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Shaw & Swarts, booksellers and stationers have sold out at auction to W. B. Swarts, agent.

TYRONE, PA.—Frank L. Beckel will open a new book, stationery, and music store, August to. He would be pleased to receive the latest catalogues and price-lists from publishers and manufacturers.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

BRYANT, STRATTON & SADLER, Baltimore, Md., will publish in August "Sadler's Inductive Arithmetic," which may be had in two parts or complete.

SAMUEL CARSON & Co., San Francisco, Cal., will publish this month "A California Pılgrimage, told in Verse, by One of the Pilgrims." The work does not purport to be a history of missions, but only what the title implies—a visit to the old shrines.

S. E. CASSINO & Co. have in press a volume on "Our Birds and their Haunts," by the Rev. J. H. Langville, of Buffalo. It will be a popular treatise on the birds of Eastern North America, much of the material for which has been gathered by the author from his personal observation.

GEORGE J. COOMBES, N. Y., has just ready, a limited edition of a volume of vers de société entitled, "From Grave to Gay." a selection from the complete poems of H. Cholmondeley-Pennell, author of "Puck on Pegasus," etc., with a portrait of the author etched by C. W. Sherborne.

CHAS. A. TRACY & Co., 927 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, have prepared a compact "Ready Reference List," for the use of those who wish to advertise schools, colleges, or other educational institutions. This list gives the circulation and the advertising prices of the different papers, so that persons can see at a glance how their wants can be best supplied. Messrs. Tracy & Co. make a specialty of arranging lists which shall cover any specified ground.

R. WORTHINGTON has in press his "Annual for 1884," which he claims will excel its predecessors in every respect, and, judging from advance sheets, we have no doubt that it will. This publication from the first has held its place in the front rank for the quantity and diversity of its reading matter and illustrations. He has also in press a handsome color-book entitled, "Seven Little Maids; or, the Birthday Week," a series of delicately colored sketches by Mary A. Lathbury, who also furnishes the verses for the book. It will be issued in various bindings, and in the conventional fringed style.

HENRY C. LEA'S SON & Co. will have ready shortly, the anxiously expected third edition of the "National Dispensatory," by Hillé and Maisch. The publishers announce that "the delay in its issue has been chiefly owing to the extreme care with which the work has been performed, the errors in the U. S. Pharmacopoeia forcing the authors to prove by actual experiment, the formulæ contained in that work. This edition will, therefore, not only be based on the latest pharmacopœia, but will actually, become practically a revised edition of that work also. Among other new and revised editions of standard works to be shortly forthcoming are Burnett's "Treatise on the Ear;" Green's "Pathology," a favorite text-book; "Diseases of the Throat and Nasal Passages," by Dr. J. Solis Cohen, almost entirely rewritten; a treatise on "Fractures and Dislocations," the classical work of Dr. Frank H. Hamilton, which has had the honor of being translated into several foreign languages; and finally, a new edition of the well-known treatise on surgery by Erichsen. The announcements of new books in preparation are unusually numerous. Among the most important are "Ophthalmic Science and Practice," by Henry Juler, the well-known London specialist on diseases This work will be illustrated of the eye. by a large number of very beautiful chromolithographs of microscopic drawings. A very practical help to the student is promised in a new "Manual of Chemistry," by Professor W. Simon M. D., of Baltimore; which is intended for beginners in pharmacy and medical chemistry to use in their laboratory work; Schreiber's well-known manual on massage, translated from the German by Dr. Walter Mendelson of New York; and a text-book on medical physics, a practically new subject, by Professor John C. Draper, which will be fully illustrated. Anything emanating from the study of the famous physiologist, Dr. John C. Dalton, is received by the medical profession with great respect, and as be has found something new to say about the history of the discovery of the circulation of the blood, the appearance of the little volume will be eagerly looked for.

"WE understand," says the London Athenaum, "that the memoirs of Robert Moffat, the famous African missionary and traveller, are being prepared by his only surviving son, Mr. John Smith Moffat, now resident at Graham's Town. Mr. T. Fisher Unwin has been instructed to solicit on his behalf any letters or other papers relating either to Dr. Moffat or to his wife which friends may be willing to place at his disposal for this purpose. All such documents should be addressed care of Mr. Unwin, 26 Paternoster Square. They will be carefully preserved and duly returned."

IT has been the desire of General Gordon that some definite account should be given of his theological and moral opinions, founded on papers and correspondence in the possession of an inti-mate friend in England. These have been confided to Mr. W. H. Mallock, and the result of his labor on them will appear in the July number of the Fortnightly Review.

For 1884 (Twelfth Year),

A Large 8vo, over 2500 pages. (Ready in September.)

The improvements of recent years in the Trade-List Annual have given such general satisfaction that there will be no change in the forthcoming volume (twelfth year) as to the essential features, which are:

- 1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS AND MANUFACTURERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm names.
- 2. A complete reprint of the "Publishers' Weekly" full title RECORD OF BOOKS published (inclusive of all the descriptive notes) from July 7, 1883, to June 28, 1884. In order to facilitate reference, it will be accompanied by a full INDEX, by which every book on record can be found, whether it is looked for under author, title, or subject.
- 3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1884, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

The price will be One Dollar per copy net, bound in cloth, or can be sent postpaid for One Dollar and a half net, payable in advance. The price of the volume will be mid after day of publication.

Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1).

Remittances should be made by check, money-order on New York, or registered letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be dispatched by express unpaid.

Parties so desiring can have their volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX IN-DEX"—having the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut—at the slight extra charge of 50 cents per copy.

THE SUPPLEMENT

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE.

The work of compiling the supplement to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE has progressed so far as to make the early completion and issue of the volume practicable and certain. The plan will follow that of the American Catalogue, giving the author and title-entries and the subject-entries in separate alphabets, but the two alphabets will be included in one volume. The author and title slips are already alphabeted, and the editorial revision has reached the letter M. It is probable that the SUPPLEMENT, which will cover all books recorded between July 1st, 1876, and July 1st, 1884, will include titles of over 20,000 books, and its practical value as an every-day working tool will almost exceed that of the CATALOGUE itself. The arrangements in progress for printing will enable the publication of the complete work in early fall, and it will be delivered to subscribers either in two parts, the first including author and title-entries, the second, subject-entries, or complete, as may seem expedient. In either event it will bind as one volume, about the thickness of the second volume of the American Catalogue. If delivered in two parts, it will probably be practicable to deliver the first before October 1st, and the second during that month. The size of the book is not yet fully determined, and we should be pleased to hear from subscribers, as they send in their subscriptions, whether they prefer the large quarto of the CATALOGUE or imperial octavo of the TRADE-LIST ANNUAL. The edition will be limited to 1250 copies and no plates will be made.

Price to subscribers, $10; after publication day, probably $12 or $15.

Prompt replies will do much to facilitate the work, and we look confidently to a trade support which will make this important work an accomplished fact. Blanks will be forwarded to all who desire them. Address

A CALIFORNIA PILGRIMAGE,

Told in Verse,

By ONE OF THE PILGRIMS.

This work does not purport to be a history of Missions, but only what the title implies—a visit to the old shrines. To local descriptions and legends are added such allusions to familiar events of Mission history as seemed desirable, with such fragmentary thoughts as would be naturally suggested to one appreciative of the only bits of antiquity to be found in this new land.

A LIST OF BOOKS PUBLISHED UNDER More than One Title.

By JAMES L. WHITNEY, BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

At the last meeting of the American Library Association Mr. Whitney read a paper upon the reprinting of books under changed titles. The list of such books presented at that time has since been largely extended and numbers over nine hundred titles. It is now issued in book form at the request of many librarians.

Copies can be obtained at the office of the Library Journal, Nos. 31 and 32 Park Row, New York, (Trübner & Co., London,) or of booksellers. Price, 75 cents.

THE

AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE

For 1884 [Fifteenth Year].

COMPILED BY G. D. T. ROUSE.

The Educational Catalogue has been found so valuable to the Trade, not only as a finding list, but for circulation among educational customers, for the purpose of soliciting orders and saving at the same time much troublesome correspondence, that its permanent continuance is recognized as a necessity.

The catalogue this year follows the alphabetical system pronounced by the experience of the trade the most satisfactory for practical use. It includes a price-list arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject, so that the advantages of both a finding list for the trade and a class catalogue for the use of schools are combined. No other list in the market gives this practical combination.

The list has been entirely reset, to include the new books in their proper alphabetical order, and also to embody all the corrections of prices, omissions, or other errors in last year's catalogue.

Publishers' prices are in all cases given—retail, if retail (in first column); "net," if "net" (in second column); where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk. A carefully drawn explanation in the heading, to private buyers, adapts the catalogue to the use of the retail trade.

It should be understood that, of the regular retail-price publishers, only the retail price is given, and the net prices only of those publishers who make it a practice to mail net-price lists to schools—in fact, make their net prices their regular school-supply prices. This point is emphasized in order to meet the objections raised to the quotation of ast prices.

It should be well considered that any attempt at withholding, from the educational public, what the publisher, through his agents, advertisements, lists, and circulars, takes special pains to make known, must be an unwise policy. It is not objectionable, but quite proper and legitimate, to charge the retail or mailing price for single copies of any book; but the Educational Catalogue is not generally given away to single-book customers. It is intended only for those who purchase for schools in quantities. Now any one putting himself on record by quoting fictitious prices, or prices other than those quoted by the publisher (which prices, it is now understood, are generally still subject to a trade discount), necessarily must drive his school trade into the hands of those who solicit their orders from a catalogue, the prices of which tally with that of the publishers.

The following paragraph from a previous year's Educational Catalogue further elucidates the reasons for our strict adherence to publishers' prices: "Plainly, if it wished to sustain its official character, it was bound to respect the desire of those who have a right to stand by their prices, and who, should their established prices be disregarded, could by their public protest soon discredit the Educational Catalogue as well as those who handled it for circulation. At a time when the public mind, from causes so often discussed and lamented in these columns, is fast losing faith in honest prices, so far as books are concerned, it is of the utmost importance that there be one official list which can be consulted with confidence by the public, as well as by the trade.

In making up special orders for the Educational Catalogue, booksellers should bear in mind that it possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5; per 1000, $40.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that, advertising special lines of general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5, or $1 if plate is sent.

 Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1, postpaid.

IN TWENTY VOLUMES.

Mr. Rolfe's Edition of Shakespeare has attained very extensive popularity outside of educational institutions, the field which it was originally intended to occupy. Broad and comprehensive in its plan, and eclectic in its methods, it has proved upon the whole the most useful edition of the great English dramatist's works accessible to the readers of the United States: the vast amount of information of a critical and historical character judiciously collated from all sources, and the acute and scholarly notes and expositions of the editor, combining to shed light from all sides upon the origin, the purpose, the language, and the meaning of these immortal productions.

The School Edition being now complete in forty volumes, Harper & Brothers have in preparation—for publication early in the Fall—a Special Edition in twenty volumes adapted, as to style and arrangement, to libraries and to the use of general residers and Shakespearian students. Each volume will contain two plays, with the exception of the last volume which will embrace the Poems and the Sonnets. The edition will be called the "Friendly Edition," a name suggested to Mr. Rolfe by Mrs. Mary Cowden-Clarke, the venerable author of the well-known "Concordance to Shakespeare." The order of the plays will be approximately chronological and the contents of the volumes will be as follows:

Vol. I. $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} T \\ F \end{array} \right\}$	litus Andronicus. Henry VI. Part I.	Vol. XI.	As You Like it. All's Well that Ends Well.

"It is of the highest importance that pepils, while being trained in the art of reading well, should become acquainted with the very best models in both prose and poerty which the language affords,—graduated, of course, to suit the age and proficiency of the learner. The plays which the subsorb has embodied in this well-printed and illustrated book me those most likely to interest the young, and which are adapted by the character of their contents for their study. The subsorb has marked the words in all doubtful passages which require emphasis, and syllables which require accent in order to guide and help the reader."—Journal of Education.

[PUBLISHERS' PRICES.]

Compiled by G. D. T. Rouse.

NOTICE.—In this Catalogue only prices made by publishers themselves are given—retail, if rtail, in first column; "net" (wholesale), if "net," in second column; where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an esterisk (), in addition to the wholesale price. When price-columns are left blank, the publisher failed, on application, to furnish price. A double asterisk () in price-columns designates books forthcoming. New books, issued since the publication of the Catalogue of 1883, are designated by a single asterisk () before title.

In comparing prices or ordering at retail, private buyers should bear in mind that a percentage must be added to prices quoted at wholesale, to cover freight, handling, delivering, etc. Discounts on quantities to schools vary on different lines, according to the kind of prices adopted by the respective publishers.

For subject classification (and for collective references to classic authors entered here under separate cluss), see the second part of the Catalogue, following this main alphabet.

NEARLY READY—A SUPERB TEXT-BOOK.

(To be published about August 1st.)

OF THE

United States of America.

Preceded by a Narrative of the Discovery and Settlement of North America and of the Events which led to the Independence of the Thirteen English Colonies. For the use of Schools and Academies. By Horace E. Scudder. With maps and illustrations.

The work comprises about 500 pages, and its leading characteristics are:

FIRST.—A Well-considered Text, in which the author has aimed to be exact without being duil; to narrate events according to their proportionate importance; to make clear the reason of events; to give prominence to the life of the people; and to show the development of the United States from its first beginning in history to the present day.

SECOND.—A New and More Logical Division into Periods with such chapter divisions will aid the memory, and such crisp paragraphs as will make every point tell.

THIRD.—A Suggestive Method by which the teacher is enabled to expand the history at FOURTH.—The insertion of Topical Analyses for Review at suitable intervals, and also a full set of Questions on Text and Maps.

FIFTH.—Accurate, Clear and Distinct Maps, most carefully drawn and engraved. The Maps are forty-one in number, including Six Double-Page and Six Single-Page Colored Maps.

SIXTH.—Beautiful Illustrations—about seventy in number—specially drawn and painted for this work, presenting the best work of leading artists, whose designs have been carefully interpreted on wood by eminent engravers.

Besides these illustrations, Superb Portraits are given of the following representative men:

COLUMBUS, PENN, FRANKLIN, WASHINGTON,

WEBSTER, LONGFELLOW,

beautifully engraved by Closson, Johnson, and Kruell, together with fifty other portraits.

SEVENTH.—Superior Mechanical Execution as to paper, type, printing, and binding. EIGHTH.—A Low Price.

The attention of teachers and boards of education is specially called to this Charming TextBook. PRICE, $1. BY MAIL, $1.15.

Olmsted's College Philosophy.

THIRD REVISION. BY KIMBALL.

An Introduction to Natural Philosophy. Designed as a Text-Book for Students in College. By Denison Olmsted, LL.D., Professor of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy in Yale College, and E. S. Snell, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy in Amherst College. Third Revised Edition. By Rodney G. Kimball, A.M., Professor of Applied Mathematics in Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. 8vo, pp. xiii., 495. Extra cloth, $3.12.

This revision of OLMSTRD'S NATURAL PHILOSOPHY has been made in accordance with the plan of the former editions, the object being to produce a text-book in Physics adapted to the requirements of a college course; it is believed that as now presented it includes all that is necessary in this department of a liberal education.

The work has been revised throughout, and contains nearly one hundred pages of new matter and one hundred and thirty-two new engravangs. Though the book is now larger by nearly sixty pages, the price remains the same. Copies, for examination mailed to Professors and Teachers upon receipt of two dollars by

COFFIN'S CONIC SECTIONS.

NEW EDITION.

Elements of Conic Sections and Analytical Geometry. By James H. Coffin, LL.D., late Professor of Mathematics and Physics in Lafayette College, and author of "Treatises on Solar and Lunar Eclipses," "Astronomical Tables," "The Winds of the Globe," etc. Sixth edition, revised and improved, by Selden J. Coffin, Ph.D., Hollenback Professor of Mathematics in Lafayette College.

In this edition are included a number of original Numerical Exercises, adapted to illustrate the meaning of Propositions, and to show the utility of the truths taught.

The student of Conic Sections will welcome the explanation of geometrical points by the introduction of numerous references to the treatises of Professors Loomis and Wentworth, which are given in addition to those to Legendre and Euclid in the earlier editions.

MODERN CLASSICS

Thirty-three small volumes, containing many of the best Short Stories, Essays, Sketches, and Poems in modern literature, including selections from the most celebrated authors of England and America, and translations of masterpieces by Continental writers.

In several instances the selections from an author are accompanied by a critical or biographical essay from another eminent author, an arrangement which cannot fail to lend greater interest to both portions of the book and add materially to its value for use in schools.

Teachers will readily see the fitness and availability of these books for Supplementary Reading. The list is as follows:

	Evangeline. The Courtship of Miles Standish. Favorite Poems.	17.	Milton. An Essay

ANNOUNCEMENT!

A new and important movement in the interest of accurate Science Study.

Appletons' Science Text-Books.

D. APPLETON & Co. have the pleasure of announcing that in response to the growing interest in the study of the Natural Sciences, and a demand for improved text-books representing the more accurate phases of scientific knowledge, and the present active and widening field of investigation, they have made arrangements for the publication of a series of text-books to cover the whole field of science-study in High Schools, Academies, and all schools of similar grade.

The author in each separate department has been selected with regard to his especial fitness for the work, and each volume has been prepared with an especial reference to its practical availability for class use and class study in schools. No abridgment of labor or expense has been permitted in the effort to make this series worthy to stand at the head of all educational publications of this kind. Although the various books have been projected with a view to a comprehensive and harmonious series, each volume will be wholly independent of the others, and complete in itself.

The subjects to be comprised are: Physics, Chemistry, Geology, Zoology, Botany, Anatomy, Physiology and Hygiene, Astronomy, and Mineralogy.

The following works of this New Series will be issued before July 1, 1884. Others are to follow as rapidly as they can be prepared:

The Elements of Chemistry.

By PROFESSOR F. W. CLARKE, Chemist of the United States Geological Survey.

The Essentials of Anatomy, Physiology, and Hygiene.

By ROGER S. TRACY, M.D.,

Sanitary Inspector of the New York Board of Health; author of "Hand-Book of Sanitary Information for Householders," etc.

A Compend of Geology.

By JOSEPH LE CONTE,

Professor of Geology and Natural History in the University of California; author of "Elements of Geology," etc.

Elementary Zoology.

By C. F. HOLDER.

Fellow of the New York Academy of Science, Corresponding Member Linuxan Society, etc.;

AND J. B. HOLDER, M.D.,

Curator of Zoology of American Museum of Natural History, Central Park, New York.

These stories from English History form one of the brightest and most attractive Reading Books ever published. An admirable introduction to the study of English history.

2. KARLY ENGLAND, from Pre-historic Times to the Year 1154. 192 pages; 54 interesting Lessons, with useful Notes; 94 attractive Pictures; 6 finely-engraved Maps. Price, 35 cents.

In this beautifully illustrated and well written little book, the story of the making and founding of the nation is graphically sketched.

3. MIDDLE ENGLAND, from 1154 to 1603. 256 pages. Price, 52 cents.

The aim has not been to give merely the "lives" of the Kings and Queens, or the records of war and victory, but to present, clearly and accurately, the real history of our English forefathers during what may be justly termed the decisive period of English history.

4. MODERN ENGLAND, from 1603 to 1883. 272 pages. Price, 52 cents.

In this book, the great events of the last two hundred and eighty years are graphically and succinctly described and fully illustrated. The high educative value of good pictures has been constantly kept in view, and the number and beauty of the illustrations form one of the characteristic features of the Series. The greatest possible care has been taken to preserve an absolutely impartial tone throughout the Series.

METHODS OF TEACHING GEOGRAPHY.

NOTES OF LESSONS. By LUCRETIA CROCKER, Member of the Board of Supervisors of Public Schools, Boston, Mass. Price, 50 cents.

For the consideration of every teacher having classes in geography. Can be used with any text-book on the subject, and will enable any teacher to form a practical, rational, and useful method of teaching the subject. It is full of suggestions. To the young teacher it will prove invaluable, and the experienced teacher will find it serviceable and useful.

EARY LESSONS IN VEGETABLE BIOL-OGY; or, Outlines of Plant Life. By the Rev. J. H. Wythe, M.D. Paper, 25 cents; cloth, 40 cents. Twenty-sixth thousand.

The fairy tales of science are here told in plain and, so far as possible, untechnical, language. They open the wonder-world of nature, and give new conceptions to the reader of its beauty and order and of the beneficence of the Creator. "The Christian philosophy of life," which the author believes to be the true philosophy, is clearly stated. A few hours' study of this book, unburdened with detailed classifications will furnish the hayto many of the mysteries. classifications, will furnish the key to many of the mysteries of plant life.

AMERICAN CATALOGUE

[Of books in print July 1, 1876. 2 vols., royal 4to, $40.]

OF BOOKS ISSUED JULY 1, 1876, TO JULY 1, 1884.

The SUPPLEMENT, which is a complete work in itself, will be issued in the early fall of 1884. It will include titles of over 20,000 books, entered in the first part by title and author, and in the second by subject. The volume will probably be of about the size of the second volume of the CATALOGUE, exceeding 450 pages; the price will be, to present subscribers, $10; after publication, probably $12 or $15. The edition will be limited to 1250 copies and no plates will be made.

Less than 50 copies remain unsold of the AMERICAN CATALOGUE itself, now priced at $40. The price will probably be raised at an early date to $50 or $75 on the few remaining copies.

Five-yearly supplements hereafter will enhance the value of the original work and of the first supplement. Every owner of a private library and book-collector, as well as every book-seller and librarian, should have this invaluable key to American books.

BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG.

A Guide for Parents and Children, compiled by C. M. HEWINS, Librarian of Hartford Library Association. 32mo. Price, in paper, 25 cents.

[The original edition is out of print; a revised and extended edition will be issued early in Fall when orders will be filled in order of receipt. I

A little manual long needed, and one that will be heartily welcomed by parents who recognize the importance of carefully supervising their children's reading, but are often confused and at a loss on account of the multitude of works for the young now published, of every conceivable degree of merit and demerit. A classified list of good books is given, with indications as to the age and sex to which they are best suited. The list is prefaced by hiats as th how children should be taught the right use of books, a note on good reading in English and American history for childre, and a "symposium" on children's books, containing insesting extracts from many sources. Miss Hewins has charge of the department 'Literature for the Young' in the Library Yournal, is librarian of the Hartford Library Association, and may safely be accepted as an authority and guide by parents and buyers of children's book."—

LIBRARIES AND SCHOOLS.

Papers selected by SAMUEL S. GREEN, Librarian of the Free Public Library, Worcester, Mass. 16mo, cloth, 50 cents.

Addresses and papers which have done much to convince teachers that important aid may be had in their work, by making a large use of libraries; and giving accounts of successful experiments made in different places, by librarians and teachers, in bringing about a use of libraries which has proved valuable to schools.

Contents: The Public Library and the Public Schools, by Charles Francis Adams, Jr.; The Relation of the Public Library to the Schools, by Samuel S. Green; Libraries as Educational Institutions, by Samuel S. Green; The Public Library as an Auxiliary to the Public Schools, by Robert C. Metcalf; The Relation of Libraries to the School System, by William E. Foster; A Plan of Systematic Training in Reading at School, by William E. Foster.

"Nothing could be better than the suggestions which the book contains for facilitating the steps of young scholars to their pupils beyond mere listening to routine recitation, book contains for facilitating the steps of young scholars to the libraries."—Boston Advertiser.

LIBRARIES AND READERS.

Chapters of suggestion and counsel on the subject of reading, the use of books and of libraries. By WILLIAM E. FOSTER, Librarian of the Providence Public Library, and compiler of the "Monthly Reference Lists." 16mo, cloth, 50 cents.

Contents: Some Hints on Right Reading; Correction of Aimless Reading; The Specializing of Reading, for Gereral Readers; "Current Literature" and "Standard Literature"; Securing the Interest of a Community; What may be Done at Home; How to Use a Library; Books and Articles on Reading.

"Mr. Foster's aim is to show how the aimless reader of the ordinary public library, the man or woman who 'wants a book' but does not know what book, or even what sort of book, may be led to take a lively interest in books and the library. Here Mr. Foster speaks as one having authority, because in doing this very thing he has been most successful. His little book is to be recommended in the highest manner to all who seek to improve the quality of their reading, or who desire to give aid and advice to others."—
The Critic.

"No one, with limited resources, has done more to turn to account the collection under his charge, or shown greater activity and ingenuity in devising ways and means to sumulate reading, study, and research, and guide them in the proper direction. His chapters are valuable as exhibiting phase after phase of his perception of the conditions under which public libraries are now used, and found to be fearlied by widely different classes of the community. of service, by widely differing classes of the community. They are all sound, practical, and suggestive, and will benefit parents, their elder children, and the author's fellow-librarians about equally."—Nation.

MONTHLY REFERENCE LISTS.

A Guide for the Reader and Student to Trustworthy Sources of Information on Current Topics. Prepared by WILLIAM E. FOSTER, Librarian Providence Public Library. year, to cents per number. Sample copies furnished on application.

"The two volumes 1881-82, of the Providence Library's Monthly Reference Lists. . . . are a welcome addition to the endless variety of Indexes. They can be used in connection with any good public or private library."—The Nation, January 18, 1883.

"Most thoroughly and carefully selected, embracing a wide range, from the best German authorities to the latest articles in current literature."-New England Yournal of Education, April 21, 1881.

"Any teacher with advanced pupils, desirous of training students in habits of investigation, could scarcely do better than supply these lists as texts for composition."—Spring field Daily Republican, April 22, 1881.

Order through your local bookseller.—" There is no worthier or surer pledge of the intelligence the purity of any community than their general purchase of books; nor is there any one who does to further the attainment and possession of these qualities than a good bookseller."—PROF. DUNN.

The above motto heads the monthly "Survey of Current Literature" in every copy of the regular subscription edition of

The Literary News.

It clearly indicates the spirit of this wide-awake little journal. If the main object of the LITERARY News is to make known and recommend for purchase all the good books as soon as they make their appearance, its next object is to send the purchasers of good books to the legitimate book-stores. The LITERARY News is an auxiliary to the Publishers' Weekly. Both are friends and aids to the bookseller. The former is to guide him in his purchases, the latter to aid him in his sales. The LITERARY NEWS is pre-eminently a bookselling paper, and therefore booksellers, in availing themselves of its services, not only further the interests of good literature, but at the same time their own.

There are three ways of using the LITERARY NEWS for bookselling purposes, and he who perseveringly tries one or all of them will be sure to profit by one of the cheapest advertising investments any bookseller can possibly make.

- I. Use its imprint editions, for the purpose of seeking customers at their homes, and to post them on the new books while they still have the attraction of novelty. Many sales are lost by waiting for chance calls of customers, when books are on your counter, that he might buy on the spur of the right moment. It is, moreover, an attention that, even as such only, will finally be repaid by any one that cares for books. Send for circular stating terms.
- 2. If you cannot afford to use an imprint edition of at least 50 copies, do the next best to it, by securing subscribers to the handsome subscription edition. No effort will better repay you. A subscription placed is more profitable than the sale of any one book, as it will render you the services of a home agent.

The price of subscription is &I per annum, with a discount to booksellers only.

3. At least keep one copy on file, and so place it on your front counter or in any conspicuous place, convenient for reference, where it will tempt callers to consult it. You can have no better store "Bulletin;" none that gives a fuller "Survey of Literature" in a more compact manner. Under the new system, just adopted, not only the bare filles of books of a given class are grouped together, but also their descriptive or commendatory notices or references, so that a bookbuyer, almost at a glance, can get more information on his line of books than could be given by the most eloquent salesman.

In order to encourage the use of the LITERARY NEWS at the book-stores, subscribers to the Publishers' Weekly (only) will be supplied with any number of copies at half price, provided we are assured that copies so supplied are used only for purposes indicated under paragraph No. 3. Every salesman should have his own copy of the LITERARY NEWS, read it from cover to cover, and always keep it within his reach.

NOTICE.—The department of "Literature for the Young," edited by Miss C. M. Hewins, Librarian of the Hartford Library Association, and author of "Books for the Young," has been transferred from the Library Journal to the Literary News, and appears in an enlarged form as a Supplement to the subscription edition, intended to serve as a special Guide, in the choice of books, for Librarians, Book Committees, Sunday-school Superintendents, Clergymen, Teachers, and Parents. This Supplement is not supplied with the imprist editions.

New Sectional Map of Missouri

SIZE, 48X40 INCHES. SCALE, 8 MILES TO ONE INCH.

The liberal scale and beautiful engraving of this map has enabled us to present a very complete representation of the irregularities of survey, smaller streams, organized townships and the thousand and one things that go to make up a correct map.

It is beautifully colored to distinguish organized Townships, and shows each surveyed Section of Land and every Railroad constructed to date. It locates upon the proper sections all Cities, Villages, and Post-Offices in the State. Not the slighest distortion in the delineation of any railroad has been allowed, and all its representations of routes, whether air line or ever so sinuous, can be accepted implicitly.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish at once in the Linux Hour and Leisure Moment series, 'The Baby's Grandmother,' a clever story thich has been running through Blackwood. he author is Mrs. Walford, the writer of "Couiss" and of "Troublesome Daughters."

R. WORTHINGTON has just ready a "Life of the Hon. James G. Blaine," by Charles Wolcott balenier, author of "A Potent Philter," a novel which was recently issued as a serial in the salmans of the New York Sunday Tribune. This volume, which has been read in proof by Mr.

Blaine, has his sanction as to its accuracy. It is a full but succinct record of his life. It contains in addition to the biography, important selections from his speeches. A sketch of the life of John A. Logan is appended. The volume is illustrated with portraits of the candidates. A letter from Mr. Blaine, of which he has kindly permitted the use, gives the chief facts of his life in his own words. It is reproduced in factimile.

RAND, MCNALLY & Co. have lately purchased the plates of "The Secret of Success," by W. H. Davenport Adams, and have just issued a new edition in new and attractive binding. They have also purchased the plates of this author's book entitled "Woman's Work and Worth in Girlhood, Maidenhood, and Wifehood," and will shortly issue a new edition. At the same time they will issue the "Official Report of the Proceedings of the Republican National Convention," held at Chicago, June 3 to 6, 1884, which, it is announced, will contain every speech delivered in the convention, every resolution, every motion, every ballot in detail, as taken each day, and changes therein, the names and post-office address of the delegates and alternates, etc.

Funk & Wagnalls have just ready in neat pamphlet form "Property in Land; a Passage at Arms between the Duke of Argyll and Henry George." It contains the article by the Duke on the "Prophet of San Francisco," which appeared in the Nineteenth Century for April last, and Mr. George's reply, under the title "The Reduction to Iniquity," which appears in the current number of the same periodical, which Funk & Wagnalls print from advance sheets. They will publish in September "The Buntling Ball," an anonymous poetical satire on New York society, announced to be "by one of the best known of living writers." An idea of its nature may be obtained from the following partial list of dramatis persone: Knickerbocker Young Men; Manœuvring Mammas; Social Strugglers; Belles; Wall Flowers; Gossips; Anglomaniacs; Gluttons. Mr. C. D. Weldon, the well-known artist, is engaged on the illustrations.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. will publish shortly, a curious book entitled, "Wonders and Curiosities of the Railway; or, Stories of the Locomotive in every Land," by W. Sloane Kennedy. It will have twenty-four engravings, and be filled with much valuable information hitherto inaccessible to the general reader. It will trace the rise, growth, and progress of the Railway, from its origin in the early struggles of Stephenson and his associates, to its present influential position in the commerce and civilization of the age; describe the electric locomotives of Edison and Daft, the mountain railways of the Alps, the submarine, atmospheric, elevated, vertical, and cable railways, from India to the Andes and the Golden Gate. It will also contain a sketch of the Railway Postal Service and Railway Telegraphy, together with descriptions of railway accidents, train robberies, etc. The new and enlarged edition of Prof. Matthews's "Words: their Use and Abuse," announced to appear in May, has been unavoidably delayed, but is to be ready early in August, in a volume of over 500 pages. They will issue, at the same time, a new (University) edition of Prof. Welsh's work on "The Development of English Literature and Language," complete in one volume.

The first volume of a new series of improved text-books: the study of the natural sciences the Appletons are blishing, in response to a demand for works that shall present the more accurate phases of scientific knowledge, d the results of the very latest investigations. Each tume is prepared by a specialist, with ref-rence to its actical availability for class use and class study in schools, complete in itself, and wholly independent of the hers. The two volumes already issued are fine examples book-making. The page is clear and open, the type race, and the paper fine and tinted; the illustrations are purndant and good, and the binding substantial and sarracteristic; the edges are orange color. The arrangement of the matter in both works is excellent; it is is ided into paragraphs, with subject headings in heavy-ced type. The works to follow will be kept up to see same high standard. The present subject is treated rogressively, and is intended for elementary classes, or unions unable to obtain the aid of a teacher. The experiments are all simple. Hammond, W: A. Lal: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1884. 446 p. D. cl., $1.50.
Dr. Hammond, the well-known medical scientist, has entered the field of fiction, and with marked success. His novel is fresh and original in matter, and in style both graceful and forcible. It deals almost altogether with life in Colorado, among a wild and lawless set of men, includes episodes of murder, and stealing, hanging by the vigilant committees, and other unconventional incidents.

"Lal" the crude and untrained heroine, the supposed-daughter of a horse-thief, is a fine creation, consistently worked out. ter of a horse-thief, is a fine creation, consistently worked out. She is well contrasted with Theodora Willis, a type of the highly cultivated intellectual woman, who is the excuse for the introduction of many of Dr. Hammond's theories rela-tive to the higher education of women. The book as a whole is a notable addition to the literature of fiction. It has a good plot well developed, its characters are strong and picturesque, and the descriptive portions are at times

Locia and Hugh are husband and wife," another "being Everard Deane, the invalid son of a great banker; he is the chief milence in the story, his character being very carefully depicted, and is the source of much unhappiness. He had been Hugh's rival, but sacrifices himself believing it is for Locia's happiness. After her marriage, her heart hums from her husband to Deane, and much misery is the consequence. The novelist's aim seems to be to show how even a good man with exceptional physical gifts, may lose a woman's love through lack of cultivation, a narrow nature, and a very had temper. The story can scarcely be said to lave a moral or a direct purpose, but it is well told and offers some incisive lessons in worldly wisdom.

All of "Oudia's" best gifts and most glaring faults are illustrated in this novel. The scene is laid in France, first on the Rivera and afterward in Paris. The heroine is a Russian of exceptional beauty and wealth, married to a commonplace man for whom she cares nothing. Her love commonplace man for whom she cares nothing. Her love affairs are the subject of the book. She keeps in act within the limits of decorum, but in spirit she loves one Count Othmar, who is burdened with a wife and countless millions. The Prince Napraxine is fortunately killed in a duel, and the Count's wife obligingly commits suicide that the loving pair may not be separated, and so the book ends in orthodox style with a wedding. As usual with this writer, there are some graphic descriptions of people and places.

American. Bost., Rand, Avery & Co., 1884. 8+328 p. il. sq. O. cl., subs., $2.75. Said to be by a lady well known in fashionable Washington circles; an exposition of the horrors of Mormonism, the scene being laid in Salt Lake City. Christine, the grand-daughter of an intelligent Norwegian peasant, who has grown wealthy, has been educated a Christian. She attracts the attention of Malcolm Smith, the nephew of John Smith, the man second in authority to Brigham Young. Malcolm wins her love, but only succeeds in winning her for his wife by going through the Christian ceremony of marriage. In a few months, however, he breaks his yows and takes a second wife. Christine's end is tragic, and her story, which the author vouches for, altogether heartbreaking. John Smith plays a leading part in the book. The scenes and characters show the worst side of Mormon social life, and are necessarily depressing, though Mormon social life, and are necessarily depressing, though not offensively portrayed. The book is very handsome in its mechanical parts. It is well printed on fine paper, handsomely bound and profusely illustrated, with graphic sketches woven in the text, and with graceful initial letters to the charges.

The design of this first book in geology is to give the student of from ten to fifteen years of age, a few clear, well-selected facts that may serve as a key to a knowledge of the earth. The number of facts dealt with is far less than is usually given in such books, but it is aimed in their presentation to make them open the way to the broadest truths of the science. Effort is made to illustrate the principles of geology by reference to as many facts of familiar experience as possible. The Trackers' ed. contains fifty-five pages of directions for those who use the book in class instruction. book in class instruction.

AUTHORS AND PUBLISHERS ABROAD.

WE reprint elsewhere, with great pleasure, an ditorial of the London Bookseller, from an advance proof kindly sent us by Mr. Whittaker. It is a real satisfaction when trade journalism can be used to promote good feeling and useful relations, not only within the trade, but internationally, and if the Bookseller, and other trade and literary journals abroad, will carry on the discussion thus started, their work will produce most useful results to both authors and publishers on both sides of the Atlantic.

It is evident that the complications between American publishers and foreign authors, have resulted largely from what has been simply a misunderstanding of English contracts. If our publishing friends abroad will take the advice of the Bookseller and make their contracts specific and clearly understood, nobody will lose, and everybody will gain. If any publisher thinks that by such a contract he may lose a small advantage he might otherwise gain, it is to be answered that this small gain, questionably obtained, is a loss in the long run. Under such relations authors inevitably begin to distrust their publishers, and try sharp practice on their own side, and sooner or later take their books to some other house. They will get, perhaps, neither better treatment nor more profit; they will lose, and the original publisher will lose, from the fact that a set of books can be much better advertised and handled at a less cost by one, than by two or three publishers.

We believe it is true, as a matter of fact, that in our own country authors adhere more closely to one publisher than they do in England, and the difference, we have good reason to believe, is chiefly in the specific nature and clear terms of the contracts here, added to the fact that the general system of paying ten per cent royalty which prevails in America, throws competition into a legitimate and useful, rather than a dangerous and unwise direction. The publisher and the author by this method compete jointly for the favor of the public, instead of competing within the guild for lesser questions of royalty or profit. Every improvement in business methods is a gain to both publisher and author, and we repeat that the trade journals on both sides of the water can do no better service than to promote such improvements.

WE are taken to task by a friendly correspondent for reprinting from a Western journal a notice of the Chicago book trade which contains, as he states, errors both of fact and of perspective-We desire to state that in reprinting articles in the Publishers' Weekly we by no means stand sponsor for their correctness, and the article in question gave so many points of interest that we do not regret its publication.

AMERICAN PAYMENTS TO ENGLISH AUTHORS.

From advance proof from the London Bookseller, July 5, 1884.

THE PUBLISHERS' WREKLY, of New York, draws attention to a matter which certainly appears to deserve consideration by English publishers and authors. Some time since, Messrs. Scribner, of New York, received from Messrs. Field & Tuer advance sheets of "John Bull and his Island," '' with a letter stating that they had purchased the right to the English translation, and would be pleased if the Scribners would publish it in America, and pay what they could afford for it; or, if they did not want it themselves, would offer it to some other American house. The Scribners took the book, and paid Messrs. Field & Tuer $250 (£50) for it—a liberal price considering the almost certain risk of rival So far the matter was quite simple, editions. and exactly in accordance with the usual mode of such transactions.

Much to the astonishment and indignation of Messrs. Scribner, a letter subsequently appeared in the Pall Mall Gazette from Max O'Rell, the author of the book, complaining, in unmeasured terms that he had "not received sixpence from the three gangs of New York publishers who stole my book," one of the said gangs being, of course, the Scribners. learn from a statement in the New York Critic and Good Literature that Max O'Rell also wrote to Messrs. Scribner, indignantly demanding payment for the use of his book, to which the Scribners very naturally replied that they had paid Field & Tuer, to whom he must apply. Then we are told—and this point certainly appears to need explanation-Messrs. Scribner received a letter from Messrs. Field & Tuer, disavowing their claim to sell the right to republish the book in America, and saying "that they regarded the money Messrs. Scribner had sent them merely as payment for the privilege of a few days' advance on the sheets"! If we may take this as fairly representing the substance of Messrs. Field & Tuer's letter, it reveals an extraordinary misapprehension o their part of the interpretation to be put on the sale of advance sheets. In selling a piano, it is not usual for the vendor to give a formal authorization to the purchaser to play on it, but it would certainly be ridiculous to afterward assert that the right to use the instrument must be the subject of a separate negotiation. Of what use would the sheets have been to Messrs. Scribner if their purchase did not convey with it the privilege of printing the book. Neither the author nor Messrs. Field & Tuer could convey to Messrs. Scribner any right of publication, or anything resembling property in the book, for the simple reason that no conveyance from them would be valid under the laws of the United States. All that could be sold was the advantage of first publication to be gained through the early receipt of advance sheets, and this advantage was bought by Messrs. Scribner for $250. As this principle underlies all sales of advance sheets to American houses, and is generally so well understood, it is unnecessary to pursue this part of the subject. The special point raised by the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY in commenting on the above episode, is the state of the relations in England between authors and publishers, as manifested in their relations with American houses. When an American publisher has bought advance sheets from an English publisher, it should certainly not be open to the author to assert that he has been cheated by the American publisher, because no part of the purchase money reaches In such an event, it is clearly not the American publisher who is to blame. not by any means follow that the English publisher is to blame either, as the conditions of his contract with the author may entitle him to the benefit of the American market. But we can well understand the feelings of an American house at being made the target for abusive epithets by an English author, after having bought all that it could buy of that author's representative. Several such cases are unfortunately within our recollection, and their recurrence may well suggest doubts whether the relations of author and publisher are invariably conducted with that keen sense of honor and mutual good faith which are essential to the welfare of both parties.

Some authors, we know, have a settled conviction that they are habitually cheated by all with whom they have dealings. They like to proclaim themselves victims; it accords with the traditions of genius, and is a part of the regular stage business whenever they appear before the public in their professional character. As not even a perpetual royalty of fifty per cent, and a Civil List pension would remove the sense of grinding oppression from the minds of these people, their case must be relegated to specialists in cerebral maladies. But, apart from these unhappy victims of publishers' malignity, there are many who think themselves wronged simply because they have failed to understand the terms of their agreement with the publisher. One point on which misunder-standings may, and as a matter of experience do arise, is the question of the American market. Leaving the works of a few famous novelists, and, perhaps, a score of other writers out of the question, under present conditions, the value of the American market can rarely be assessed with anything approaching certainty, and in the | friends."

case of the majority of books, its consideration is absolutely out of the question. Possibly it may absorb fifty or a hundred copies, possibly it may take an edition, possibly some house may risk the purchase of advance sheets or of a set of plates, but these are only possibilities, and include the prime one of absolute rejection.

The publisher knows by experience which of these possibilities is most favorable to the book in question, and his relations already established with the American trade will facilitate the negotiation. For reasons exactly parallel with those which induce the author to seek his aid in getting the book published in England, he is in the best position to negotiate for its production or sale in America. If authors sought to establish a stringent rule that in every case the American market was to form the subject of a separate arrangement, and subject to their consent and approval, it would lead to such endless complications and delays that publishing their books under such conditions would become an intolerable nuisance. Unless, therefore, the American market is definitely reserved, and we are convinced that publishers would rarely submit to such a troublesome restriction, and that authors would not profit by it if they did, nego-tiations with America must be left in the publishers' hands. In all cases where the chance of an American sale appears favorable, the author may take it for granted that its value as a factor has been duly considered by the publisher when arranging terms with him. Mast other reasons exist why the matter should ordinarily be left in the hands of the publisher, and the American market, whatever it may turn out to be worth, be regarded as part of the bargain between him and the author.

This being the case, it is reasonable to insist that a sale by an English to an American publisher should be regarded as binding on the author, and as made with his consent either expressed or implied. We know what irrepressible children of impulse some authors are in the matter of writing letters to the newspapers, and dragging their real or supposed grievances before the public. These cannot be restrained, but authors of normal sanity might at least take the precaution of consulting their English publishers before hurling invectives at those in America, whom they think to be plunderers. Then, if they have a case, and feel that they must publish their woes, let them put the blame on those who deserve it.

Taken merely in its commercial aspect, it is of the utmost consequence that sales effected by English to American publishers shall not be opened to challenge by third parties, and it is an imperative duty of publishing houses to clear up any obscurity there may be on this point. To quote the Publishers' Weekly, "Misunderstanding often arises honestly enough from the lack of a specific understanding between the English publisher and the English author, as we what the latter sells. We submit that, in justice to their American correspondents who buy the privileges of reprinting books by the use of advance sheets, the English publisher should in every case, endeavor to make clear to an author just what is bought and sold, and to specify whether or no American returns are included in the purchase. We put this to the good sense and business fairness of our English

A SUBSCRIPTION-BOOK SUIT.

HE HENRY BILL PUB. CO. v. R. CLARKE & CO.

THE HENRY BILL PUBLISHING Co., of Norich, Ct., have brought suit against Robert larke & Co., of Cincinnati, complaining that the latter were publishing and selling Blaine's Twenty Years in Congress," without authory from them. They claim to have entered into greement with the author by which they came the owner in equity of the right to pubsh and sell the first volume of the book. They so claim that they authorized Messrs. Oldham, elso & Co. to act as their agents in certain punties in Ohio, including the County of Hamton, in which county Cincinnati is situated, ad that no other persons had the authority to mvass for or sell the book, within the territory ssigned, except Oldham, Kelso & Co., or their ub-agents. The first bill was thrown out of our upon demurrer, July 9, and an amended ill was filed. On July 15th the case came p tor preliminary hearing, Judges Stanley latthews and Sage presiding. The amendd bill of the plaintiff alleged fraud and ollusion with their agents on the part of lobert Clarke & Co., and contained interngations for the defendants to answer as to be number of books bought and from whom ought, and how many had been sold and for ww much. Robert Clarke & Co. filed their nswer to this bill claiming they had been suity of no fraud or collusion, but had purhased the books from regular dealers in books who were not, to their knowledge, the agents if the plaintiff. The desendants further claimst that they knew nothing of any agreement with the author, or of contracts with plain-tiff's agents, or of the restrictions to said tgents. Further, they knew nothing of the laimed agency of Oldham, Kelso & Co., and laimed that the usage of the trade is not gainst the selling of subscription-books by such irms as their own. On the contrary, that the sage of the trade was entirely in their favor. The firm admitted the buying and selling of the books as charged, but denied that they were doing so without authority, and denied that the plaintiff, or the author, or Oldham, Kelso & Co. have or had any rights in the books so bought and sold.

Upon the motion for injunction, Justice Matthews ruled that no preliminary injunction could be given, but that until final hearing Robert Clarke & Co. should keep an account of books bought and sold. Judge Sage, in further stating the position of the court, said they could not take it for granted that the defendants had been guilty of fraud and collusion for they were a firm of long and well-known standing. And that it was a question whether or not after plaintiffs had once given up possession of their books they had any right to them at all. This, which is a question of the utmost importance in the publishing and in many other trades, will, of course, be decided upon final hearing, which will take place about December next.

The court required Robert Clarke & Co. to furnish the plaintiff with the names of the dealers from whom they had purchased the copies in their possession.

In the case of the same company against A. H. Smythe, of Columbus, on a similar bill, a temporary injunction was allowed, as the defendant failed to appear at all.

A DEFENCE OF THE UNITED STATES AGAINST M. DAUDET.

From the Evening Post, July 10.

SIR: Our attention has been called to a letter from your Paris correspondent lately published in the Evening Post. We note the following:

"M. Daudet, we hear, has been pleased to expend no little satire and irony on the United States because a publisher in that benighted land called his novel of 'Sappho' 'objectionable,' and declined to bring it out. M. Daudet has a singular idea of propriety if he thinks that 'Sappho' is not objectionable. Let him hie him forthwith to fresh woods and pastures new if he wishes to maintain his reputation."

We deeply regret to have brought upon "the United States" M. Daudet's wrath, but there cannot be two opinions in this country or in England of the character of the book mentioned. We have seldom seen a book more "objectionable." In view of M. Daudet's criticism it is but fair to us and to the United States (for it seems that the reputation of the entire country is involved), to say that when we found that the book was one upon which we could not place our imprint we so notified M. Daudet, and promptly paid him in full what he claimed as "indemnity" for our refusal to publish, although we did not deem ourselves, in view of the character of the book, either legally or morally bound to pay him anything.

FUNK & WAGNALLS.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Literary World (Boston), for July 12, contains a contribution to a Schiller Bibliography.

MAX O'RELL writes to the editors of The Critic to assure them that he is a Frenchman, and that "John Bull et Son Ile" was originally written in French, the author himself translating the book into English about a year after the original was begun. Joel Chandler Harris has an article in the same number of The Critic (July 19), in which he replies to the numerous criticisms provoked by his recent paper on the use of the banjo by plantation negroes.

The Law Quarterly Review is the title of a new legal periodical to be published in London next year, under the editorship of Frederick Pollock. The objects of the Review will include the discussion of current decisions of importance in England and elsewhere, the consideration of topics of proposed legislation, the treatment of questions of immediate political and social interest in their legal aspect, and inquiries into the history and antiquities of English and other systems of law and legal institutions. Endeavor will also be made to take account of the legal science and legislation of continental states in so far as they bear on general jurisprudence, or may throw light by comparison upon problems of English or American legislation. The current legal literature of England will receive careful attention; and works of serious importance, both English and foreign, will occasionally be discussed at length. The Review seeks to appeal to students of legal science and legal history, and to citizens interested in understanding or improving the laws they live under, not less than to lawyers by profession.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—We regret to learn that the firm of John B. Piet & Co., booksellers, stationers, and publishers, suspended July 14. Ex-Congressman William J. O'Brien was appointed receiver, and gave a bond in the sum of $80,000.

CHICAGO, ILL.—J. Fred Waggoner, publisher of The Bookseller and Stationer, announces that the financial embarrassment of the J. Fred Waggoner Co. does not affect The Bookseller and Stationer, but that it will be issued regularly, as before, under his guidance.

CHICAGO.—Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co. have retired from the blank-book business. The rapidly increasing sale for the Eclectic Educational Series has made it necessary to enlarge their manufacturing facilities which they found it impossible to do without sacrificing their blank-book bindery. They have sold their bindery to Mr. H. C. Sherick, their former foreman, whom they cordially recommend to the trade as possessing unusual facilities for the manufacture of blank-books and general binding.

CLEVELAND, O.—J.W. Clarke has retired from the firm of Ingham, Clarke & Co., wholesale and retail dealers in books, stationery, etc. The remaining partners continue the business under the same style.

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind.—J. W. Hunter, book-seller, has sold out.

CLAREMONT, N. H.—The Claremont Manufacturing Co. (L. N. Ide, agent), issues the following circular, dated July 7, in reply to a statement made by the Boston Post and quoted by us in our issue for July 12: "That disparaging notice of our Company in the Boston Journal of this date, was written in malice. It was not telegraphed from this town, and as to our Boston creditors, we did not owe in Boston at the time it was written one hundred dollars, so it is false in that particular. We have no unsettled accounts out of town older than July 1st. We have done a strictly cash business for the past year, and though we have been offered three and four months' time for all we wanted to buy by such firms as Messrs. Rice, Kendall & Co., Carter. Rice & Co., and White Brothers & Sons of Boston, to whom we would refer for the truth of this statement, we have invariably settled our accounts at the end of each month, by cash, or for sharp cash in ten days. We have not a single time note out to-day—so we have no fears of being pounced upon by hungry creditors. Claiming to merit your confidence we trust you will give us your orders as heretofore, for though we do not manufacture paper we cas buy it, and we intend to continue to do book and job printing and to manufacture books."

DES MOINES, IOWA. — About the 15th of August, Messrs. Hogan & Smith will open a wholesale and retail book and stationery business at 617 Walnut Street, in the new Pritchard Block, between Sixth and Seventh streets. The partners in the new firm are Major George B. Hogan, of Newton, and Mr. Lewis C. Smith, of Des Moines. Major Hogan has for years been in the drug business in Newton, and combined with it that of books, stationery, etc. Mr. Lewis C. Smith has been with Redhead & Wellslager, and Redhead, Wellslager & Co., for the past nineteen years. This gives him an experience which few men have on going into business. We wish the new firm all success.

DETROIT, MICH.—Barney & Dellano, dealers in subscription-books, have dissolved partnership. J. C. Barney continues the business.

EXETER, N. H.—Thompson & Batchelder, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. James H. Batchelder succeeds to the business.

PHILADELPHIA.—The office of the assignees of E. Claxton, and E. Claxton & Co. has been removed to No. 729 Walnut Street, Room No. 2, where all communications should be addressed.

READING, PA.—Walter G. Roland succeeds the late Charles A. Ringel, bookseller and stationer, 625 Penn Street. Mr. Ringel, not Ringler, as was noted in our issue of July 5, died at Reading, June 16, and was buried June 19. The booksellers of Reading attended the funeral in a body.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—J. Dewing & Co., publishers and booksellers, have admitted M.S. Dewing to partnership.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE final two volumes of Froude's "Life of Carlyle" will be published in October.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. have issued cheap paper-covered editions of Miss Maclean's "Towhead," and "Some Other Folks."

THE CONTINENTAL PUBLISHING Co. asnounce a "Menual of Biblical Geography," which is expected to be a valuable aid to the study of the Scriptures.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have published "Acts and Resolves, General and Special, of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, for 1883," edited by F. F. Heard, Esq.

S. E. Cassino & Co. inform us, that through an error, the price of "The Manual of the Mosses of North America," just published by them was noted as $3.50. It should be $4.

THE New York Times thinks that no reader of "The Evolution of a Life" (published by S. W. Green's Son), in Binghamton will fail to fiscover that the real author is David E. Cronin.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. have just ready "Ten Days' in the Jungle," by L. E. L., a charming account of travel in the East, by a prominent lady in Boston society.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS issue this week Virginia W. Johnson's new novel, "The Fainalls of Tipton," and the fifth volume of "Stories by American Authors," both of which were described in our issue for July 5.

F. C. MILLER, 2 Arcade Court, Chicago, has purchased the entire edition of Dr. Albert G. Mackey's "Encyclopædia of Freemasonry and its Collateral Sciences," and offers it at the reduced price of $5, with a discount to the trade.

We have received, with the compliments of R. Hoe & Co., an interesting lithograph giving the portraits of the leading London journalists, each printed in the centre of a fac-simile of the first page of his paper. The lithographic work is from the press of Root & Tinker.

"THE Case of Mr. Blaine: An Open Letter to the Boston Advertiser," by an Independent, has just been published by the author, Edwin D. Mead, in a pamphlet of 54 pages, in which he defends Mr. Blaine from the attacks of the Advertiser.

THE AMERICAN UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION will begin this month the erection of their new building on Beacon Street, corner of Bowdoin, Boston. Thesite, which was recently purchased, is a fine one, and the new building will afford a home for all the various societies of the denomination.

J. R. OSGOOD & Co. have now ready a new edition of "New England; a Handbook for Travellers," a most reliable guide-book to all the principal cities, popular resorts, attractions, etc., containing six maps and eleven plans. The work has been thoroughly revised and enlarged.

THE National School of Elocution and Oratory, Philadelphia, will publish at once the fourth volume of "Best Things from Best Authors," designed for use in schools and colleges, and for public and social entertainment; and number 12 of the "Elocutionist's Annual," in paper and cloth bindings.

JOHN B. ALDEN has issued the second volume of his new edition of Guizot's "History of France." The six remaining volumes, it is announced, are all in press, and the edition will probably be completed by the middle of the present month. The same publisher has also issued John Stuart Mill's treatise "On Liberty."

J. H. EARLE will publish this month "Pine to Potomac: Life of James G. Blaine, his Boyhood, Youth, Manhood, and Public Services." The volume will contain about 400 pages, and will give a reliable account of the Republican Candidate for the Presidency. It will be a companion volume to "From Log Cabin to White House."

H. C. BAIRD & Co., have just ready a new and original American book on "Bricks, Tiles, Terra-Cotta," etc., by Chas. T. Davis. The work is most thorough in its scope, and covers every branch and detail in the manufacture of bricks, drains, sewer pipes, art tiles, mosaic plates, etc. It is illustrated by two hundred and twenty-eight engravings and six plates.

JOHN A. WHIPPLE, 9 Hamilton Place, Boston, has recently issued "The Christian Ministry, with Miscellanies for Candidates," by J. W. Kimball, a work "designed to promote greater activity among laymen and others interested in rendering successful service to the Master;" also, "Heaven, My Father's House." by the same author, a book full of consoling hopes and brilliant representations of human destiny.

THE Old Testament Company of Revisers has at last finished its labors. The preface has been finally revised and approved. As the work has to be submitted to Convocation before its issue to the public, it is not very likely to be published before next spring. During the course of the revision, two have resigned and ten have died out of the twenty-seven member of the Old Testament Company originally appointed by Convocation.

THE publication last year of editions of Lon-fellow's "Hyperion" and "Outre-mer," in Lovell's Library, on which books it was claimed copyright had expired, called out, it will be remembered, a caution to the trade from Houghton, Mifflin & Co., well known to be the authorized publishers of Mr. Longfellow, that this act was an infringement of copyright. The Lovell Co., through Roger Foster, counsel, has now entered suit in the N. Y. Superior Court for damages to the amount of $25 000.

GINN, HEATH & Co. have just ready "Ybarra's Practical Method for Learning Spanish, in Accordance with his System of Teaching Modern Languages," by Gen. A. Ybarra, Professor in the Department of Modern Languages in Martha's Vineyard Summer Institute. This is the first of a series of books teaching modern languages by the author's practical method, which claims to teach the speaking of the language before entering into its theories and details, in such a manner as to give the best possible results.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS announce two interesting series of books for the young—the one entitled The Daring Adventure Series, the other The Golden Crown Series. The former, peculiarly adapted for boys' reading, comprises twenty volumes, most of them written by W. H. G. Kingston, the other is in nineteen volumes, which will interest children of both sexes. The volumes are all profusely illustrated and bound in uniform style. They also call attention, on another page, to their various lines of colored books, and the Oxford series of Bibles, etc.

THR ORANGE JUDD Co. have just ready a work entitled, "Practical Forestry," which is a treatise on the propagation, planting and cultivation, with a description and the botanical and popular names of all the indigenous trees in the United States, both evergreen and deciduous, with notes on a large number of the most valuable exotic species, by Andrew S. Fuller. They have in press a work on "Ornamental Gardening for Americans," by Elias A. Long, and new and revised editions of Allen's "American Cattle," and Quinby's "New Bee-Keeping."

HARPER & Bros. have in preparation, for publication early in the fall, a special edition of Shakespeare's works in twenty volumes, adapted, as to style and arrangement, to libraries and to the use of general readers and Shakespearian students. The edition will be called the Friendly Edition, a name suggested to the editor, W. J. Rolfe, by Mrs. Mary Cowden Clarke, the venerable author of the well-known Concordance to Shakespeare. This edition, like the school edition edited by Mr. Rolfe, will have full critical and historical notes and scholarly expositions, and will be illustrated.

HENRY HOLT & Co.'s new American Novel Series certainly has not suffered from lack of variety of subject. No two of the four books published in it have had the slightest resemblance, and now is promised a fifth in still a different sphere—of all places, in a communistic society on the shore of an interior lake. The title of the new book is "Among the Chosen." The character drawing is said to be particularly strong. One of the dramatis personæ is recognizable as drawn from a certain well-known English writer and traveller, whose passion for communistic experiments has been hinted at in his latest work, and is well-known to his friends.

PORTER & COATES have received a letter from the Comte de Paris contradicting the report that he had suspended his work on the "History of the Civil War in America." The following is an extract: "The numerous political duties which have devolved upon me leave me but very little leisure. I am devoting every hour I can spare to the prosecution of my great work on the American War. The correction of the proofsheets of volume seventh is progressing favorably, but this volume will not be published without the following one, of which only less than a third is yet written. As for the history of my grandfather which I am supposed to write, it would be a task much above my power to undertake." Volumes 7th and 8th, French edition, as already stated, will make the fourth volume of the American edition, and will be translated and published in English, by Messrs. Porter & Coates, on the same day they are issued in France.

J. R. Osgood & Co. have in preparation, "Where the Battle was Fought," by Charles Egbert Craddock, author of "In the Tennessee Mountains," a novel containing all the freshness and originality of this author's shorter stories; "The Golden Spike," by Edward King, author of the "Gentle Savage;" "Nathaniel Hawthorne and his Wife," a biography, by Julian Hawthorne; "Leisure Hours Among the Gems," by Augustus C. Hamlin, author of a "Treatise on the Tourmaline," with colored illustrations; "The Adventures of a Widow," by Edgar Fawcett, a fascinating novel; "Tales of Three Cities," by Henry James, in one handsome volume; "Stories and Sketches," by Edmund Quincy, edited by Edmund Quincy, Jr.; "History of the Andover Theological Seminary," by Rev. Leonard Woods; "Doctor Sevier," by George W. Cable; "Spiritual Creation, and the Necessary Implication of Nature in it," an essay, by Henry James, Sr.: a pocket edition of "The Lady of the Lake," Little Classic size, with thirty illustrations; a Student's Edition of "The Princess," edited with notes and introduction by W. J. Rolfe, handsomely illustrated; and also a Student's Edition of Tennyson's "Songs," edited with notes, etc., by W. J. Rolfe.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. have in preparation as already announced "Rambles in Old Boston," by Rev. E. G. Porter, Member of the Mass. Historical Society, an important work, which is to be issued in ten numbers. It will contain eighty or more illustrations one half of which will be full-page. The sketches have been drawn by G. R. Tolman, especially for this work, and embrace not only such notable buildings as Fanueil Hall, the old State House, Christ Church, King's Chapel, and the Old South, but also many quaint places known only to the curious, such as the Wells' House in Salem Street, built in 1660; the house owned by Benjamin Franklin; buildings used by the British as barracks; the home of Robert Newman, the patriot; the Boston Stone, the old Hancock Tavern; the "Old Corner;" Fanueil Hall Square in 1690; home of Hartt, the builder of the Constitution ("old Ironsides"); the "Painter's Arms," on Hanover Street; the house of Paul Revere; the "Smuggler's Tunnel," and numerous other old quaint monuments of the past, yet in existence at the "North End." No existing publication of the kind contains so large and animated a description of the old legends, family and otherwise, that linger around the ancient walls of the Puritan capital as will be given in this work.

D. LOTHROP & Co. announce for the fall season the following list, in addition to those already mentioned: "American Wild Flowers and Ferns," a sumptuous volume which will contain forty-two colored plates, each of which will represent an original study from nature; a semicentennial edition of "Our National Hymn and other Patriotic Poems," by Rev. S. F. Smith, D.D., with illustrations by well-known artists, a portrait of the author, and a sketch of his life, besides twelve new poems by Dr. Smith which have never before been published; "The Amold Birthday Book," with original introductory poems for each month, by Edwin Arnold, and choice quotations from his poems for every day of the year, edited by his daughter, Miss L. Arnold; "Yule Tide Stories," with a poem by Henry Randall Waite, illustrated; and the Golden Treasury Series, consisting of nine handsome square 16mo volumes, including such works as "Paul and Virginia," Maria Edge-worth's Classic Tales," etc. Among new stories worth's Classic Tales, 'etc. Among new stories by popular authors may be mentioned, "Christie's Christmas," by Pansy; "Milly's Little Wanderer;" "Dean Stanley with the Children; and "How they went to Europe," by Margaret Sidney. To Young Folks' Biographia will be added "Life of Nelson," by Southey; Voltaire's "Charles XII.;" and a "Life of Queen Victoria." To Entertaining History, "American People and China," and to Stories of Adventure, "Old Caravan Days;" "Plucky Boys;" and "A Romance of the Revolution," by C. R. Talbot. In illustrated quartos for the children, they have under way: "Little Folk's Fancies." "Little Folks in Picture and Story;" "Little they have under way: "Little Folk's Fancies;"
"Little Folks in Picture and Story;" "Little People of the Air;" My Picture Primer;" "Seeing the World;" "Tiny Tab and her Friends;"
"A Little Talk about Plants," by Mrs. Fannie
A. Dean; "All the Year Round;" "Gems of Literature and Art," by American authors and artists; "A Book about Baby and other Poems," by Mrs. S. B. M. Piatt; "Young Days, Plays and Ways of Little Ones;" "Little Playfellows," illustrated stories of animals, large print;
"Young Folk's Stories of Foreign Lands." edited "Young Folk's Stories of Foreign Lands," edited by Pansy, and "Young Folk's Stories of Ameri-can History and Home Life," edited by same. A new line of handsome books with illustrations printed in colors, from original designs by noted artists, will include, "Doll Rosy's Days," by Mrs. Clara Doty Bates; "Alice's Alphabet," by Margaret Johnson; "On the Way to Wonderland," by Clara Doty Bates; and "Rainy Day Plays," by Mrs. Frances A. Humphrey.

42 BLEECKER ST., NEW YORK.

Thos. Nelson & Sons desire to call the attention of the Trade to their new and numerous Series of Publications for the Fall Season of 1884. Their carefully selected Books for Boys, prominent among which may be mentioned "The Daring Adventure Series." of 20 vols., replete with Adventures on Land and Sea; "The Golden Crown Series," of 19 vols., full of Stories for the Young on School-life, Home-life, Patience, Temperance, etc., etc.; and Many Other Series, from 5c. per vol. up to the larger 12mos.

Attention is also called to their series of Quarto Toy-books, beautifully printed in Oil Colors, and many of which are new this season.

In "Oxford" Teachers' Bibles they have a full stock, so that no detention in executing orders may be experienced by the Trade. Pocket Bibles for the jobbing trade in large and varied assortments, as well as Prayer-Books, Prayer and Hymnals, Testaments, etc.

The Trade generally are therefore invited to inspect the Messrs. Nelson's Publications, comprising their own and the Oxford Series of Bibles, etc., prior to giving their orders, which they are confident will be found to surpass any competing line.

Roscoe's Chemistry.

Part II. of Volume III.

A TREATISE ON CHEMISTRY. By H. E. Roscoe, F.R.S., and C. Schorlemmer, F.R.S., Professors of Chemistry in the Victoria University, Owens College, Manchester. Volume III.—Part II. The Chemistry of the Hydrocarbons and their Derivatives, or Organic Chemistry. Completing the work. One vol., 8vo, 656 pages, cloth. Price, $5.

"The authors are evidently bent on making their book the finest systematic treatise on sodem chemistry in the English language, an aim in which they are well seconded by their publishers, who spare neither pains nor cost in illustrating and otherwise setting forth the work of bese distinguished chemists."—London Athenaum.

The Electric Light.

ITS HISTORY, PRODUCTION, AND APPLICATIONS. By Em. Alglave and J. Boulard. Translated from the French by T. O'Congr Sloane. Edited, with Notes and Additions, by C. M. Lungren. With 250 Illustrations. 8vo, cloth. Price, $5.

Although there are a number of popular expositions of the subject of electric lighting, the work of Messrs. Alglave and Boulard has been thought to have sufficient distinctive merits to warrant its introduction to the English reading public. . . . The additions made to the work are either later forms of the apparatus described by the authors, or those that have distinctive features of interest of their own.

AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE

For 1884 [Fifteenth Year].

COMPILED BY G. D. T. ROUSE.

The Educational Catalogue has been found so valuable to the Trade, not only as a finding list, but for circulation among educational customers, for the purpose of soliciting order and saving at the same time much troublesome correspondence, that its permanent continuate is recognized as a necessity.

The catalogue this year follows the alphabetical system pronounced by the experience of the trade the most satisfactory for practical use. It includes a price-list arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject, so that the advantages of both a finding list for the trade and a class catalogue for the use of schools are combined. No other list in the market gives this practical combination.

The list has been entirely reset, to include the new books in their proper alphabetical order, and also to embody all the corrections of prices, omissions, or other errors in last year's caulogue.

Publishers' prices are in all cases given—retail, if retail (in first column); "net," if "net," if "net," (in second column); where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk. A carefully drawn explanation in the heading, to private buyers, adapts the catalogue to the use of the retail trade.

It should be understood that, of the regular retail-price publishers, only the retail price is given, and the net prices only of those publishers who make it a practice to mail net-price lists to schools—in fact, make their net prices their regular school-supply prices. This point is emphasized in order to meet the objections raised to the quotation of act prices.

It should be well considered that any attempt at withholding, from the educational public, what the publisher, through his agents, advertisements, lists, and circulars, takes special pains to make known, must be an unwise policy. It is not objectionable, but quite proper and legitimate, to charge the retail or mailing price for single copies of any book; but the Educational Catalogue is not generally given away to single-book customers. It is intended only for those who purchase for schools in quantities. Now any one putting himself on record by quoting fictitious prices, or prices other than those quoted by the publisher (which prices, it is now understood, are generally still subject to a trade discount), necessarily must drive his school trade into the hands of those who solicit their orders from a catalogue, the prices of which tally with that of the publishers.

The following paragraph from a previous year's Educational Catalogue further elucidates the reasons for our strict adherence to publishers' prices: "Plainly, if it wished to sustain its official character, it was bound to respect the desire of those who have a right to stand by their prices, and who, should their established prices be disregarded, could by their public protest soon discredit the Educational Catalogue as well as those who handled it for circulation. At a time when the public mind, from causes so often discussed and lamented in these columns, is fast losing faith in honest prices, so far as books are concerned, it is of the utmost importance that there be one official list which can be consulted with confidence by the public, as well as by the trade.

In making up special orders for the Educational Catalogue, booksellers should bear in mind that it possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5; per 1000, $40.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5, or $1 if plate is sent.

 Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

For 1884 (Twelfth Year),

A Large 8vo, over 2500 pages. (Ready in September.)

The improvements of recent years in the Trade-List Annual have given such general satisfaction that there will be no change in the forthcoming volume (twelfth year) as to the essential features, which are:

- 1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS AND MANUFACTURERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm names.
- 2. A complete reprint of the "Publishers' Weekly" full title RECORD OF BOOKS published (inclusive of all the descriptive notes) from July 7, 1883, to June 28, 1884. In order to facilitate reference, it will be accompanied by a full INDEX, by which every book on record can be found, whether it is looked for under author, title, or subject.
- 3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1884, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

The price will be One Dollar per copy net, bound in cloth, or can be sent postpaid for One Dollar and a half net, payable in advance. The price of the volume will be raised after day of publication.

Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1).

Remittances should be made by check, money-order on New York, or registered letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be dispatched by express unpaid.

Parties so desiring can have their volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX IN-DEX"—having the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut—at the slight extra charge of 50 cents per copy.

LIFE OF THE HON. JAMES G. BLAINE.

By CHARLES WOLCOTT BALESTIER.

WITH SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF

JOHN A. LOGAN

1 Vol., 12mo, Cloth, $1.

This volume, which has been read in proof by Mr. Blaine, has his sanction as to its accuracy. It is a full but succinct record of his life. It contains, in addition to the biography, important selections from his speeches, which of themselves are an admirable history of his public career. The volume is illustrated with portraits of the candidates. A letter from Mr. Blaine, of which he has kindly permitted the use, gives the chief facts of his life in his own words. It is reproduced in fac-simile.

THE CONVENTIONAL LIES OF OUR

Paper, $1; cloth $1.50.

Chicago Times: "Verily, if Mr. Nordau had been an active participator in a score of American political "campaigns," and served for half a dozen terms in a state legislature and the national congress, he could not have drawn a more veraciously bold and striking picture of our political methods."

Philadelphia Recerd. "This is a most powerfully written book. It is strong meat, and should be avoided by weak stomachs. Strong ones may not be able to digest the whole of it, but that portion which they assimilate will assuredly me to the brain, and bear fruit in an internal cry against sense of the conventional lies of our civilization. . . Every thoughful, right-minded man and woman must agree with Mr. Nordau in his denunciations of marriages de convenance, sow so universal, and in his assertion, that love should be the only incentive to marriage. . . Such works have their uses. They do not cause revolutions. On the contrary, by drawing attention to existing abuses, before they have become unbearable, they may prevent them."

Troy Times: "It is a pretty severe arraignment of about all the faults and frailties of government and society, and is written by a gentleman who has command of a superb flow of language. There is a great deal in it to stimulate thought and arouse the moral susceptibilities.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: "The style of the writing is vigorous and clear, and its truths too clearly stated to be called in question."

Daily Press. Albany. N. V.: "The volume before us in the strong the strong the story."

Vigoreus and cicat, and its dataset of called in question."

Daily Press, Albany, N. Y.: "The volume before us is a study. It is a sturdy, plain, practical expose of a thousand fallacies under which the world is laboring. Its logic in the control of the control is manuscrable, its statements mainly beyond question."

Indianapolis News: "It discusses the falseness of the existing social, political and economic institutions in a manuscrab once interesting and audacious, at times extremely radical."

By Mr. GEORGE WARDMAN,

U. S. Revenue Inspector at the Seal Islands, Alaska. 16mo, 235 pages, $1.50.

This book will contain a vivid account of men, manners, and customs at the Seal Islands, and will also treat of the operations of the company controlling the fur seal trade.

NOW READY:

A CALIFORNIA PILGRIMAGE,

By ONE OF THE PILGRIMS.

This work does not purport to be a history of Missions, but only what the title implies—a visit to the old shrines. To local descriptions and legends are added such allusions to familiar events of Mission history as seemed desirable, with such fragmentary thoughts as would be naturally suggested to one appreciative of the only bits of antiquity to be found in this new land.

120 pages, square 16mo, with elaborate gold stamp and red edges, with frontispiece engraving of the Carmel Mission, from a sketch by Keith. $1.25.

WILL BE PUBLISHED ABOUT END OF JULY.

Order through your local bookseller.—" There is no worthier or surer pledge of the intelligence at the purity of any community than their general purchase of books; nor is there any one who does one to further the attainment and possession of these qualities than a good bookseller."—PROF. DUNN.

The above motto heads the monthly "Survey of Current Literature" in every copy of the gular subscription edition of

The Literary News.

It clearly indicates the spirit of this wide-awake little journal. If the main object of the TERARY NEWS is to make known and recommend for purchase all the good books as soon they make their appearance, its next object is to send the purchasers of good books to the gitimate book-stores. The LITERARY NEWS is an auxiliary to the Publishers' Weekly. Both a friends and aids to the bookseller. The former is to guide him in his purchases, the latter aid him in his sales. The LITERARY NEWS is pre-eminently a bookselling paper, and therefore toksellers, in availing themselves of its services, not only further the interests of good literer, but at the same time their own.

There are three ways of using the LITERARY NEWS for bookselling purposes, and he who severingly tries one or all of them will be sure to profit by one of the cheapest advertising restments any bookseller can possibly make.

- I. Use its imprint editions, for the purpose of seeking customers at their homes, and to post them on the new books while they still have the attraction of novelty Many sales are lost by waiting for chance calls of customers, when books are on your counter, that he might buy on the spur of the right moment. It is, moreover, an attention that, even as such only, will finally be repaid by any one that cares for books. Send for circular stating terms.
- 2. If you cannot afford to use an imprint edition of at least 50 copies, do the next best to it, by securing subscribers to the handsome subscription edition. No effort will better repay you. A subscription placed is more profitable than the sale of any one book, as it will render you the services of a home agent.

The price of subscription is $1 per annum, with a discount to booksellers only.

3. At least keep one copy on file, and so place it on your front counter or in any conspicuous place, convenient for reference, where it will tempt callers to consult it. You can have no better store "Bulletin;" none that gives a fuller "Survey of Literature" in a more compact manner. Under the new system, just adopted, not only the bare titles of books of a given class are grouped together, but also their descriptive or commendatory notices or references, so that a bookbuyer, almost at a glance, can get more information on his line of books than could be given by the most eloquent salesman.

In order to encourage the use of the LITERARY NEWS at the book-stores, subscribers to the TELISHERS' WEEKLY (only) will be supplied with any number of copies at half price, provided we re assured that copies so supplied are used only for purposes indicated under paragraph No. 3. Ivery salesman should have his own copy of the LITERARY NEWS, read it from cover to cover, ad always keep it within his reach.

NOTICE.—The department of "Literature for the Young," edited by Miss C. M. Hewins, Librarian of he Hanford Library Association, and author of "Books for the Young," has been transferred from he Library Journal to the Library Nows, and appears in an enlarged form as a Supplement to the moleculation, intended to serve as a special Guide, in the choice of books, for Librarians, Book familtees, Sunday-school Superintendents, Clergymen, Teachers, and Parents. This Supplement is set supplied with the imprint editions.

The Publishers' Weekly.

THE AMERICAN BOOK-TRADE JOURNAL.

F. LEYPOLDT, Editor.

The Publishers' Werkly, established in 1872, with which was incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular (established in 1852), by purchase from Mr. George W. Childs, is recognized as the independent representative of the publishing and bookselling interest in the United States.

The central feature of the paper, that makes it an indispensable aid to the trade, to libraries, and to literary people, is its Bibliographical Department. Every possible facility of reference afforded by a combination of methods which records the books, by the week, the month, the season, and the year, under the author, the publisher, the title, the subject, and the class. It is acknowledged that no other journal, at home or abroad, supplies as practical and satisfactory a record of the publications of its country.

The bibliographical department includes:

- 1. A "Weekly Record" of all new American publications and reprints, giving their full titles (according to the rules the American Library Association), with place and date of publication, publisher's name, size, number of pages, and print and also descriptive notes of books received. This first and practically the official record is arranged alphabetically in authors or titles, and for ready reference is placed in the same accessible position in each number.
- 2. A weekly "Order List," being brief-title entries, with prices, of the "Weekly Record," arranged alphabetical by the publishers. The object of this list is to present at a glance the simultaneous issues of certain publishers, and save time in the making up of orders.
- 3. A monthly "Index to the Weekly Record," being short-title entries, with the publisher's name and the size of price, arranged alphabetically by the authors, with references from the titles or catchwords, and from the subject With each entry is given also the number of the "Weekly Record" containing the full-title entry and note.
- 4. A monthly "Class Synopsis," grouping the works of the month under such heads as Biography, Descripting Education, Fiction, Fine Arts, History, Law, Literature, Medical Science, Physical and Mathematical Sciences, Pour and the Drama, Political and Social Science, Theology and Religion, etc.
- A semi-annual classified list of Forthcoming Publications, given in the Spring and Fall Announcement number in which also the announced books are more fully described under the name of the publishers, arranged alphabetically.
- 6. An annual Index to the books of the year, advertised by the more prominent publishers in the so-called Assumance Number, which generally is published in the last week of January. In this number is also given a classification of the year.
- 7. Regular Lists of the Season, published as follows: A complete priced catalogue of Educational Books, in July; i priced list of the Holiday Books and prominent Juvenile Books of the year, in November; a supplementary list of sea Educational Books, in February; a list of Guide and Summer Books, in May.
 - 8. Quarterly lists of the Publications of the U. S. Government.

Address

- 9. Semi-monthly lists of the more prominent New English Books.
- 10. Special Bibliographies. The timely bibliography, now in course of publication, is "Literary Property:" a crack logue of books and authors relating to literary property (copyright, international copyright, and kindred subjects), in Thorvald Solberg.

The Literary Department includes comprehensive intelligence as to books forthcoming and publishing movements, at home and abroad, gathered with the aid of representatives in other cities; editorial discussions on book and trade subjects, as copyright, postal questions, book production and manufacture, etc.; original contributions and representative extracts on like topics; topical "cues" or references to bibliographical sources or courses of reading and study; journalistic notes; business notes; literary and trade notes, etc.

The Advertising Department is by no means a subordinate feature in a journal chiefly devoted to books. In the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, indeed, it is so representative of the publishing enterprises of the day that it becomes an essential supplement to the other departments.

A minor but practical and convenient feature is the "Books Wanted" column, giving subscribers the privilege of a free insertion of five lines in each issue.

Terms, $3.20 per year, 10 cents per number. Sample copies furnished on application.

For 1884 (Twelfth Year),

A Large 8vo, over 2500 pages. (Ready in September.)

The improvements of recent years in the Trade-List Annual have given such general satisfaction that there will be no change in the forthcoming volume (twelfth year) as to the essential features, which are:

- The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS AND MANUFACTURERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm names.
- 2. A complete reprint of the "Publishers' Weekly" full title RECORD of BOOKS published (inclesive of all the descriptive notes) from July 7, 1883, to June 28, 1884. In order to facilities reference, it will be accompanied by a full INDEX, by which every book on record can be found, whether it is looked for under author, title, or subject.
- 3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1884, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

The price will be One Dollar per copy net, bound in cloth, or can be sent postpaid for One Dollar and a half net, payable in advance. The price of the volume will be mind after day of publication.

Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1).

Remittances should be made by check, money-order on New York, or registered letter, 28 we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be dispatched by express unpaid.

Parties so desiring can have their volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX IN-DEX"—having the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut—at the slight extra charge of 50 cents per copy.

NOTES IN SEASON.

GINN, HEATH & Co. announce an American edition of Axel Gustafson's "The Foundation of Death," which in connection with the temperance question has attracted much attention abroad.

T. B. Peterson & Brothers will issue, August 16, a cheap edition, in paper covers, at 75 cents, of Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth's "Self-Raised; or, From the Depths," originally printed in weekly instalments in the New York Ledger, under the name of "Self-Made; or, Out of the Depths."

MACMILLAN & Co. have now ready the first two volumes of the new edition of Tennyson's complete works. There are two styles—one printed on hand-made paper and bound in a Kilvert, and L. Taylor of New York.

richly-gilt cover, the other printed on good substantial paper and bound uniform in style with Matthew Arnold's works.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & Sons have just ready two handsome guide-books by Augustus J. C. Hare, on Florence and Venice. The contents are divided according to localities, and contains as the Evening Post says, "all of note that a man of taste would need to know in regard to the historic and artistic treasures of these cities."

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. have just issued a handsome edition of the poems of Herbert Wolcott Bowen, son of the proprietor of the New York Independent. They will publish at once as a companion volume to "Poems in Prose" a translation of Turgenieff's "Annouchka," one of the few works that he originally wrote in French, by Franklin Abbott.

D. APPLETON & Co. have published the second part of the third volume (concluding the work) of Roscoe's and Schorlemmer's "Treatise on Chemistry;" also a popular work on "The Electric Light: its history, production and applications," by Em. Algrave and J. Boulard, translated from the French by T. O'Conor Sloane, and edited with notes and additions by C. M. Lungren.

LEE & SHEPARD have just ready "The Development Theory: the Study of Evolution simplified for General Readers," by Joseph T. Bergen, Jr., with illustrations; "1000 Blunders in English: a Handbook of Suggestions in Reading and Speaking," by H. H. Ballard; and "John Thorne's Folks," by Miss Angeline Teele, of Kendallsville, Ind., a new volume of fiction of decided power and merit.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ASTORIA, OR.—B. F. Stevens & Co., booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. H. D. Newbury, and J. Stevens continue the business.

FORT SMITH, ARK.—B. Glick having purchased the interest of Mr. Jenkins in the firm of Glick & Jenkins, will hereafter carry on the business under his own name.

GALENA, ILL.—Chas. E. Haile, trustee of the business of J. N. Waggoner, is offering to sell out the entire stock of books, stationery, etc.

NEW YORK CITY.—Clark W. Bryan & Co., of Holyoke, Mass., publishers of The Paper World, etc., have opened a branch office at Trinity Building, III Broadway, rooms 135 and 137, which will be in charge of Mr. D. H. Sackett.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles M. Green, we learn from Bradstreet's, assigned July 23d to Edwin D. Simpson, giving preferences to George H. Morrill & Co. for $3150; Charles M. Green Printing Company $11,879. Liabilities about $100,000. Bad trade and pressure from outside were ascribed as the causes of his failure.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Dealer's Protective Association and Mercantile Agency of Philadelphia, with a capital stock of $20,000, were granted a charter for the formation of a company for the purpose of doing and transacting a printing and publishing business. The directors are E. H. F. Macdonald, P. S. P. Connor, and Herbert Brooks, of Philadelphia, and W. H. Kilvert, and L. Taylor of New York.

A thorough treatise on riding and training. The author takes nothing for granted on the part of his readers, and therefore begins at the beginning of each subject. He conveys his information in a clear, concise manner. The most important feature of the volume is the series of 28 instantancous photographs showing the various positions of rider and horse from the mount to the gallop.

Argyll, Duke of [G. D. Campbell] and George, H: Property in land: a passage at arms between the Duke of Argyll and Henry George. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls, 1884.

4-77 p. D. pap., 15 c.
A reprint of "The Prophet of San Francisco," by the Duke of Argyll, from the Nineteenth Century for April, 1884, and of "The Reduction to Iniquity," by Henry George, from the same magazine for July. The literary reputation and the high social and political rank of the Duke of Argyll have attracted lunusual attention to his arraignment of Mr. George's doctrine as to property in land. Mr. ment of Mr. George's doctrine as to property in land. George's reply is vigorous and aggressive.

An attractive binding, good paper, clear type and generous space make a handsome setting for Mr. Bowen's "Verses." They are almost all written in the minor key, and the "little god" has evidently hit the mark of Mr. Bowen's heart with a very possoned arrow. These "Verses," give promise of more durable work. The translations of Goethe, Schiller, Heine, etc., are excellent.

The hothers Sampson and Luke and their maiden siss Miss Lydia are the "Fainalls of Tipton," under the sobriquet is described the average New England linge of some years ago. Mrs. Sampson and her daught Ursula and Mrs. Luke and her son Walter are rather string elements in the Fainall family. Those who have ned the "Neptune Vase" need not be told that Miss chance writes an excellent story. The plot is good, and his working out refreshingly original. Character drawing in Miss Johnson's recognized forte and her pen sketches of he investor, the checker-playing clergyman and druggist, the rising young doctor, the sentimental painter, the rival grocers, etc., etc., are quite up to her best work. Her good-natured humor and knowledge of human nature make the book enjoyable reading even for the professional critic.

Kansas and Missouri furnish the scene for this realistic love-story, dealing with the closing events of the Rebellion. The familiar hero of old novels, the gentlemanly highway robber and desperado is introduced and all the characters are made to suffer at his hands. The good are rewarded and the wicked punished in the orthodox manner of the first works of fiction read surreptitiously "many years ago."

A German manufacturing village is the scene of this emotional German romance. The motive of the plot is the disputed proprietorship of a mill, the owner of which has been killed by the machinery before making his will. "Fram Sybilla," his wife, is an eccentric character, drawn with dramatic force. Her peculiar theories and her influences her family form the interest of the book. The translating is smooth and evidently a labor of love.

In preparing this collection of English verse, it has been the aim of the compiler to include such poems as are are knowledged to be among the best works of authors here represented; and also to present, in one compact inexpensive volume, a popular handbook of English poetry, fiva the time of Chaucer to the present day. Among the works more frequently consulted, and from which numerous extracts have been made are the following: Ward's "English Poets," Palgrave's "Golden Treasury," Mackay's "Thomsand and One Gems," Beeton's "Book of Poetry, " Living English Poets," and "English Poetesses." A number of poems by authors now living brings the volume down to the latest period. The biographical data are from "Johnson's cyclopædia," Ward's "English Poets," Allibone's "Dictionary of Authors," "Men of the Time' and other reliable sources,—Preface. An index of authors, contents and first lines, is given at the end of the volume. Forms one of the volumes of the Red-line Poets series. volumes of the Red-line Poets series.

Walford, L. B. The baby's grandmother: a novel. N Y., H: Holt & Co., 1884. 431 p. S. (Leisure Hour ser., no. 158), cl., $1.

As the "Baby's Grandmother" the author of "Mr. Smith," "Cousins" "Troublesome Daughters," etc. introduces an English "county magnate" of thirty-seven, "endowed by heaven with beauty and talent enough to have satisfied a score of women if shared among them." The plot is simple, dealing only with the every-day life of the "grandmother," her/lovers and brothers. She is a noble warm-hearted woman who after many years of widowhood truly loves a man who has almost forsaken her to marry money. The little glimpse of their married life when things are finally righted, is the gem of the story. The "conflicting, enchanting, puzzling characteristics" of the "baby's grandmother" are all controlled by love for her own baby's father. Few authors possess such insight into the peculiar differences of man's and woman's love. Has been running as serial in Blackwood's Magasine. The quotations at the headings of chapters are remarkably well chosen.

ITALOG DER OSTERMESS-AUSSTEL-LUNG DES BÖRSENVEREINS.

THE catalogue of the Easter Exhibition of the rman Booksellers' Association at Leipzig, is magnificent specimen of bookmaking, as well a remarkable assemblage of specimens of rk in the production of books. The book de at the exhibition was represented by rman, Austrian, English, American, French, Mian, Dutch, Swedish, and Russian works, : illustrative portions including photo-grav-; zincography, lichtdruck (photo-glass printi), oleography, and xylography, all of which cesses are well represented in the catame before us. The catalogue is prefaced by ist of works printed in Holland, from the lection of Mr. H. Klemm, the tendency of ich is to show that the invention of printing nore truly ascribed to the Low Countries than Gutenberg. The Exhibition Catalogue begins à a list of contributors—A, published books I music: B, printing; C, maps and school terial: D, lithography and chromo-lithogby; E, paper-making, bookbinding, engrav-; F, copper, steel-plate, etc., work, typefoundand colors used in the illustration of books. en follows, extending to 572 pages quarto, a at sumptuous array of examples in plain and bred typography, photography, colored plates, gravings combined with text, illustrated catawork, initial letters, colored, tinted and in border work, printing on tinted paper, gold mment combined with tint, etc., in borders; tel-plate, wood-engraving on the handsomest ale, etc. Appropriately bound in half-calf with l artistic embossed emblematic design on the out cover, this magnificent volume forms a mable memorial of the exhibition, which will highly prized by its fortunate possessors, and the future become a valuable work as represting the condition of the art of bookmaking the date of its issue. In conclusion it should stated that Felix Liebeskind, head of the thishing firm, was the moving spirit and editor love.

CHICAGO'S BOOK TRADE.

A HISTORY FROM 1834 OF THE BOOK MAKERS, SELLERS, AND PRINTERS.

RELIGIOUS BOOK-STORES.

WILLIAM G. HOLMES, a native of Scotland, came from Buffalo about 1857, and opened a religious book-store in the Garrett Block, where Central Music Hall now stands. He moved from there to Wells Street, between Lake and Randolph; then to No. 170 Clark Street in 1859 or 1860, and remained there until 1869, when he removed into the store of W. B. Keen & Co., vacated at No. 148 Lake Street. Having been burned out in the great fire of 1871, he reopened at No. 194 West Madison Street, and made his final move to No. 77 Madison Street. He died Dec. 20, 1880, and F. H. Revell, now Nos. 148 and 150 Madison Street, bought his stock.

Watson W. Brown, with Holmes from 1861 till 1879—save a short time when he was in the army—had an interest in the Holmes business, though his name did not appear in the firm; was an active manager for many years, and was known as one of the best-posted and most trustworthy book-men in the West. In 1879 he engaged in manufacturing stationery, as head of the firm of W. W. Brown & Co., now at No. 106 Madison Street. He is also the official publisher of the Chicago stock exchange.

Mitchell & Hathaway kept a church book-store in 1863, at No. 93 Washington Street, where they were burned out in 1871. The firm was next at No. 45 Clark Street, and at No. 158 State Street, went out of business in 1880, Mitchell transferring his interest and services to Jansen, McClurg & Co.

Street & Pierson kept an Episcopal book-store in 1865. They were succeeded by Street, Moore & Co., and then by Moore & Kelly. The house lasted about four years.

The Western Methodist Book Concern, established in Cincinnati, O., 1820, opened a branch house here at No. 63 Randolph Street, 1852. It afterward moved to No. 66 Washington Street, and was burned out there in 1871; thence moved temporarily to No. 36 South Clinton Street; May, 1872, to Nos. 24 and 26 Van Buren Street; November, 1873, moved into its own building, No. 57 Washington Street. The present agents, Earl Cranston and William P. Stowe—Cranston & Stowe—publish here The Northwestern Christian Advocate, the Sandebudet, a Swedish religious weekly, and a Sunday-school paper in that language. The books and Sunday-school periodical literature are published in Cincinnati. The branch here has a large trade through the Northwest, not only in Methodist books and periodicals, but carries a large stock of the leading publications of the country. It has also a German and Swedish book department.

The Western Unitarian headquarters for Sunday-school books are at No. 135 Wabash Avenue.

The American Tract Society, No. 139 Wabash Avenue, had a depository here in 1857. It was burned out at No. 68 Adams Street in 1871; went into a dwelling-house on Wabash Avenue, thence to No. 68 Adams Street, and to No. 139 Wabash Avenue in 1881. All the profits of the books sold are given away.

stated that Felix Liebeskind, head of the blishing firm, was the moving spirit and editor the work itself—in his case evidently a labor love.

The Presbyterian Board of Publication, of Philadelphia, have a branch depository at No. 137 Wabash Avenue, for the sale of Presbyterian, religious, and theological books.

American Baptist Publication Society-Chicago branch of the present house, No. 1420 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia—began in 1868 in the Lombard Block, under the management of C. R. Blackall. It is now located at No. 151 Wabash Avenue. The manager is F. G. Thearle. The society publishes Baptist books and papers.
Of Catholic book-stores there has been a great brood of what might be termed parochial bookstores, almost every prominent parish having one for the sale of Catholic books and church goods, few of which were successful. There are quite a number of such book-stores here now, away from the business centre.

Charles McDonald kept the pioneer Catholic book-store of Chicago, at No. 27-now No. 33-Market Street, in 1840. He continued the business twenty-five years—till 1865—when he sold out his books at auction and retired from the business in good form.

J. Graham, now Graham & Sons, No. 113 South Desplaines Street, kept a Catholic bookstore for a long time on the South side.

T. J. Finnegan, No. 66 Lake Street, and the Union Catholic Publishing Company, No. 82 Randolph Street, sell Catholic books and church goods. But there is no prominent exclusively English Catholic book-store here, the leading general book-stores keeping Catholic as well as Protestant books. The same remark, in a qualified degree-the Methodist Book Concern excepted-applies to the Protestant religious book-stores.

Michael J. Geraghty, No. 433 West Twelfth Street, dealer in Catholic books and religious articles, was an agent for school-books at No. 457 West Twelfth Street, from 1872 to 1879, and was then with Jansen, McClurg & Co., but afterward with F. S. Belden, and now begins on his own account.

Theodore Scholzen, No. 290 West Twelfth Street, began business on this street May 18, 1867, selling Catholic books.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

George Sherwood & Co., school-book publishers, Nos. 307 and 309 Wabash Avenue, deal exclusively in their own school-books, comprising spelling, reading, with the principal words in reform spelling type, writing, arithmetic, grammar, school songs, with piano accompaniment, and some high-school books. Their recently published Business Reader contains fine selections for reading, and rules for the business of life. Their Civil Government of Illinois, leading the pupil up through the school district, township, county, and State organiza-tions, to the organic law of the State and the United States, should be in every school. is the only Chicago house that publishes books for common schools. Their books have been approved by the ablest teachers, and have a wide circulation in the East as well as in the West.

BRANCH HOUSES.

The school-books of the country are chiefly supplied by eastern publishers, most of whom have branch houses to introduce their books to the northwest. Most of their books are sent direct from headquarters, and are not counted in the book trade of Chicago. The houses

A. S. Barnes & Co., and Clark & Mayna of New York; Porter & Coates, and Cowp thwait & Co., of Philadelphia; Ginn, Heath Co., of Boston, and Van Antwerp, Bragg Co., of Cincinnati, Samuel L. Hall, of New York, and L. Prang & Co., of Boston, publishers.

His specialties are second-hand schoolse. books. He also keeps shop-worn and stachool-books. Nothing equals the growth his business in the history of the book-trade this country.

C. O. Perry began business as a travel agent for Harper & Brothers, but in the summ of 1880 opened an office for himself at No. 1 Wabash Avenue. March, 1883, he moved No. 109 Wabash Avenue. He handles to school and miscellaneous books, and has qu a library trade.

LAW BOOKS.

E. B. Myers—now E. B. Myers & Co., 121 Monroe Street - pioneer law bookse succeeded D. B. Cooke in 1860, at No. 111 L Street. He was at No. 91 Washington Street 1867; after the fire, October 9, 1871, he operat his residence, No. 1020—now No. 224 Wabash Avenue; at No. 393 Wabash Aven in 1879.

Callaghan & Co., law publishers, at No. 1 Monroe Street, was formerly Callaghan & Cut

No. 126 Clark Street, May 1, 1864.

MEDICAL BOOK-STORES.

The general book-trade carry full lines medical books; hence the field is not an viting one for exclusively medical book-stee Duncan Bros., No. 135 Wabash Avenue, is a few homoeopathic books, and William Keener, No. 96 Washington Street, has quiet and the books of the medical books. a good stock of medical books of the regulation pattern.

GERMAN BOOK-STORES.

Muhlbauer & Behrle, who own the of German book-store here, began business in at No. 45 North Clark Street. They remove No. 149 North Clark Street, where they we burned out in 1871. They opened at once No. 311 West Twelfth Street, and removed Ap 1873, to their present store, No. 41 La St.

L. Schick, Nos. 128 and 130 Lake Street, keeps rman books, stationery, works of art, etc.,

d publishes the "Gallerey of Modern Masters, very fine work, extensively sold.

SCANDINAVIAN BOOK-STORES.

Engberg & Holmberg, publishers and imports of Swedish religious, educational, music, and scellaneous books, began business in 1869 at 3. 192 Superior Street, but soon moved to No. 9 North Clark Street. They were burned out 1871, and opened at Nos. 65 and 67 Milaukee Avenue. In January, 1872, they moved No. 94 East Chicago Avenue, and in 1873 to eir present quarters, No. 119 East Chicago venue. In 1874 they bought out the Lutheran unblication Society, which was twenty-five years ld.

I. T. Relling & Co., import Norwegian, panish, and Swedish books and periodicals. Ir. Relling began business alone in 1863 at No. 5 West Kinzie Street; moved in the spring of 871 to No. 75 Milwaukee Avenue, and added Co." to the firm. In 1873 they located where any now are, No. 226 Milwaukee Avenue.

Fritz Franzen, Norwegian and Danish bookeller, in 1870 was at No. 85 West Kinzie Street, mt moved to No. 220 Milwaukee Avenue in 1876, and to No. 296 Milwaukee Avenue in February, 1884.

Antiquarian and second-hand book-stores keep old and second-hand books and books out of print—often very rare and valuable. This class is represented here by H. D. Chapin, Mrs. F. C. Miller, G. W. Parker and wife, W. B. Sizer, C. M. Beckwith, and O. R. Sprague.

Cobb's library, begun by Calvin Cobb in 1869, at No. 29 Washington Street, was burned out there in 1871, and opened at No. 473 Wabash Avenue. In 1874 it was under the Palmer House. Removed to present location, northwest corner of Wabash Avenue and Washington Street, in 1879.

GRAPHIC ARTS EXHIBITION.

THE Society of Graphic Arts of Vienna announces the forthcoming publication of a complete report on the International Exhibition of Graphic Arts held in that city last year. As it will contain accounts of other works meriting attention, although not exhibited, it will be entitled "Les Arts de Reproduction Contempo-rains." It will be an imperial quarto, issued in ten or twelve numbers, and the edition will consist of about 3000 impressions. The work will be chiefly made up of illustrations with explanatory text, and will be divided into two parts. The first will deal with the historical development of engraving on wood and copper, etching and lithography, with examples, biographical notices, and occasionally portraits, of contemporary masters in each division. The second part will be devoted to methods of reproduction, heliography, zincography, etc. This will also be ography, zincography, etc. This will also be richly illustrated, and will contain accounts of the various artistic establishments and their productions. Artists and others who may wish to be represented in the catalogue should address the director of the Société des Arts Graphiques, Schwarzspanier Haus, Vienna.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE current number of Trübner's Literary Record is accompanied by a memorial pamphlet containing various interesting newspaper notices of the famous publisher's death.

THE Magazine of American History for August, contains among others a touching and appreciative sketch of Charles Fenno Hoffman, by W. L. Keese, with a good portrait of the subject.

THE Southern Merchant and Journal of Trade and Commerce is the title of a new trade journal published at Baltimore, Md., devoted to advancing the commercial interests of that city.

MR. CLARENCE COOK, who was for many years the art critic for the New York Tribune, has taken editorial charge of the art journal, The Studio, the first issue of which under his direction has just been issued.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE Rev. E. P. Roe is writing for the Current a serial story entitled "An Original Belle." The opening chapters will be published in September.

Mr. STIMSON, the author of "Guerndale," proposes to write three other novels, forming a complement to his "Crime of Henry Vane," the four illustrating phases of love in m dern society.

FREDERICK KAPP, of Berlin, has been at work for several years on a history of the German book-trade (portions of which appeared in a German magazine), which he hopes to have ready for press this year.

GEORGE S. BOUTWELL, of Massachusetts, has in press a book entitled, "Why I am a Republican." It contains fourteen chapters, and discusses the various questions with which the party has been identified since its organization.

DR. DUNTZER, author of the recent life of Goethe, is making rapid progress with his annotated editions of German classics. He has just issued a second volume of Goethe's poems, and Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm."

Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson, who is recovering from his recent severe illness, has nearly ready for publication, "The Children's Garden," a book of poems. They are very short, some of only just a few lines, and they show a singular remembrance of the thoughts and feelings of childhood.

MISS MATHILDE BLIND (author of the biography of George Eliot and other works) has written a novel, which is to be published shortly by Fisher Unwin (London). It is entitled "Tarantella," and relates partly to the South Italian superstition as to the bite of the tarantula spider; the chief interest, however, is more of a passionate, and partly of an æsthetic (musical) kind.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

A CORRESPONDENT desires to know who publishes "Guide to Wealth and Pathway to Health, Peace and Competence," by W. Smead. It was originally published by E. Mendenhall (Cincinnati, 1856), and is said to be now issued in New York by a Mr. Watson. Can any of our readers furnish the address?

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING Co., Baltimore, Md., announces a campaign document by Eugene L. Didier, entitled, "The Political Adventures of James G. Blaine." The publishers state that while the general tenor of the pamphlet will be "sharp, severe and striking," it will be "free from personal abuse."

SIDNEY BARCOCK, the publisher, we learn from the N. Y. Times, died at New Haven July 29, aged 87. "He was born in Hartford, CL., and succeeded his father in the publishing trade, carrying on business in New Haven for the most part of an active life. He had for forty years a branch publishing house in Charleston, S. C., one in New Orleans for some years, and one in the West, furnishing school books to all the States of the South and West."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation for the coming year a "Common-Sense Calendar," to which is attached selections from Marion Harland's well-known receipt book, "Common-Sense in the Household." On the leaf that bears the date for each day in the year will be printed a receipt, and on the face of the calendar will appear a portrait of the author with a view of her breakfast-room, reproduced from photographs and sketches from life.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. announce for publication in September "William Tyndale's Five Books of Moses, called the Pentateuch," reprinted from the edition of 1530, with full Collations, Annotations, Glossary, and Prolegomena by Rev. Dr. Mombert, a collation with Genesis of 1534 by Rev. Dr. Culross, etc. The volume will be illustrated with photo-engravings of the different texts, and of the only known autograph letter of William Tyndale.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION have in press "Siam and Laos," a work descriptive of these countries; "The Reformation Series," 3 vols., comprising "Mr. Arnold's Stories," "Grandmamma Morris' Bundle," and "Judge Green's Note Books." They will add to their long list of Sunday-school juvenile books, "Roderick Granger," "The Poacher's Daughter," "David Strong's Errand," "The Inquirer Helped," and "Flyers and Crawlers." The volumes of "Half-Hours with the Lessons" for 1885, and "Westminster Question Book" for 1885, will be ready shortly.

The July issue, (No. 8, vol. i.) of the "Bulletin of the Mercantile Library of Philadelphia," John Edmands, librarian, will prove a boon to those who have to "hunt up" things. It contains an addition to the accessions to the library, a list of Finding Books divided into two classes, indexes proper, and indexical works, the former being subdivided as follows: (a) general indexes, (b) historical indexes, (c) scientific indexes, and (d) indexes of individual authors." In the second department will be found the concordances and dictionaries of quotations. Price of this number is fixed at five cents. The annual subscription price is twenty cents.

Brown, will contain a number of discourses to the children of his parish Sunday-School in Brookline, Mass.; and "The Original Chatterbox Packet," with over 200 illustrations, and appropriate text, bound in illuminated board covers.

CHATTO & WINDUS, London, have in press "English Caricature and Satire under Napoleon I." It will be in two volumes, illustrated with 120 reproductions.

ELLIOT STOCK, London, has issued a neat reprint from the Bibliographer of Henry B. Wheatley's "Notes on the Life of John Payne Collier, with a complete list of his works, and an account of such Shakespeare documents as are believed to be spurious."

Professor Sayce says that the late Nicholas Trübner has left behind him a Ms. on the history of the book trade in the classical period, a subject in which he had been interested from his earliest boyhood. He had collected an enormous amount of material for the work, and from time to time spoke to his friends of publishing it as soon as he could finish it in accordance with the demands of a somewhat fastidious taste.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, has issued a little volume of poems, original, and translations from Heine, by Ernest Radford, entitled "Measured Steps," which contains in great part a reprint of such of Mr. Radford's original verses and translations as were issued about two years since by another publisher. Mr. Radford's original verses are, as the London Academy truly says, "in fact as well as in name, 'original; and his translations from the most un-German of Germans [Heine] retain what most translations lack—the spirit of the master."

W. JOHN STONHILL, Imperial Buildings, Ludgate Circus, London, has just issued an "A B C Paper Mill Guide for Great Britain and Europe," which contains in convenient shape, alphabetical lists of English, Scotch, and Irish paper makers, classified lists of makes of English Scotch, and Irish mills, numerical index of Irish mills, titles of mills in England and Wales and of Scotch and Irish mills, names and mill numbers, mills without numbers, names of second partners, paper mills in each county, registered water marks and titles, mill depots in London, agents for paper mills and the mills they represent, and mills and makes of France and of the German empire.

HENNINGER BROTHERS, of Heilbronn, deserve the thanks, as we hope they have the liberal encouragement of all students and lovers of old-English literature, for their scholarly and welledited issues in the Altenglische Bibliothek, edited by Eugen Kölbing, and in the Englische Sprach-und Literaturdenkmale des 16, 17, und 18. Jahrhunderts, edited by Karl Vollmöller. In the former they have recently published "Os-bern Kokenam's Legenden," edited by C. Horstmann, and in the latter they have ready Gorboduc or Ferrex and Porrex, a tragedy by Thomas Norton and Thomas Sackville, A. D.. 1561," edited by L. Toulmin Smith. In the latter series they will shortly publish Marlowe's " Tamburlaine.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS will reissue lagust 16, the celebrated novel "The Monk," of Matthew G. Lewis, M. P., popularly known s" Monk Lewis."

W. R. JENKINS has just issued "Le Roi d'Amtique," the first of a series of short French tays, written by Mr. Henry Michaud, a wellmown teacher of French, and suitable for boys' and girls' performance or recitation at school.

GINN, HEATH & Co. will shortly issue "A rammar and Reader for Beginners," by H. J. Mitchell, of the Boston University; and Colloquial Exercises and Select German Reader," by William Deutsch, of St. Louis High School.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish this week a new book by Bret Harte, containing three stories. The demand for Harte's books is greater and more constant than for the works of almost any other American writer, and thinnew book will not fail of a very hearty wel come from a host of readers.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. have just published "Essentials of English" by Alfred H. Welsh, author of "Development of English Literature and Language." Although not a grammar in the exact use of the word, its aim is to teach advanced students to write correct and elegant English. Also "Elements of English Composition," by Miss Lucy A. Chittenden, and a new and greatly enlarged edition of Prof. Matthews' "Words: their Use and Abuse."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready a new, and evidently humorous novel. with the taking title of "The King's Men, a Tale of To-morrow." The book is said to be "crowded with action and ingenious complications," based upon "the course of politics in the reign of King George the Fifth." It is the production of a brilliant literary partnership, embracing the names of Robert Grant, John Boyle O'Reilly, "J. S. of Dale," and John T. Wheelwright.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish immediately "The Life and Public Services of Grover Cleveland," by Pendleton King. The book will contain a succinct narrative of the Governor's career, with a full record of his public services; special consideration will be given to the more noteworthy of the veto messages, both in Buffalo and in Albany, which have attracted attention, and are of present interest as setting forth the theories and principles of the writer in connection with the responsibilities of office. The work has been prepared with the sanction of the Governor.

P. BLAKISTON, SON & Co., have just ready a timely and appropriate work for the season, "Hay Fever, its Etiology and Treatment," by Morell Mackenzie, M. D. of the London Hospital; "The Formation of Poisons by Micro-Organisms," a biological study of the germ theory of disease, by G. V. Black, M.D., D.D.S., an excellent history of the subject, and containing also a discussion of the value of the various discoveries of the disease germs. Volume 2 of Mackenzie, on "The Throat and Nose," treating specially of the diseases of the exophagus, nose, naso-pharynx, etc., with many illustrations. The publication of this volume, completes the most ex austive and practical treatise yet issued on the diseases of the throat. This volume was announced some time ago, but its publication has been delayed till the present, owing to the entire destruction by fire of the sheets when nearly ready to be bound. It has been reprinted from the proofsheets, which were fortunately in the possession of the author.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Critic (Aug. 2.) contains an interesting paper on "Campaign Biographies" by Charles W. Balestier, the author of the "Life of J. G. Blaine."

The proprietors of the London Illustrated News are making arrangements for the publication of an American edition simultaneously with the appearance of the English one.

Prof. Welsh, the well-known author of "Development of English Literature and Language," combines in this work both grammar and rhetoric. The publishers characterize it as "a drill-book in the usages of the English language, aiming at a like result with formal grammar, but reaching it more briefly and effectually—especially for such as occupy the intermediate space between merest rudiments and advanced rhetoric, as in the high school, the academy a preparatory schools." The chapters are rich in exam for practice and illustrations, drawn from the whole reof English literature.

HE DUTY ON POST-CURRENT PERI-ODICALS.

THE Treasury Department, as our readers nw, some time since decided that the back maters of foreign periodicals could not come as "periodicals" duty free, but must pay ty at 25 per cent as books or other printed atter. Messrs. B. Westermann & Co. having direct interest in the subject, have accepted e task of bringing public sentiment to bear in edirection of a more liberal interpretation of is clause of the tariff. They are entitled to edit for so doing, and we are glad to give see to the petition which they ask those interted to indorse.

PETITION TO THE SECRETARY OF THE TREAS-URY FOR FREE PERIODICALS.

Siz: The tariff law of March 3, 1883, puts on a free list: periodicals and newspapers in so may words without restriction of any kind material as to date, state or condition. Your tent decisions hold that the current numbers by of such publications shall be admitted free. It do not believe such was the intention of magress, as the periodical publications which we were such, retain their character as such the twery sequence necessary first to establish wir character as periodicals. The issue of merday of a periodical cannot become a "book Indende" by being superseded by the issue Ite-day, but is simply one of the links of the hain which only as a whole can have the character of a periodical.

We respectfully refer to the correspondence four firm with the Department, wherein we adeavored more fully to establish the character periodical literature as distinct from "books," ad beg to repeat our request that your decisions whidding the free admission of all but the curent numbers be reversed, and the store-houses is scientific research opened to students of this country without taxation, of which, small as the field from this source is, the overflowing exhequer of the United States cannot stand in seed. It solely depends on your good will to accede to this request, as the most scrupulous expounder of the tariff law can read it in this liberal sense, much more readily than in the sense hitherto adopted by you. We have asked the scientific men of the United States to give us the support which the weight of their names carries, which are hereto appended.

Respectfully,

B. Westermann & Co.

838 Broadway, New York, July 22, 1884.

There is much to be said in support both of the Treasury ruling and of Messrs. Westermann's position; in other words, the case is the difficult one of drawing a line somewhere, with the surety that wherever it is drawn, some injustice is likely to be done and some one likely to be displeased. The line drawn at twenty years as the age at which books go out of competition with current products, is one absolutely arbitrary, but some line had to be drawn. In the present case, we do not see that any interest would be harmed by a liberal construction, in which case a liberal construction ought to be made.

WHAT A BOOKSELLER SHOULD KNOW.

From the British Colonial Printer and Stationer.

ANOTHER typical conversation may be to this effect. Customer: "I want a nice religious book, to give to my daughter, who is just leaving home." Bookseller: "Yes, sir (in his mind, however, thinking, That is a tolerably vague description. And I wonder whether he is a Churchman, or a Dissenter, or what); have you any particular choice? Has she read the 'Pilgrim's Progress'?" This because it is a safe book to begin with—a sort of leading article. "Oh, of course. But I don't want that sort of book at all. Something more solid—not a storybook." Bookseller thinks, Shall it be new or old? I'll try something pretty new. "Has she read Farrar's 'Life of Christ'—very popular—some beautiful editions—remarkably cheap, too." "Don't care for Farrar." Here was a poser. Customer may be one of two parties, a High Churchman or a Dissenter. Try the first hint.

"LET me see," says the bookseller to himself, "what are the most likely names in this line? What publisher's stock have I got? Oh, there's Rivington, Suttaby, Parker, Kegan Paul, Masters and Skeffington. Some of these are sure to fetch him." Brings out a lot of Rivington's books. "Here's a fine series of standard writers; very prettily got up—à Kempis, Francillon, Jeremy Taylor, Bishop Wilson, Keble. Very neat editions." "Yes, I have Jeremy Taylor in various sizes; both in one or separate, referring to 'Living and Dying.' Certainly, here are some with rubrications and red lines; here cheaper ones. Thank you; I am sure the lady will be pleased."

In this very short transaction, comparatively—for some transactions of the kind are prolonged sixfold—a wide range of knowledge has been drawn upon by the bookseller. He knew that for this patron it would be little use to bring down the books, however popular, of Routledge, Cassell, Ward & Lock. The probabilities lie in another direction. He selects the religious houses. Even of these there are a lot that must be discriminated from. He will not show a Churchman, unless asked for, the books of J. Clarke & Co., of Alabaster & Passmore, of Hodder & Stoughton, etc. To Dissenters, on the other hand, he would specially commend them. Even among Churchmen there are High, Broad, and Low publishers. Even among High Churchmen there are the Ritualists and the old "High-and-dry" school, each with its representative publishers. A book by Bishop Ryle will most certainly not be issued by Masters & Co., and the catalogue of Mr. J. F. Shaw will most decidedly be found deficient of the works of Canon Carter or Dr. Pusey.

WE present these skeletons of counter conversations simply, to show the varied attainments, the wide range of bookish knowledge, which a bookseller must possess. The ability to discriminate in this way is necessary, even when a customer wants a history of England. Does he want a Tory history like Alison's; or Whig history like Macaulay's; or a Liberal history like Molesworth's? Must it be of the old style, like Hume and Smollett's, or the new school, in which doings of the people rather than of their rulers are described, like Charles Knight, J. R. Green, or E. A. Freeman? He must not offer Cobbett's "History of the Reformation" to a Protestant, or Dr. Stoughton's to a Roman Catholic.

ALL this demands, as we said before, experience, memory, wide reading, and a logical mind; hence it is of the first importance that the booksellers of the future should be recruited from youths who have tastes that are harmonious, and abilities that are commensurate.

As a rule retail booksellers are too apathetic. They take things too leisurely and do not push their trade. The Bookseller, in a very excellent article of this month's issue, gives the following advice: "If customers won't come of themselves, the bookseller must bestir himself and go in search of them. There are plenty of buyers, but they must be found out, and means must be devised to draw them into the shop. If one method will not answer, another must be tried; and what fails in one locality will very likely prove effectual in another. No specific cure for dull trade can be laid down, but each bookseller must think out the plan best suited to his own case. We are all inclined to be pessimists and think our times worse than those of our fathers; but if the old gentlemen could only rise from their graves, and recount the struggles through which they passed, we should possibly find that discontent was kept at an average level, however far back we extended our inquiries.

AFTER all, bookselling has some rewards of its own, which are not to be measured by the amount of profit to be derived from the occupation; and it is necessary to remember this, to account for the number of intelligent men who are to be found all over the kingdom engaged in a business which may lead to a competency, but rarely leads to fortune. But the bare fact of being an intelligent man and a bookseller will not pay rent and taxes. One must endeavor to thrive, and to leave our children a little better off than our fathers left us. Our business is to sell books, not to hoard them up, as old Joseph Lilly used to do with his pet incu-nabulæ. The book-buying class is multiply at a great rate, and another decade of sch board education will add fresh millions of e tomers. The tide is rising for the booksel who knows how to float on its surface. must manage to take thirteen where his fat took three; he must be content with small profits, and he must know how to disperse parcel the moment it arrives from the publish To do this he has to consider his surrounding and to adjust his operations accordingly. great centre, like Liverpool or Manche needs one plan of operation; a quiet little like Ayr or Salisbury needs the exercise of entirely different system. But whatever the vironment, a way is to be found by which bookseller can obtain a fairly remunerative h ness, provided he has the means and the inte gence to discover it.

WHAT IS A TRADE JOURNAL?

From the British and Colonial Printer and Station

We were lately shown the advertisement one publication, which it was stated would a Trade Journal. It is not necessary to say what particular trade this "journal" was attach itself—the points we are about to refer would arise whatever trade was concent. This new venture was to be "given an entirely; it was to have a "guaranteed circulor" of 6000 copies, and, as it was alleged certain other papers relating to the same such had a smaller circulation, the projector of new paper maintained that his would be superior advertising medium, in the arithmet proportion of the numbers.

Now, we must say there is a fallacy in a What is a journal, an organ, or whatever it is be called? It is a publication having reand intermittent readers who are subscribed occasional purchasers. The editor address these people. They form his constituency, or his paper holds its own by the suffrages of readers. If they were not interested in it would not buy it. It may be said: But the are many papers supported by their advertise Exactly so; but why do people advertise in the Simply because they have readers. So it comes to the same thing comes to the same thing.

A paper that is simply "given away'"—thr at people—pitched down by the postman on desks of it does not matter how many people is not a journal at all. Unless there is a stituency—a body of people who voluntaread, and an editor responsible for provident with reading matter—there are none of elements of journalism.

Political parties have sometimes tried further a cause by starting a "paper" to given away. The expedient has always beginned failure. It has been invariably found that pole are not influenced by what is thus present to them.

If no one accepts a particular journal as some extent their "guide," or their "phile pher," or their "friend," then the journal has existence—it is virtually defunct. This is a that should never be lost sight of. It is not number of papers printed, it is the number reas in a battle it is not the number of shots find but the number that find their mark, that are be taken into account.

The prospectus to which we referred goe to say that it will have a circulation of 6 lying that such a circulation will be twice as able to advertisers as that of a paper that only 3000 circulation, or six times as valuas one having only 1000. Herein is con-ed another fallacy. The number printed does coincide with the numbers read. Of the ions of handbills distributed yearly in the sts of our large towns, how many are read? of those that are read, how many are acted 1? So in regard to a periodical—number is no rion of the advantages offered to advertisers. his paper is to be maintained entirely, then, is advertisements. This suggests another of the case. It is simply a collection of atisements; not a journal. It is a combinaof prospectuses printed together to form a palet—but is no journal in any sense of the L. On this principle, any six firms who e each one thousand circulars, might com-and issue a "journal," consisting of the six bined prospectuses. Or, a larger number of ple might do the same. The principle is e; but there is no trade "journalism" inred. A pamphlet of this kind would not assarily be of value, nor be respected, nor influence—except through the force of the es included. The advertisers give the posito the "journal;" not the journal giving a to the advertisers. This is altogether an ssion of the natural order of things.

is a good motto. "Never give advice unyou are asked." A paper of this kind is in this position: it comes forward uninand says, "You should do this, or avoid ;; buy this, leave alone that; this is good nething advertised); that is bad (something advertised)." The natural reply is: "No asked your opinion; I am accustomed to my own paper. I don't want your irremible, unasked for, and avowedly interested lee. Boy! waste paper basket."

lence we caution advertisers not to spend bey on insertions in a paper got up simply to hate advertisements. These advertisements be chiefly of their own rivals, whom they has helping. The principle of "circulation" false principle; what ought to be looked for fastion and influence. If it were otherwise, sumber of firms might, on the co-operative men, bring into existence "papers." Six be combine, and flood the trade with printed her; but it would not be journalism. Sensimen would see through it; that the thing merely a composite circular. If this co-have arrangement were carried on in a landforward manner, it would have advanted to be the half-dozen firms might together and save the profits of the "midnan" or go-between—the publisher of this land journal. It would be a perfectly legitium that is, the heacht or pershable heacht to have the papers to the half to the heacht of the heacht of the half to the heacht of the half to the heacht of the half to the heacht of the heacht of the heacht of the half to the heacht of the heacht what is the benefit or probable benefit to betisers of such a combined circular? This be shown best by an illustration. There at present various sheets issued devoted to barical programmes. Several houses of stainment combine and the result is a aper." This is all right in its way, but if any were in doubt as to the merits of a play, or med advice as to where he should spend his being, would be consult this sheet? Certainly is he would go to his newspaper, his Times Telegraph, where he would get a criticism, if one written by a responsible person. In the other case he would look for merely a puff in the interest of the firm inserting the advertisement.

If a man will act on this principle in a matter of such small moment as choosing a stall or a box at a house of entertainment, will he not very much more adopt the principle in regard to buying goods or machinery? Where, then, is the value of the "medium?" Will the intending purchaser not, after all, have recourse to the journal in which he has confidence, and which has the confidence more or less of the trade generally, as shown by its subscription list and the number of its regular readers? Any recommendation in such an advertising sheet is robbed of all its value because editorial responsibility, arising from the non-existence of a clientile, is entirely deficient.

These remarks apply to all trades equally. At the present day it is especially important to keep in view the proper and legitimate functions of journalism. It is essential to be able to distinguish between a class organ and an advertising pamphlet. The one represents a profession having certain definite interests. The other is simply a speculation, may be, of an advertising agent. And to compare a thing given away to a journal having its regular circle of constituents is absurd. More than that, we believe, and all experience goes to show, that advertising in such hybrid media, neither circulars nor journals, is a delusion and a snare.

OBITUARY. HENRI LAUBE.

HENRI LAUBE, the German poet, critic, litterateur and theatrical director, died at Vienna on August 1. Laube was born at Sprottau in Silesia, in 1806. He studied at Halle, and became Professor in the University of Breslau. Deciding to devote himself to literature be went to Leipsic in 1831. He took an active part in the stirring politics of the time, and was twice cast in prison for his position in the controversies of the hour. He became director of the Vienna Stadt Theatre, and is ranked as one of the best theatrical critics of the world. He wrote untiringly, and his works in the various departments of literature, collected and published in fifteen volumes in 1875, form a rich treasury of dissertations on almost every question that has moved the world during the past thirty years.

REV. MARK PATTISON.

THE Rev. Mark Pattison, Rector of Lincoln College, Oxford University, died at London, July 31. He was known chiefly as an essayist and teacher. He was born at Hornby, in Yorkshire, in 1813, and was educated at Oriel College. He became a Fellow of Lincoln College in 1840, and in 1861 was chosen rector of the college. Mr. Pattison's principal works are: "Tendencies of Religious Thought in England, 1688-1750," "Essays and Reviews," 1860; "Report on Elementary Education in Protestant Germany," 1860, second edition, 1871; "Suggestions on Academical Organization," 1868; "Pope's Essay on Man," with notes, 1869, sixth edition, 1879; "Pope's Satires and Epistles," with notes, 1872, second edition, 1874; Isaac Casaubon, 1559-1614," a biography, 1875; "Life of Milton," 1880, and "Milton's Sonnets," with notes, 1882. Mrs. Pattison was at one time the fine art critic for the Academy. In 1878 she published a work in two volumes on "The French Renaissance."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JULES VERNE is about to publish a novel which is to be entitled "L'Archipel en Feu." It was suggested by the Krakatoa earthquakes.

MR. CHARLES HENRY HART, of Phila., has written the article on "Philadelphia," for the next—the eighteenth volume of the "Encyclopædia Britannica."

FRANK H. CUSHING has returned from the Zuñi country to Washington, and is engaged at the Smithsonian Institute, preparing the results of his researches for publication.

GEN. GRANT is preparing for the Century a series of articles on the battles in which he participated. He is said to be at present engaged upon a paper on Vicksburg.

'GENERAL LEW WALLACE says that his great desire in writing his new book will be "to show the whole world the facts, which have never been appreciated, in regard to the conquest of Constantinople by the Moslems."

PROF. MAX MÜLLER is now carrying through the press a volume of biographical essays, containing, among others, articles on Râmmohun Roy, Keshub Chunder, Dayânanda Sarasvatt, Bunsen, Colebrooke, and Mohl.

Mr. F. Anstey purposes to publish a collection of several short stories. The volume will take its title from "The Black Poodle," which appeared some time ago in the Cornhill. It will have a frontispiece by Mr. Du Maurier and initial letters designed by the author.

Dr. W. W. HUNTER, is preparing a new edition of his excellent "Imperial Gazetteer of India," in which the results of the last census are to be fully recorded. Whereas the former edition occupied nine volumes this will fill thirteen, of which five are already finished.

ACCORDING to the London Athenaum, there is no truth in the statement that Prof. Seeley is preparing a revised and enlarged edition of his "Expansion of England." The author has no intention of making any alteration in the book, and is, in fact, busy now with quite other subjects.

Mr. Andrew Lang has written a fairy tale for children, to interpret Richard Doyle's well-known series of pictures "In Fairyland." The name of the story is "The Princess Nobody," and the pictures will be reproduced in colors by Mr. Edmund Evans, who is so well known for his work on the Greenaway and Caldecott books.

THE author of "Called Back," Mr. F. J. Fargus, better known under his pseudonym of "Hugh Conway," contributes three lyrics to the current number of the Christian Union. One of the features of the Christmas number of Harper's Magazine will be a ghost story by this same author, who has so suddenly sprung into popularity.

M. J. J. JUSSERAND has followed up his volumes on the early English drama, Chaucer, and "Piers Plowman," by publishing, with MM. Hachette et Cie, of Paris, "La Vie Nomade, et les Routes d'Angleterre au XIVe. Siècle" (Hachette). Roads, travellers, itinerant preachers, and charlatans, outlaws, pilgrims, etc., have been carefully studied by M. Jusserand, and he has brought together a mass of curious and interesting details respecting them.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

J. H. RUTLER, Phila., will publish at con Horace E. Scudder's "History of the Unit States of America."

The work will also contain steel-engraved teches of the public parks and public and private buildings; also an old map of the city as it appeared in 1728. It will also be furnished with a comprehensive index and vignette portrait of Benson J. Lossing, LL.D.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co., announce as in press, of aids to reflection, quotations of maxims, metaphors, counsels, etc., selected from writers of all ages and both hemispheres. There will be two editions, 8vo, red line, and the 12mo edition, both of which will be bound in a variety of styles. Also "The Enchiridion of Wit," a small quarto, containing a collection of the choicest bon-mots, witticisms, and pointed anecdotes, thus making a convenient and entertaining hand-book of conversational wit; a new and complete edition of Mrs. Wister's ever-popular translations from the German, the 22 volumes being bound in 11 vs. in cloth, half calf and alligator; "Euphrasia and Alberta" a new book of poems by John Ap Thomas Jones, author of "The Retrospect;" "Marjorie Huntingdon," a novel, by Harriet Pennawell Belt, and a new novel by the "Duchess," the title of which will be announced later. The new edition now ready of Lewis's "American Sportsman" contains new chapters on the origin, breeding, and science of breeding dogs, and full information on breech-loading and hammerless guns, etc., by Arnold Burges.

THE two concluding volumes of Mr. Froude's Life of Carlyle will be entitled "Carlyle's Life in London, from 1834 to his Death in 1881."

A corrous selection from the correspondence of Turgénieff is to be published at St. Petersburg by the Russian Society for Self-help among Men of Letters.

GUSTAV FOCK, of Leipzig, has just issued the first half of Prof. M. Trautmann's book "Die Sprachlaute im allgemeinen, und die Laute des Englischen, Französischen und Deutschen im besondern.

CAPTAIN BURTON'S translation of "The Thousand Nights and a Night" will be ready for printing (not publishing) in February of next year; the first issue will consist of three volumes, one third of the whole work.

WALDOW'S "Encyclopädie der graphischen Künste," which has been publishing since the beginning of 1880, has come to a close with its 28th part. Its author states that it contains 2798 articles about printing, 581 cuts, and two tables.

GEORGE BELL & Sons, London, have in press a treatise on the old schools and masters cf fence, by Mr. Egerton Castle. It will contain facsimile reproductions of illustrations from the most celebrated writers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and an exhaustive bibliography of the subject.

SIMPKIN, MARSHALL & Co. have just issued a reprint of "Hamlet" from the first folio of 1623, retaining the spelling, initial capitals, and italics. The price is only eighteenpence, for a convenient and handsome small quarto of 148 pages. It is intended to issue another play every month until have been reprinted.

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & Co. have published an interesting and suggestive little pamphlet "On the Powers of the Alphabet," by Dr. Hake, whose object it is to establish a tonic scale of alphabetic sounds, and to classify the letters of the alphabet on the basis of intensity of sound—that is, amplitude of sound vibrations.

"Great Truths by Great Authors," a dictionary | England, will issue in his English Scholar's PROF. ARBER, Montague Road, Birmingham, Library a volume which will be of especial interest to Americans. It will contain all the works of Capt. John Smith, now first collected, and will make a book of 1120 pages, with six maps. The price of the volume will be 12s. 6d.

FIELD & TUER, we learn from the London Athenaum, "have engaged to pay the sum of £1500 to Max O'Rell, the author of 'John Bull et son Ile,' for the right of publishing his own English translation of his forthcoming book, which is to appear almost simultaneously in Paris, London, and New York. The new volume is to consist of humorous sketches on English social life."

THE following volumes are announced as in the press for the Parchment Library: "English Sacred Lyrics;" "Sir Joshua Reynolds's Discourses," edited by Mr. E. W. Gosse; "Milton's Poetical Works," in two volumes; "Selections from Swift's Works," edited by Mr. Stanley Lane-Poole; and "Irish Lyrics," edited by Mr. Justin McCarthy. Somewhat later will come a volume of "Selections from Coleridge's Prose Writings," edited by Mr. T. Hall Caine.

SOME imperfect statements having been circulated about Mr. J. Addington Symonds's forthcoming book on Latin students' songs of the twelfth century, it may be as well to state, says the London Academy, "that he has himself translated about sixty of these compositions into English verse, and that he will publish these together with an essay on Goliardic poetry. The book will be called 'Wine, Women, and Song,' in reference to Luther's famous couplet, and will be dedicated to Mr. R. L. Stevenson."

CASSELL & Co. have been intrusted by the Corporation of London with the preparation of a volume entitled "London's Roll of Fame," containing extracts from official documents connected with the presentation of the honorary freedom of the city or congratulatory addresses to distinguished personages for the past century and a quarter. The work, which will be illustrated by portraits and other illustrations, will be ready next month.

"The large wood-engraving of London, recently issued with the Graphic," says the Paper and Printing Trades Journal, is specially noticeable not only on account of the picture having been taken from a balloon, but because it is the largest wood-engraving yet executed. The block measures 44×33 inches, and contains 1452 square inches of surface. It is composed of 176 pieces, and weighs 56 lbs., 7 lbs. being represented by 314 brass bolts. Multiplied by electrotyping, thus preserving the original, several Graphic presses were employed simultaneously in printing."

ALEXANDER GARDNER, of Paisley, Scotland, is projecting a series of books under the title of The Antiquarian Library, of which Mr. William Andrews, Secretary of the Hull Literary Club, will write four volumes. The first will be entitled "Gibbet Lore;" the next, called "Obsolete Punishments," will give an historical account of the ducking stool, brank, jougs, pillory, stocks, drunkard's cloak, repentance stool, whipping stool, public penance, etc.; the third will furnish a popular "History of Bells," and the fourth is to be entitled "Wells: Their History, Legends, Superstitions, Folk-lore, and Poetry." Numerous illustrations will be included.

THE NOVEL OF THE YEAR.

Ready To-day:

THE KING'S MEN.

A TALE OF TO-MORROW.

BY

BERT GRANT, JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY, J. S. of Dale, JOHN T. WHEELWRIGHT.

One Volume. 12mo. $1.25.

This daring and ingenious story of the future is unquestionably destined to be the most ely discussed book of the summer. The brilliant literary partnership which produced it has used the keenest curiosity; and certainly the experiment has been the boldest in the history iterary collaboration. Of the plot, or of what can be gathered from the story's motto concernthe course of politics in the reign of King George the Fifth, it need only be said that the autry of their conception is fully supported by the admirable telling and exciting incident of the story. The book is crowded with action and ingenious complication; and yet the powers which authors have shown elsewhere are never lost in its rapid movement.

THE SUPPLEMENT

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE

The work of compiling the supplement to the American Catalogue has progressed so as to make the early completion and issue of the volume practicable and certain. The plan w follow that of the American Catalogue, giving the author and title-entries and the subject-entries in separate alphabets, but the two alphabets will be included in one volume. The author as title slips are already alphabeted, and the editorial revision has reached the letter M. able that the Supplement, which will cover all books recorded between July 1st, 1876, and 1876, Ist, 1884, will include titles of over 20,000 books, and its practical value as an every-day works tool will almost exceed that of the CATALOGUE itself. The arrangements in progress for primal will enable the publication of the complete work in early fall, and it will be delivered to scribers either in two parts, the first including author and title-entries, the second, subject-entries or complete, as may seem expedient. In either event it will bind as one volume, about thickness of the second volume of the AMERICAN CATALOGUE. If delivered in two parts, it probably be practicable to deliver the first before October 1st, and the second during that month The size of the book is not yet fully determined, and we should be pleased to hear from subscribers, as they send in their subscriptions, whether they prefer the large quarto of the CATA LOGUE or imperial octavo of the TRADE-LIST ANNUAL. The edition will be limited to 1250 copie and no plates will be made.

Price to subscribers, $10; after publication day, probably $12 or $15.

Prompt replies will do much to facilitate the work, and we look confidently to a trade support which will make this important work an accomplished fact. Blanks will be forwards to all who desire them. Address

WITH SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF

JOHN A. LOGAN.

1 Vol., 12mo, Cloth, $1.

This volume, which has been read in proof by Mr. Blaine, has his sanction as to its accuty. It is a full but succinct record of his life. It contains, in addition to the biography, imritant selections from his speeches, which of themselves are an admirable history of his public seer. The volume is illustrated with portraits of the candidates. A letter from Mr. Blaine, which he has kindly permitted the use, gives the chief facts of his life in his own words. It reproduced in fac-simile.

RANCH NOTES IN KANSAS, COLORADO, THE INDIAN TERRITORY, AND NORTHERN TEXAS. By REGINALD ALDRIDGE. With Illustrations. 16mo, paper, 50 cents.

A very interesting and amusing narrative. . . . Certainly Mr. Aldridge's book is much more witty, contains many remarkable episodes, is far fuller of new and racy information, and, if we may trust our own judgment on so ticklish M, is out and away a safer guide to the intending emigrant than 'Letters from our Boys,' which have recently used under such distinguished literary patronage."—Pall Mall Gazette.

NOTES IN SEASON.

Brentano Bros. have just published in pamphlet form "The Political Biography of the Hon. Sylvester MacFinnigan, a Man of High Renown," illustrated by Bellew and Chip.

CHAS. H. WHITING has just published "Our Unjust Tariff Laws: A Plain Statement about High Taxes," by Henry Loomis Nelson, with an introductory letter by Hon. J. G. Carlisle.

Funk & Wagnalls have ready in their Standard Library, Edgar Fawcett's new novel, Rutherford." It treats both of life among the fashionable circles of New York and among the lowly.

WILLIAM S. GOTTSBERGER will issue at once, "The Amazon," an art novel by Carl Vosmaer, from the Dutch by E. J. Irving, with frontispiece by Alma Tadema, R.A., and preface by Georg Ebers.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "Life on a Ranch," by Reginald Aldridge; "Reforms, Their Difficulties and Possibilities," by the author of "Conflict in Nature and Life;" and "Handbook for Horsewomen," by H. L. De Bussigny.

W. B. CLARKE & CARRUTH have just published "Women Under the Laws of Massachuzetts: Their Rights, Privileges, Disabilities," by Harry H. Sprague, a work defining the position reached and now occupied by women, so far as it differs from that of men.

LEE & SHEPARD have just issued "John norn's Folks," a novel of Western life, by An-Thorn's Folks," a novel of Western life, by Angeline Teal. They also call attention to two important works they have recently published: "The Co-operative Commonwealth," by Laurence Groulund, and "The Development Theory," by Prof. J. Y. Bergen, Jr., and Fanny Bergen.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT have just published "The Democratic Party, its Political History and Influence," by J. Harris Patton. This and George S. Boutwell's work, "Why I am a Re-publican, a History of the Republican Party, a Defence of its Policy, and the Reasons which Justify its Continuance in Power," just published by William J. Betts & Co., Hartford, seem to have been written to compliment each other. The one deals with the achievements of the Republican party, the other aims to set forth what the author considers the errors and failures of the Democratic party.

England two hundred years hence is the scene of very ingenious story. Monarchy is depicted as thrown, the King, George the Fifth being in exile in A ica, and Great Britain a republican government. Richard Lincoln as President. This is the background a most romantic series of incidents, love episodes, come is by the Royalists and so on. Although one might be led to suppose from the title and the authors' at that the book was a humorous one, it is not, exceptar as humor lies in the odd combination of people as cidents, and in the satire of the whole conception of work.

Rebin Holmes has been brought up to expect $15,000 from the aunt who gave her the peculiar name. Three weeks before coming of age she hears that her guardian has lost her money in unfortunate speculation. Shortly after, her idolized mother dies. Robin has a natural gift for mathematics and music. After much effort she obtains a position as book-keeper, and gives great satisfaction. The tone of the book is healthy and the plot is natural. Suitable for girls from fifteen to eighteen.

The scene is first laid in Georgia, and the author describes the patriotism and suffering during the Rebellion in a touching, unpartisan way. After the war Sydney goes North to seek an aunt, attended by his faithful servant Aaron, who remains with his dead master's son after the emancipation of the slaves gives him his choice of well-paid service, or much suffering with his former owners. The book shows a healthy, unsectarian religious faith and a firm belief that this world is full of good, kind people. Interesting for boys and girls.

MORE POST-OFFICE RED-TAPE.

OUR vigorous correspondent who keeps two up eyes wide open in the interests of the de and the public, to the alterations of the st-Office Department, points out elsewhere latest development of red-tape on the part of ese servants of the people. The law on sich the recent decision of the Postmastermeral is based, was intended to extend cerin privileges, and lower certain rates, and as publisher of a periodical had a right to send sown periodical through the post at two cents r pound, he was expressly excepted from this , lest it might seem to conflict with and sit his privileges under the old law. The deion, whether by careless use of words or pursed intention, actually prohibits say the pubher of the Publishers' Weekly from mailing ppy of the New York Herald for one cent for ir ounces, although any other citizen who is t a publisher or a news agent may do so. is is so entirely silly that we are inclined to ak the writer of the decision was careless in use of words. The Postmaster-General suld in that case revise the wording.

The other instance of red-tape referred to is As new one, but it ought even at this late day be reformed. The spirit of the law is that no dividual communication should accompany with - class matter. But it provided that Upon any fourth-class package the sender by write his name and address with the word from,' and may write the number (quantity) id names of the articles inclosed; and may to write, on a tag or label attached, a mark, imber, name, or letter, for purpose of identitation." The Department saw a chance for ti-tape in the words "a" and "or," and it mile the most of its opportunity. The followis its ruling: "It will be observed that what my be written upon the tag is simply 'a mark, number, name, or letter,' not to tell the width or price, but to identify the article. But should there be two numbers or two letters, or a number and a letter, or a name and a number or letter, it would not be entitled to pass as fourthclass matter. In other words, the conjunction 'or,' as employed in the statute, restricts that which may be written to one thing, be it mark, number, name, or letter."

This is as excellent a quality of red-tape as can be manufactured. The Post-Office Department has made great progress within a few years past, but there is constantly evident a tendency of reaction against the interests of the public. This tendency ought to be resisted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

POST-OFFICE AMENITIES.

New York, August 8, 1884.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

Some of us from our past experiences have ceased to be very much surprised at anything that comes from the Post-Office Department, either in the way of blundering or hair-splitting; but some recent efforts go so far in advance of their previous exploits as to really deserve public notice.

June 9, 1883, an Act of Congress was approved providing that "the rate of postage on newspaper and periodical publications of the second class, when sent by others than the publisher or news agent, shall be one cent for each four ounces or fractional part thereof," etc.

Now to a common mind this law would be plain enough, showing that the special publisher of any particular paper was exempted from this law because he was already provided with a rate one half that in the present law, or two cents per pound.

On the 27th of June, 1384, an order was issued by the Postmaster-General (see Postal Guide for July, page 8), entirely changing, annulling, and overriding the law of Congress, and preventing ALL "publishers and news agents" from availing themselves of this law, simply and solely on the ground of their occupation!

And not content with doing this he expressly says "This act in nowise enlarges the rights of publishers and news agents;" and again "All persons not of these classes are entitled to send through the mails, without regard to place of mailing, destination, or distance, newspapers and periodical publications of the second class, weighing not more than four ounces, by affixing thereto a one-cent postage-stamp."

You will observe that the Postmaster-General, in his wisdom, expressly exempts from the operation of the law two classes of citizens, so that no person belonging to either of the proscribed classes can send any transient newspaper or periodical through the mail unless he or they pay postage thereon according to the old law at the rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

This order is made by Judge Gresham in the face of a decision of the Supreme Court "that all the citizens of the United States have a constitutional right to equal participation in the benefits of legislation and the use of any instrumentality created by it, unless the exclusion be imposed by way of punishment for crime, and then after due conviction only, and that any condition destructive of this equality is repugnant to the spirit of the constitution." And this decision he should have known, as it was rendered against one of his own predecessors in office.

Do you ask how this order is to be enforced by postmasters throughout the land? I can only say I do not know unless they call up every man wishing to mail a paper and put him under oath as to whether he is a publisher or

Now for a case of "hair-splitting." The law provides that on merchandise the sender "may also write, on a tag or label attached, a mark, number, name, or letter, for purpose of identification." Now the ruling is that if you write more than one thing, be it mark, number, name, or letter, it will subject the whole parcel to letter postage; but you can stamp or print "prices, sizes, different numbers, marks, letters," as many as you please without affecting the rate of postage.

In closing let me suggest that those of us who belong to the proscribed classes shall daily join in the refrain: "Great is Red-Tape, and the Post-Office Department is its Prophet!" S.

POPULARITY NOT A TEST OF MERIT.

From the Critic.

A BEWILDERING array of figures has lately been going the rounds of the press, in the shape of estimates of the probable circulation of Mr. Blaine's book and of the author's supposititious profits-figures which have attained such proportions under the manipulation of the "arithmetic men" of the press, that they approach the sarcastic estimate of a humorous journal, that the book would have a sale of five million copies and that Mr. Blaine's profits would be about twenty-five million dollars. The work, however, will have a large sale, for almost any subscription-book is reasonably certain of a wide The book-agent is irresistible. circulation. Some of the statistics of his conquering career are simply amazing. The late Albert D. Richardson, for instance, was one of the most popular of American authors, if the sale of books is the criterion of popularity, for two of his works, "Field, Dungeon and Escape," and "Beyond the Mississippi," had a circulation of 255,000 copies. Matthew Hale Smith's "Sunshine and Shadow" sold to the extent of 100,000 copies. J. T. Headley's "History of the Civil War" 150,000 purchasers. Fifty-five thousand copies were sold of "Knots Untied," a detective book; and like figures might be given by the column. And yet, of the long list of subscription-books, very few are of any permanent value, and fewer still belong at all to literature, in the real significance of the word. They are written and published "for revenue only But they attain a circulation that is seldom reached The most popular through the regular trade. American novelist in the commercial sense is, perhaps, the Rev. E. P. Roe, and the first editions of his later novels have consisted of 25,000 copies-a most respectable number, but almost insignificant when compared with the figures of the subscription-books. And with what contempt would a publisher in that department look upon the 12,500 copies which constituted first edition of Mr. Crawford's latest novel! 1 fact is, and it is perhaps a rather consoling fact the immediate popularity of a book has no a essary connection with its permanent va Thus one of the most popular writers of our gre and salad days was Mistress Fanny Fern. "Fern Leaves" had a sale of nearly 100,0 copies, her "Ruth Hall" of 55,000, and I "Shady Side" of 46,000. Few books of the day equalled them in popularity. But wh oh! where are they to-day? Out of print a out of remembrance, every one of Another famous literary woman of a generati ago was Fanny Forester-in those days our l erature was prolific in Fanny Ferns and Fam Foresters and Minnie Myrtles—whose collect writings, in a two-volume edition bearing title of "Alderbrook," had a sale of 334 copies; and the biography of the amiable wifound 15,000 purchasers. Still another wid known writer was Miss Cummins, whose " La lighter" had a circulation of nearly or 100,000. Our fathers regarded "Doesticks funny-and so he was, more or lessbought 77,000 copies of his books; and, to of the account, probably, they purchased 55,6 copies of that exhilarating work, Benton "Thirty Years' View," and 145,000 of Kane "Arctic Explorations." To come down to lat times, American readers have recovered for the Muhlback craze, just as people recover is the measles; but while the attack was at height of its virulence, it was very acute ind The writer lost track of the Muhlback seri the sixteenth volume, but up to that point it! enjoyed a sale of 240,000 volumes, and the gregate circulation must have been someth astounding.

Figures to the purpose might be multiple almost indefinitely, but perhaps enough been given to point the moral. The gods of hills are not the gods of the valleys. It iterature of one generation suffers hardly at hands of the next. And the stamp of populapproval is by no means the stamp of merit.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Literary World of Aug. 9 is a "novel" number, being almost-exclusively devoted to reviews of current fiction.

THE most notable feature of the Library Yournal for July is the prospectus of the proposed School of Library Economy at Columbia College, by Melvil Dewey, which makes an article of several pages.

Shakespeariana for this month contains studies of the characters of "Lady Macbeth" and "Constance," the former by E. S. Emery, the latter, which begins a series, by Margaret Isabella Tucker.

An illustrated paper on "A Corner of the Gulf of Mexico," by a New Orleans merchant, in the September Manhattan, will treat of a portion of the United States almost wholly unknown to Northerners.

THE New York Times is responsible for the information that "Mr. Murat Halsted, editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Gasette, is about to establish a new evening paper in this city, the principal feature of which will be the advocacy of Blaine for the Presidency."

The first issue of the "second series" of The Studio, edited by Clarence Cook and published by Gaston L. Feuardent at No. 30 Lafayette Place, is under date of August 2. Mr. Cook contributes a promising salutatory and some interesting criticisms of the statues recently unveiled in this city and Hartford. The Studio will be published fortnightly except in the months of July and August.

The September Century will contain two interesting articles by Philadelphians. The one a curious paper on the "Legends of the Passamaquoddy," by Charles G. Leland, the result of many years' study by the author of the legends of the Algonkin Indians, will be illustrated by drawings on birch bark, by a Quadi Indian. The other, an anecdotal paper of the tricycling order, by Joseph Pennell, an expert and enthusiastic wheelman, records with the assistance of a wealth of illustrations the incidents of a journey from Coventry to Chester.

WITH the July number the Art Age enters into its second year and increases its subscription price from one dollar to two dollars a year. It has been so improved and enlarged during its bief career, that it is fully justified in doubling its subscription. Mr. Arthur B. Turnure, its careful editor (and proprietor), in graceful acknowledgments for past favors says: "Possibly in fulfilling the purpose of the Art Age, it may be advisable to add a department of pure art as distinguished from applied—giving examples of easel work and notes from the studios. Should this be found desirable, due notice of the addition will be made."

Democratic Party:

Its Political History and Influence.

By PROF. J. H. PATTON,

Author of "Concise History of the American People," "Natural Resources of the United States," etc.

A book for every voter. 16mo, cloth, $1.

"A manual in a concise form of the history and growth, as well as the principles held and put in practice by our different political organizations from the trying period of 1780-1801, to the present time. The oldest of these—the Democratic—is the basis of the book, while its chief rivals—the Federal, the Whig, and the Republican parties—are examined. All the important political events and measures are here arranged under their headings, and the thoughtful reader cannot help finding himself well informed on the political, moral, financial, and industrial questions of the day."—New York Graphic.

The Greatest Question of the Age:

The Coöperative Commonwealth

IN ITS OUTLINES AN EXPOSITION OF MODERN SOCIALISM. By Laurence Gast LUND. 16mo, cloth, $1.

"This little volume sets forth with admirable conciseness and distinctness all the leading tenets of the socialist philosophy and political economy. . . . No American reader who desires to be well-informed can afford to neglect the lucid, learned, and often eloquent exposition which Mr. Gronlund offers us."—N. Y. Sun.

"People who are curious to know just what Modern Socialism is,—what are its dreams, its repressed desires, its plant and expectations for the future, its passionate folly, its mad hatreds, its exalted enthusiasm—can scarcely do better the read Laurence Gronlund's "The Cooperative Commonwealth." There is no mistaking its earnestness, and it would folly to ignore or to underestimate the hold which the views advocated by the author have upon hundreds of thousands our citizens."—Boston Yournal.

"Every one who has our great cause at heart ought to feel jubilant over the fact that at length a book of modern dimensions has appeared in the English language, which gives a clear idea of the whole field of Social-democratic Scient At last one of the principal sids to agitation among our English-speaking fellow-citizens is at hand; at hand in greatbundance if only used properly.

"The book contains everything we could wish for, written in a delightful style. . . . "The book while just as readable and captivating as Henry George's 'Progress and Poverty,' is far more logical at thoughtful; at the same time it is in a masterly manner adapted to the Anglo-Saxon public."—N. Y. Volkzeitsung.

The Development Theory.

THE STUDY OF EVOLUTION SIMPLIFIED FOR GENERAL READING. Y. BERGEN, Jr., and FANNY BERGEN. 16mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.25.

The lack of simple and inexpensive illustrated books, which place the outline of the evolution hypothesis clearly be the general reader, has aided in continuing popular ignorance concerning the theory. To assist in supplying this want well as to furnish to those who require it an elementary text-book on this subject, is the task which the authors of present work have set for themselves. Both have had great experience; have made diligent study of the subject, and p duced a work admirably suited to the purpose.

John Thorn's Folks.

A NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE. By Angeline Teal. Cloth, $1.

Powerful in plot, admirable in description, crisp and bright in dialogue, vivid and natural in character paints John Thorn's Folks possesses all the elements of a deeply interesting story. The lives and loves of John Thorn and wife in the divorce-bearing State of Indiana, opens a new vein of deep interest to the novel reader. It is above original in its conception and presentation of a story of decidedly dramatic interest, that deals with the slipshod married custom of the day, and gives without preaching a moral tone to its dealing with the always interesting theme, divos which is a powerful factor in the denouement of the story.

The above motto heads the monthly "Survey of Current Literature" in every copy of regular subscription edition of

The Literary News.

It clearly indicates the spirit of this wide-awake little journal. If the main object of LITERARY News is to make known and recommend for purchase all the good books as set as they make their appearance, its next object is to send the purchasers of good books to legitimate book-stores. The LITERARY NEWS is an auxiliary to the Publishers' Weekly. Bi are friends and aids to the bookseller. The former is to guide him in his purchases, the to aid him in his sales. The LITERARY NEWS is pre-eminently a bookselling paper, and there booksellers, in availing themselves of its services, not only further the interests of good ! erature, but at the same time their own.

There are three ways of using the LITERARY NEWS for bookselling purposes, and be w perseveringly tries one or all of them will be sure to profit by one of the cheapest advertish investments any bookseller can possibly make.

- Use its imprint editions, for the purpose of seeking customers at their homes, as post them on the new books while they still have the attraction of novelty sales are lost by waiting for chance calls of customers, when books are on # counter, that he might buy on the spur of the right moment. It is, moreover, tention that, even as such only, will finally be repaid by any one that cares for bed Send for circular stating terms.
- If you cannot afford to use an imprint edition of at least 50 copies, do the next best it, by securing subscribers to the handsome subscription edition. No effort better repay you. A subscription placed is more profitable than the sale of any book, as it will render you the services of a home agent.

The price of subscription is $1 per annum, with a discount to booksellers only.

3. At least keep one copy on file, and so place it on your front counter or in any com nous place, convenient for reference, where it will tempt callers to consult it. can have no better store "Bulletin;" none that gives a fuller "Survey of Literat in a more compact manner. Under the new system, just adopted, not only the titles of books of a given class are grouped together, but also their descriptive commendatory notices or references, so that a bookbuyer, almost at a glance, get more information on his line of books than could be given by the most eloqu salesman.

In order to encourage the use of the LITERARY NEWS at the book-stores, subscribers to Publishers' Wrekly (only) will be supplied with any number of copies at half price, provided! are assured that copies so supplied are used only for purposes indicated under paragraph No. Every salesman should have his own copy of the LITERARY NEWS, read it from cover to co and always keep it within his reach.

NOTICE .-- The department of "Literature for the Young," edited by Miss C. M. Hewins, Librari the Hartford Library Association, and author of "Books for the Young," has been transferred the Library Journal to the Literary News, and appears in an enlarged form as a Supplement to subscription edition, intended to serve as a special Guide, in the choice of books, for Librarians, I Committees, Sunday-school Superintendents, Clergymen, Teachers, and Parents. This Supplem not supplied with the imprint editions.

NOTES IN SEASON.

PORTER & COATES have just ready "A Dictionary of the Bible, Comprising its Antiquities, Biography, Geography, Natural History and Literature, with the latest Researches and References to the Revised Version of the New Testament," by William Smith, LL. D., revised and edited by Rev. F. N. and M. A. Peloubet, authors of "Select Notes on the International Lessons." The volume is fully and handsomely illustrated and contains eight colored maps.

GINN, HEATH & Co. have just ready, "Hebrew Lessons: a Grammar and Reader for Beginners," by H. G. Mitchell, Ph. D., of the Boston University, who has embodied the results of his large experience in a series of lessons, by which, as he claims, a learner can in a few weeks obtain a good foundation for the study of the Old Testament in the original. They have also just ready an American copyrighted edition of Axel Gustafson's book on "The Drink Question," which has been accepted by the English press as the most complete book on the subject ever made. The author, we are informed, is a Swede by birth, and a graduate of Harvard who has written many articles for the Boston and New York dailies as well as for the North American Review, Atlantic Monthly and other American magazines.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just issued the first instalment of the veteran historian Leopold von Ranke's "Universal History," dealing with "The Oldest Historical Group of Nations and the Greeks," translated and edited by G. W. Prothero, of Cambridge, England, who says in his preface that no similar attempt to present a connected view of universal history exists in the English language. Great care has been taken to represent the ideas and thoughts of the author with the utmost fidelity. The translator has had the assistance of two assistant masters of Eton College. They have also just ready "Miss Tommy," a sweetly-told love-story by Miss Muloch, which shows her still master of her special field, the description of the home life of good, pure women, with which is bound "In a House-boat," a story in the form of a journal; Thomas W. Knox's "The Voyage of the Vivian to the North Pole and Beyond," relating the adventures of two youths in the open Polar Sea, on the plan of this interesting writer's "Boy Travellers in the Far East," etc., illustrated with colored frontispiece, numerous woodcuts and maps; and another of Ernest Ingersoll's delightful stories for young people, entitled, "The Ice Queen." The latter is told in the same bright, stirring words that made "Friends Worth Knowing" and "Knocking Round the Rockies" such favorites with young and old.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

- H. P. PHELPS, of the Albany Times has just issued "A Guide to Albany," modelled after the Dickens "Guide to London."
- F. S. SALTUS is preparing a work "Lives of Great Tenors," which has a special interest for all music lovers. It will contain biographies of all the world-famed tenors,
- M. EDOUARD DETAILLE is at work upon a history of military costume in France from 1789 to the present time. It will appear in fifteen parts, with forty plates and four hundred woodcuts.

THE Critic is the authority that "Ivory Black" the nom deplume attached to "An Effect in Yellow" in a recent number of the Century, belongs to Mr. Thomas A. Janvier, a rising man of fiction, and the author of the touching story "Chequita."

A NEW novel by Mr. F. Marion Crawford is ready for the press, and will be published immediately in London by Chapman & Hall. The title of it is "A Heartless Politician," and it deals with subjects quite different from those of Mr. Crawford's previous works, being a story of American political life.

The first instalment of Ranke's latest and what promises to be his greatest historical work. When completed will probably fill some six or seven similar volumes. The Contemporary Review says of the work. "We are glad that the translation has been undertaken by so competent an historian as G. W. Prothero. . . No historian has ever had so large a grasp as Ranke of the fundamental principles of history, or has labored so assiduously to disentangle from a mass of details the permanent elements of human progress. He is not content with merely following the process of national development, but traces the inter-connection of human affairs. After working at this problem in the history of Europe, especially in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, the veteran historian resolved to devote his declining years to formulating his results. The value of his work cannot be overestimated. A mind trained in historical criticism and a judgment practised in historical discrimination have been set to extract from the records of the past history of mankind the active principles of human progress. The result is a clear sketch, drawn by a firm hand, and full of suggestiveness."

Reforms; their difficulties and possibilities, by the author of "Conflict in nature and life." N. Y., Appleton, 1884. 12+229 p. D. cl., $1.

A candid and impartial review of the various reforms of the day, from a new point of view—their limitations. The author's arguments aim to show that there is no such thing as perfection, and that the antagonism of good and evil in nature and life, so well set forth in a previous volume, of which this is supplementary, must be taken into account in all attempts to improve mankind. "Any attempt," he says, "to bring about perfect results will fail, all that can be done is to effect the greatest possible good with the least possible evil." The labor question, financial questions, divorce, intemperance, the woman question, etc., are all considered. The treatment is popular. The author is decidedly in favor of free trade.

Clearness, reasonableness, and attractiveness are the characteristics of this new history. The author divides his work into three epochs: "The discovery and settlement of North America," "The establishment of the Union," and "The development of the Union." The chapters are and "The development of the Union." The chapters are in short paragraphs with marginal dates, and with the spelling and meaning of proper names at the head. Each epoch is followed by topical analysis for review and a chronological table. The whole being completed by very full questions for examination in connection with which titles of books desirable for the student to read are given. In an appendix the Declaration of Independence, the constitution causes for 180, and a very conjous central index. In an appendix the Declaration of Independence, the con-stitution, census for 1880, and a very copious general index. THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL FOR 1884.

WE hope to begin to deliver to early subscribers next week, at an earlier date than ever before, the new issue of the Trade List Annual, now in its twelfth year. The Annual was one of the most important enterprises of Mr. Leypoldt, and his service to the trade in starting it has always been cordially acknowledged, directly at home, and indirectly abroad by the flattery of imitation. The Annual for 1884 follows the now settled plan, including as its prefatory matter the complete annotated record of new books, July 1, 1883, to June 30, 1884, reprinted entire from the Publishers' Weekly, as compiled by Miss M. M. Monachesi; preceded by a short title index to the same by authors, titles, and subjects, compiled by Mr. L. E. Jones; and the Annual educational catalogue, compiled by Mr. G. D. T. Rouse, each of whom has done the same respective work for years past. The Annual will be in bulk larger than last year, owing to the very full representation of foreign books in Mr. Steiger's 212-page catalogue, but we regret to say that the number of contributors falls somewhat below the previous record. The total number of catalogues this year is 131 as against 138 in 1883, and of advertisers (small lists) 49 as against 64. The last fact is the more to be regretted since the small lists, not otherwise available, are very useful to the trade.

We shall be obliged to intending subscribers if they will kindly send in their orders at once, in place of delaying till later in the season. The edition is, of course, limited to the number of publishers' catalogues asked for, viz., 2000. With the growing appreciation of this great trade convenience, the demand is quite likely this year to outrun the supply, and it will save us much trouble and storage if those frien is who intend to exhaust the supply will do so promptly.

ALL who send out salesmen will no doubt a interested in the result of the suit about to brought before the Supreme Court of the Unit States, by Sabin Robbins, of the firm of Rangobins & Co. of Cincinnati. The question volved is the legality of the license tax which exacted on travelling salesmen in almost ever State and city in this country. The President the Stationers' Board of Trade, as will be sefrom the circular printed elsewhere, invites a scriptions from all who feel convinced of the justice of the tax, and from those who will benefited by its abolition.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH ART PUBL CATIONS.

THE Börsenblatt für den Deutschen Buchk del, in a series of articles on the recent books hibition at Leipzig (the sumptuous catalogue which was noticed in the WEEKLY, Aug. 2), pu the following handsome tribute to the excellent of the American and English art-publication there represented:

"The fundamental idea of the Exhibition most warmly taken up by our transatia colleagues in New York, Boston, and Phila There were in all about 180 Ameri works exhibited, which collectively proved even in the culture of the beautiful the prac Americans energetically press forward. quently the American section formed a pre nent centre of attraction. The disciples Gutenberg in particular diligently themselves of the permission to visit the Exh tion for the purpose of comparative study, which the wood engravings, so beautif executed both artistically and technically, offer manifold opportunities. "D. Appleton & Co. also exhibited seven noteworthy specimens of bookmaking in the same department, which may justly be considered worthy to rank with the above-mentions works. Their 'Picturesque America' is beautiful work of art in the full sense of the word, the woodcuts and engravings being up to the highest grade of execution. Artists are containly favored in finding their material in the wonderfully beautiful landscape scenery to North America. Indeed, we are astonished that our trans-atlantic friends so generally for to admire the natural beauties of the

The English publishers have done their part spally in contributions to the catalogue. He exhibition the firm of Cassell & Co., with aris, New York and Melbourne branches, splendidly represented. RA INDICES FOR BOOKS OF REF-ERENCE.

R. F. P. BARRETT, in a letter to the LonAthenaum says: "I venture to ask your tance in bringing under the notice of publishf books of reference a suggestion, by adoptwhich they may, at very slight cost and trouthemselves, furnish a great convenience to hasers and users of their books. It is briefly To give with all books which contain lists of twiatious, lists of books referred to by initial ther symbol, and generally any pages which to be constantly or frequently turned to, or three copies of such lists or pages on sepleaves, to be held in hand or laid beside the volume when in use. Two examples will show sufficiently what is meant. In the new dictionary of the Philological Society the pronunciation is indicated by a set of symbols of some complexity, and there is inconvenience in having to turn back to the explanatory page at the beginning of the volume each time it is necessary to consult the key. Similarly, in Phillips's 'Dictionary of Biographical Reference' the works which contain the biographies are indicated after the name of the subject by initials in varying characters of type; here again there is loss of time in turning back to the key-page at the be-ginning of the volume. The present proposal is that publishers should send out with each copy of such books, two or three separate copies of these key-pages in addition to the one in the book, so that persons making frequent references could have them (perhaps mounted on card for preservation) in hand, to avoid the necessity of a constant turning over the leaves. There are, in like manner, many works with which it would be a great comfort to have a loose copy of the index in addition to the one in the volume. It may be objected that these loose copies of keypages and indexes would be lost. If that were so, the loser would have only himself to thank; but I venture to think that a slight experience of the greater comfort in working with them would lead users of the books to take good care that they should be at hand when required."

TAXING DRUMMERS.

As will be seen from the following circular one branch of trade is determined at last to bring to a settlement the vexed question of the right of State or municipal authorities to compel travellers to pay license fees:

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE, Nos. 97 and 99 Nassau Street, Rooms 9, 10 and 11, P. O. Box 2615. New York, August 19, 1884.

To the Members of The Stationers' Board of Trade:

GENTLEMEN: The object for which our corporation was formed, as stated in our constitution, "is for the purpose of fostering trade and commerce, to protect it from unjust or unlawful exactions, to reform abuses in trade," etc.

To carry out the spirit of this article of our constitution, and to settle this much-discussed and perplexing question as to the right of any State or municipality to extort a license tax from salesmen, let us subscribe and pay a small sum each to assist in carrying to the Supreme Court of the United States a test case which has been started in Tennessee by Messrs. Ross, Robbins & Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, and which has been prosecuted at great expense in Tennessee State courts adversely to Mr. Robbins. A decision can no doubt be obtained this fall or winter from the United States Supreme Court, which will settle for all time the rights of our salesmen to sell goods without the expense of a license in almost every State and city.

Very respectfully, GEO. L. PEASE, President.

The defendant in the above-mentioned case, Sabin Robbins, of Cincinnati, has appointed A. S. McDade, salesman for Boorum & Pease, to solicit and receive subscriptions for this purpose, and all contributions forwarded to him at 28 Reade Street.

OBITUARY.

HENRY GEORGE BOHN.

HENRY GEORGE BOHN, the celebrated author and publisher, died in London August 24. He was born January 4, 1796, and, after getting an education, sold books in his father's store. 1831 he began business on his own account, and ten years later published his "Guinea Catalogue," exhibiting the largest stock ever collected by a bookseller. Mr. Bohn was one of the pioneers in the movement for circulating good but cheap literature. In establishing his Historical, Scientific, Illustrated, Classical, Ecclesiastical, and Antiquarian Library, amounting to nearly 700 volumes in all, he translated several of Schiller's, Goethe's, and Humboldt's works. He also edited the "Bibliotheca Parriana," Addison's works, "A New Edition of Lowndes's Bibliographer's Manual," and assisted in several of the classical translations. Mr. Bohn was well known as an antiquary, and was a member of many of the learned and scientific societies. He contributed to the Philobiblon Society a Life of Shakespeare and an extra size "Dictionary of English Poetical Quotations," volumes which, being privately printed, have sold for large sums at auction. In 1860 Mr. Bohn gained some notoriety as the only literary opponent of the repeal of the duty on paper. His opinion was that it would not benefit the public, while materially reducing the revenue.

MARY CLEMMER.

MRS. MARY CLEMMER HUDSON, better known as Mary Clemmer, died at her home in Washington, on the 18th inst., of hemorrhage of the brain. "Mrs. Hudson," we learn from the New York Times, "was born in Utica. Her father was a merchant, but, misfortunes coming on, he retired from business and removed to Massachu-Her first literary work was a little poem. which was published in the Springfield Republican while she was yet in short dresses. Her first novel, "Victoire," was written while she was barely 20 years of age. "Eirene," her next novel, was first published in Putnam's Magazine, and afterward had a fair sale in book form. Later books were, "His Two Wives;"
"Outlines of Men;" Women and Things," and "Ten Years in Washington." Her most important work was the "Memorial of Alice and Phoebe Cary," which she was specially selected to prepare by the executors of the Cary sisters. Mrs. Hudson was more widely known as a Washington newspaper correspondent, however, than as a novelist. She was married twice-the first time to a Mr. Ames. She was married to Mr. Hudson, a Washington co.respondent, about a year ago. Her home was on Capitol Hill, within a short distance of the Capitol grounds.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

DR. DIO LEWIS requests us to insert his statement that "I have at length gained possession of my magazine—Dio Lewis's Monthly. Hereafter all communications to its editor or publisher, and all business about my books, must be addressed Dio Lewis, Bible House, New York. Those who have sent money to others for Cio Lewis's Monthly, or for his books, and have received nothing in return, will please communicate with me at once."

THE Maine Historical and Genealogical Recorder is the title of a new quarterly magazine, the object of which is to "gather whatever may be secured of historical interest pertaining to our own State [Maine] not already known, or that may be partially forgotten, and whatever of family history may be collected from different sources that interest the sons and daughters of Maine, wherever they may be located." It is published (and edited also, we believe) by S. M. Watson, Portland, Me. Price per year, $2. Single numbers, 60 cents.

THE August number of the Overland Monthly contains unusually interesting and instructive matter. "About St. Michael's and the Yukon." gives a sketch of the scaport of Alaska in the graphic word-painting of George Wardman; "Californian Mining Camps" are described by Charles Howard Shinn; Holger Birkedal fur-Charles Howard Shinu, 120ger Scholling, and nishes his third paper on "Peru, Bolivia, and Chili," and James A. Harris his second paper "Old Tentonic Life in Beowulf." "The on "Old Teutonic Life in Beowulf." "The Snakes of India" are classified by Gordon "Emerson-Bryant," by Wilber Greenlaw. Larremore; "Reminiscences of Henry Durant Charles Kingsley's "Clovelly," by L. H. M. Soulsby: "Un-Koi-to, the Saviour," a legend of the Con-Cow Indians, by A. G. Fassin, well represent the literary element. L. E. W. begins a serial called "The Campaign at Widdletown." The questions of the day and books received are treated in well-edited departments. Samuel Carson & Co., the publishers, announce that no effort will be spared to bring up the new series of this magazine to the same high standard it The San Francisco held in its earlier days. News Co. will supply to the trade a sample copy free of charge, and will furnish a few copies each month on sale, with privilege of returning the unsold copies.

Bibliographical Publications.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, established in 1872, with which was incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular (established in 1852), by purchase from Mr. George W. Childs, is recognized as the independent representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States.

The central feature of the paper, that makes it an indispensable aid to the trade, to libraries, and to literary people, is its Bibliographical Department. Every possible facility of reference is afforted by a combination of methods which records the books, by the week, the month, the season, and the year, under the author, the publisher, the title, the subject, and the class. It is acknowledged that no other journal, at home or abroad, supplies as practical and satisfactory a record of the publications of its country.

The bibliographical department includes:

- 1. A "Weekly Record" of all new American publications and reprints, giving their full titles (according to the rules of American Library Association), with place and date of publication, publisher's name, size, number of pages, and price; and also descriptive notes of books received. This first and practically the official record is arranged alphabetically by the authors or titles, and for ready reference is placed in the same accessible position in each number.
- 2. A weekly "Order List," being brief-title entries, with prices, of the "Weekly Record," arranged alphabetically by the publishers. The object of this list is to present at a glance the simultaneous issues of certain publishers, and to save time in the making up of orders.
- 3. A monthly "Index to the Weekly Record," being short-title entries, with the publisher's name and the size and price, arranged asphabetically by the authors, with references from the titles or catchwords, and from the subjects. With each entry is given also the number of the "Weekly Record" containing the full-title entry and note.
- 4. A monthly "Class Symposis," grouping the works of the month under such heads as Biography, Description, Education, Fiction, Fine Arts, History, Law. Literature, Medical Science, Physical and Mathematical Sciences, Poetry and the Drama, Political and Social Science, Theology and Religion, etc.
- 5. A semi annual classified list of Forthcoming Publications, given in the Spring and Fall Announcement numbers, in which also the announced books are more fully described under the name of the publishers, arranged alphabetically.
- 6. An annual Index to the books of the year, advertised by the more prominent publishers in the so-called Annual Summary Number, which generally is published in the last week of January. In this number is also given a classified summary of the more prominent publications of the year.
- 7. Regular Lists of the Season, published as follows: A complete priced catalogue of Educational Books, in July: a priced list of the Holiday Books and prominent Juvenile Books of the year, in November; a supplementary list of new Educational Books, February; a list of Guide and Summer Books, in May.
- 8. Quarterly lists of the Publications of the U. S. Government,
- 9, Semi-monthly lists of the more prominent $New\ English\ Books$.
- 10. Special Bibliographies. The timely bibliography, now in course of publication, is "Literary Property: a catalogue of books and authors relating to literary property (copyright, international copyright, and kindred subjects), by Thorvald Solberg.

The Literary Department includes comprehensive intelligence as to books forthcoming and publishing movements, at home and abroad, gathered with the aid of representatives in other cities; editorial discussions on book and trasubjects, as copyright, postal questions, but production and manufacture, etc.; original cutributions and representative extracts on it topics; topical "cues" or references to bit graphical sources or courses of reading a study; journalistic notes; business notes; it ary and trade notes, etc. $3.20 per year, cents per number.

THE LITERARY NEWS.

An Eclectic Review of Current Literature. Plished monthly, and containing the free news concerning books and authors; listed new publications; reviews and critical or ments; characteristic extracts; sketches anecdotes of authors; courses of readily bibliographical references; prominent to of the magazines; prize questions on characteristic extracts.

The Literary News, since its establishment der the name of The Literary Bulletin, in thas passed through many transformations in pearance and method before acquiring the tinctive features which have given it a chann of its own, and which have become so fam to thousands of readers. In substance it been the same since its inception—"a more record of current literature;" but while prime fulfilling its mission in the interests of the betrade, it has since the establishment of the FLISHERS' WEEKLY, which now so thoroughly ers that ground, aimed more directly to meet wants of readers and students.

Its plan is to present each month a full se of current literature, by means of brief revi and notices, sketches of authors, lists of be of the month, etc. The reviews and book-no are confined to the best books of the day, are quoted only from recognized literary jour Their selection is made with an aim not me to guide by a praise of books, but to awakes interest in subjects worth studying and aut worth knowing, by giving what throws most both on authors and books in their relation to and literature. The entertaining elements chiefly the Prize Questions, of which two or t are given almost every month, and the "Lites Miscellany." Of special interest to the stu are the "Cues," which give (I) references sources of reading on topics of the day; (4 classification of the magazine contents; (3) erences to the latest authority, as soon as re nized, on any subject of general interest; references to biblicgraphies of subjects of ge ral interest, to approved reading-courses, at anything written in the interest of reading study.

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL,

cial Organ of the American Library Assoation. Edited by CHARLES A. CUTTER, Lirarian Boston Athenæum.

The Library Journal was established in 1876 he co-operative efforts of the leading librass on both sides of the Atlantic. Its chief to its to be a practical help to the every-day inistration of both large and small libraries, to effect a saving by enabling library work to done in the best way, at the lowest cost, Journal especially meets the needs of the lier libraries, offering them the costly expece and practical advice of the largest. In aining from doing imperfectly what is done rell by the several journals specially devoted atiquarian or purely historical interests, the way Journal is enabled to give its chief ation to modern bibliography and current liture, as represented particularly in its departies of "Bibliography" (proper), "Library somy and History," and "Anonyms and adonyms." Published monthly, $4 per year;

Operative Index to Current Numbers of eading Periodicals. Edited by W. I. FLET-HER. Supplement to the Library Journal.

he suggestions for the co-operative indexing mrent periodicals, submitted by Mr. Poole IMr. Fletcher, and also by Mr. Stetson, in the mary (1883) number of the Library Journal, e met with such prompt action on the part of sested librarians, that Mr. Stetson's monthly a has already gone into operation, and in a manner as to prepare the way for Mr. He's annual and quinquennial continuations. May be safely announced that both plans will horoughly tested. It has been decided that, a experiment, the references shall be printed be Library Journal.

ONTHLY REFERENCE LISTS,

mide for the reader and student to trustworthy marces of information on current topics, premed by WILLIAM E. FOSTER, Librarian hovidence Public Library. $1 per year, 10 ents per number.

The two volumes 1881-82, of the Providence Library's this Reference Lists, . . are a welcome addition to padiest variety of indexes. They can be used in contain with any good public or private library."— The Na. January 18, 1883.

INDEX MEDICUS.

monthly classified record of the current mediial literature of the world; compiled under the impervision of Dr. John S. Billings, Surmon U.S.A., and Dr. Robert Fletcher, M.R.C.S., England.

The Index Medicus, established in 1879, redis the titles of all new publications in Medicine, Surgery, and the collateral branches, received during the preceding month. These are classed under subject headings and followed by the titles of valuable original articles upon the same subject, found, during the like period, in medical journals and transactions of medical societies. The periodicals thus indexed comprise all current medical journals and transactions of value, so far as they can be obtained.

The Index Medicus is published monthly at $10 per annum, and supplements all the leading medical journals (American and foreign) as a current guide and general index to all,

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE.

The American Catalogue compiled by F. Leypoldt and Lynds E. Jones, aims to present, for the first time, all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first volume alphabetically by both authors and titles, and in the second volume alphabetically by subjects. Over nine hundred publishers are represented, among whom is a great number of the smaller publishers and publication societies, of whose books it has hitherto been almost impossible to keep track; and the two volumes aggregate 1400 large quarto double-column pages containing over 125,000 entries. As it was impracticable to bring the body of the work down to a later date than July, 1876, without further delaying its appearance, an appendix has been added to the first volume, containing the publications of most of the leading houses issued subsequently to that date, and an index to this appendix is given in each volume. As a further aid, a list of bibliographies is prefixed to the second volume to assist the student in prosecuting his researches beyond the province of the catalogue proper. These two lists serve to bridge over the interval elapsing during the compilation and publication of the work, and thus practically remedy a defect inherent in all such publications.

The catalogue thus forms the only approxi mately complete guide in existence to the American books of the day, so arranged as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about any particular book of which the consulter is in search, but shows what others there are by the same author, or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable both in filling orders and in stimulating business; to the librarian, in supplying gaps and proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information which nowhere else is obtainable by so convenient a method, if obtainable at all, Two volumes, unbound (folded), $40; half morocco, $44.

It is with a view to securing a new and increased value to the "American Catalogue," and also with the hope that by meeting an immediate want an opportunity may be given the publisher to retrieve his losses, that it has been decided to prepare a supplement bringing the work down to 1884.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE.

The plan will follow that of the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, giving the author and title-entries and the subject-entries in separate alphabets, but the two alphabets will be included in one It is probable that the SUPPLEMENT, volume. which will cover all books recorded between July 1st, 1876, and July 1st, 1884, will include titles of over 20,000 books, and its practical value as an every-day working tool will almost exceed that of the CATALOGUE itself. It will be delivered to subscribers either in two parts, the first including author and title-entries, the second, subject-entries, or complete, as may seem expedient. If delivered in two parts, it will probably be practicable to deliver the first before October 1st, and the second during that The edition will be limited to 1250 copies and no plates will be made.

Outlines of Historic Ornament. Elementary Text-book for Students and Lovers of Art. Translated from the German Edited by GILBERT R. REDGRAVE. With 130 Illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The author of this little treatise has described the origin of ornament among savage races, and has traced its rise and progress until it reached its prime among the artists of Greece and Rome. Passing om, he has shown how Saracenic art became dominant. The decay of Classic learning and the decadence of Rome gave place to a new era of architecture—the beautiful and purely Christian, Gothic style. He has traced the varieties of Gothic architecture, and, lastly he describes the rise and progress of the Arts of the Renaissance. As a text-book for those who are beginning the study of decoration this work should occupy a vacant place among our elementary art manuals."

The Great Republic. By Sir L Henry Griffin. Crown 8vo, cloth, $1.50. By Sir Lepel

The author states his views of the United States, its Government, Politics, People, Scenery, Cities, etc., etc., from what might be called an "eccentric English standpoint," and being an Indian statesman of some eminence, and recently in command of civil matters in Afghanistan, his experience of the world makes his conclusions interesting if not convincing.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have now ready a new assisted catalogue of their publications and imrelations, (88 p. 8°.)

S. A. MAXWELL & Co., Chicago, have issued we the fall trade, a handsome "General Catague, Descriptive and Illustrative, of Stationery, lotions, etc. (146 p. sq. 4°.) The catalogue is at together in good shape, fully illustrated, and well printed on paper of unusually good mality. A very full index makes this catalogue only valuable. This same house has also usued a "Wholesale Price List of [a selection of School and College Text-Books, with Telemaphic Cipher, (48 p. nar. 8°.,) and a "Monthly malletin of new Books."

The catalogue of the first portion of the crossley Library, in England, has just been ssued. It comprises many scarce and valuable tooks. There is a copy of "The Shelley Letters," with an introduction by Mr. R. Browning. When this book was published, it was discovered that Mr. Browning had been deceived, and that the letters were all forgeries. A curious book is lot 791, "Did You Ever See Such D—d Smf?" a story without a head or tail, published in 1760. The first edition of Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield" is also in the catalogue. One of the gems of the sale is Ben Jonson's own copy of Spenser's "Faerie Queen." It bears his signature on the title, and a number of autograph notes suggesting meanings of words, etc. A few of the notes have been cut into by the binder, but for the most part they are entire. Another rare book is the first edition of "Paradise Lost," 1667.—Chicago Tribune.

SECOND-HAND BOOKS.— English.— Received from Henry Sotheran & Co., London: Sotheran's Price Current of Literature, for July.—From James Thin, Edinburgh: Catalogue No. 65, of Miscellaneous Books, comprising chiefly history, biography and travel, (32 p. 16°.)

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MISS KATE SANBORN has compiled a volume of the "Wit and Humor of American Women."

COL. WM. P. STARKE, of South Carolina, has in preparation the "Life and Correspondence of John C. Calhoun."

"STEPNIAK" is writing a volume, semi-historical, semi-political, which will be called "The Russian Despotism."

PROFESSOR J. K. HOSMER, of St. Louis, has completed a life of Samuel Adams of Revolutionary fame, on which he has been engaged for several years.

"WE understand," says the London Academy, "that Mr. Alfred Austin is engaged upon a second volume of 'Soliloquies in Song,' which is likely to be published by Macmillan & Co. in the course of the autumn."

The Publishers' Scleekly.

SEPTEMBER 6, 1884.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries" thankfully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE OPENING OF THE SEASON.

More and more each year the book-selling season seems to be concentrated within the few fall months and to open later, despite the rivalry of energetic publishers in sending their travellers out on the road earlier and earlier. This year a Presidential election scatters cords of gratuitous reading matter broadcast through the country, and acts to still further postpone the great bulk of retail sales until November and December. The reaction from politics and campaign gossip or slander may then, however, operate to increase sales, so that the total of the year may prove wholly satisfactory. We hear from some travellers who have returned from their first trip that this is strongly their impression, and that they expect that November will prove an unusually lively month.

The conditions for business are in many respects good. The country has undoubtedly reached "hard pan" as to prices, and there are few fictitious values left. The crops are large—some farmers fear too large for fair prices—and this on the whole means cheap food and more surplus in proportion for such things as books. The nation grows in population each year, and, with the progress of education, the number of readers becomes proportionately as well as actually greater and greater. There is good reason to hope, therefore, that each fall season, unless there are special reasons to the contrary, should be better than its predecessor.

The supply of books will doubtless keep pace with the demand, though publishers generally are inclined to be fairly conservative this fall. Our Fall Announcement number—now in preparation, and for which material should reach us next week at latest—promises to show a goodly variety of attractive lines, and booksellers who know how to buy will find no lack of books that will sell.

As announced last week, we have commenced sending out the "Publishers' Trade List Annual for 1884," and will continue to supply order with all possible despatch. We take pleasure commending the enterprise of the Burr Printing House to whose energies we are indebted to a gain of over sixteen days in the date of publication over former years.

AN ITALIAN BOOK-TRADE CATALOGUE, From the Nation, Aug. 14.

THE Associazione Tipografico-libraria lu iana, which has already done good work in Italian bibliography in the publication of the great "Catalogo collettivo della libreria italiana" Milan, 1881), now brings out an "Annua delle librerie e tipografie e delle arti affini: Italia." This is the first time that an annual this kind, modelled on the German and Frent annuals, has been attempted in Italy. it is pu lished on the occasion of the National Exp sition, and forms a large volume of upward 400 pages. That such a publication has become possible shows the marked advance that the box arts have made in Italy. The Italian book pr duction now annually averages about 7000 sep rate works, not counting fugitive publication etc., the editions of which amount to near 20,000 volumes. The journals attain a circuition of about 100,000. These figures would in cate a great augmentation of readers in a years, as well as increased importance in position of the book and printing industries. T first part of the "Annuario" is devoted to laws relating to printing associations, literatoroproperty, etc. The second contains a register publishers, printers, etc. From this it appear that there are 1437 printing establishments, 184 publishers and booksellers, 393 lithographers, manufacturers of printing materials, 51 typ founders, 599 binderies, 327 paper manufacturers. A list of 38 journals devoted to biblion raphy and typography is appended.

CONCERNING SOME MAINE PERI-ODICALS.

From the New York Evening Post.

Among the many methods adopted in publish ng periodicails, one of the most curious is surely that followed by some Maine publishers. At find sight it appears that eight illustrated months magazines for family reading are issued in the tw cities of Portland and Augusta. They have a apparently, been running for several years; or is in its sixteenth year of publication, another in its twelfth year, and another in its fifth. names of these magazines are all of an attracti nature, and one is astonished to find so me literary activity of this kind in one State. examination of the magazines, however, revel the curious fact that the eight are really tw and that different names are given to the sa magazine. The American Home Magazine Illustrated Library, the Illustrated Housek Magazine, Our Home and Fireside Magasin and True's Illustrated Magazine and Home Co panion contain the same reading, with the exception of the advertisements. The second ception of the advertisements. group consists of the People's Illustrated Journ the Illustrated Family Herald, the People's Like ary Companion and College Manual Companion ary Companion, and Colden Moments.

the same except the advertisements and the slements; two having the same picture supsents and two the same supplement of readmatter. It is not easy to understand what untage is gained by this method of publica. Certainly no one will subscribe to more two of the eight, for it is obvious that the numbers received will reveal the fact that, gh the names were different, the reading the same.

"QUADS WITHIN QUADS."

ELD & TUER, of "Ye Leadenhalle Presse," ion, from time to time surprise the book d with something remarkable, either in the of printing or binding. The latest is a ne book entitled "Quads Within Quads," h we can hardly describe better than the ishers themselves have done in the followcircular: "This quaint vellum-enshrined silken-string folio in miniature, of some pages, measures but one inch in width ne and a half inches in length. According he introduction, 'Quads are little metal ks used by the printer for filling up gaps; are not of much account, although he canget along without them—hence the applica-of the word to printers' jokes.' 'Quads' is illection of those printers' jokes which for ty a dozen years have provoked smiles and atter from readers of this journal. Being e or less of a technical character, the jouralthough familiar enough to the printer, is tically unknown outside his circle; and to public this little collection of typographical s and cranks will doubtless be welcome, e especially as a needful glossary of terms rovided at the end of the volume." k proper, of which this midget is only facsimile, is an elegantly printed volume bout & inch thick, and 6x4% in area. Half he thickness consists of a kind of pad at end of the letterpress, into which is "let" miniature book above described. When the me, which is protected with stout vellum ing with silken strings for preventing its tiny live going astray, is closed, the extra cons would never be suspected. As a mere saity, irrespective of its extremely amusing acter, "Quads Within Quads" is an inter-

LOUISVILLE, KY.—The firm of John P. Morton & Co., booksellers and stationers, has been dissolved on account of the death of John B. Bangs. The surviving partners continue the business under the old style.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

F. W. H. MYERS denies the report recently circulated in English newspapers that he is writing a life of Mme. Blawatsky. The report, he says, is altogether erroneous.

L. Schick, of Chicago, informs us that he has secured the special permission of the author and publisher of the original edition of Nordau's work, entitled "Conventional Lies," for the translation published by him.

HOFFMAN & CAMPE will shortly issue a new edition of Heine's "Collected Works," in fifty parts, each part at the low price of about five cents. This edition will comprise the recently issued memoirs of Heine, together with short biography of the poet by Dr. Gustav Karpeles.

THE KETTERLINES PRINTING HOUSE, Phila., have published a handsome holiday volume for boys and girls entitled, "Little Bell, and Other Stories," by Margaret Vandegrift, author of "Clover Beach," etc. The volume is a small quarto, printed with great taste, with the illustrations by E. B. Bensell, in colors, THORNDIKE NOURSE, Detroit, Mich., has just issued the twelfth volume of the subscription edition of the works of Orestes A. Brownson. He will publish at once, separately and for the trade, "The Spirit Rapper," by Orestes A. Brownson, and a new edition of the "Legends of le Detroit," to which many new legends have been added.

HENRY ALTEMUS has just ready a new line of brocade plush photograph albums adapted for every size of picture in the market. The reputation for taste, ingenuity and invention in the matter of designs and bindings, so well earned.

by Mr. Altemus, is fully sustained in this new design.

LOCKWOOD, BROOKS & Co. have published a new edition—the fourth—of "Helps to Devout Living, Consisting of Selections from Biblical and Various Religious Writers of all Ages," compiled by Miss J. Dewey. The volume also contains a preface by the late William Cullen Bryant, and is handsomely bound in silk cloth, with red edges.

Funk & Wagnalls have just published "Ten Years a Police Court Judge," by Judge Wiglittle of a country circuit, which, owing to the skilful handling of its most interesting matter, promises to be a popular book. Judge Wiglittle is said by the publishers to be a real judge, and the book is pronounced a "veritable storehouse of fact and incident" gathered during ten years of professional duty.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have issued in a convenient form the celebrated map of the Chinese empire, compiled for his "Middle Kingdom," from native and foreign authorities, by the late Dr. S. Wells Williams. This map, which is regarded as the most accurate and complete even in China, will no doubt be welcome to all who take an interest in the present complication between France and the Celestial Empire.

ORANGE JUDD COMPANY will publish in time for the meeting of the American Forestry Congress at Saratoga, on the 16th inst., a new edition of "The Forester," by James Brown, of Ontario, assisted by his son, Geo. E. Brown. This important work, which is looked upon as a standard in England, it is announced, has been largely rewritten and brought to the requirements of the present day. By special arrangement with the English publishers, a limited edition of this book is offered at the price of $10.

CRAWFORD & Co. have purchased the plates of Dr. Ruschenberger's science series, formerly published by E. Claxton & Co., and will issue them in a cheap and popular style, at 25 cents each under the title of Science Primers for the People. The list of subjects will comprise, "Botany," "Mammalogy," "Herpetology and Icthyology," "Geology," "Physiology," Conchology," "Entomology," "Ornithology," and "Dictionary of Natural History Terms." The volumes will be ready in a few weeks.

J. S. OGILVIE & Co. have published No. 9 of Ogilvie's Popular Reading, which contains "Weavers and Weft," by Miss M. E. Braddon; "Miss Slimmens's Window," by the author of "A Bad Boy's Diary;" "The Captain's Room," by Walter Besant and James Rice; "Ninetynine Choice Readings and Recitations," compiled by J. S. Ogilvie; "Abner Ferret, the Lawyer Detective," by Harry Rockwood; "A Cunning Woman," by the author of "Ladybird's Penitence;" and "The Bride of Blacksedge."

CASSELL & Co. announce for immediate publication "Life and Labor in the Far, Far West," by W. Henry Barneby, describing a tour in the Western States, British Columbia, Manitoba, and the Northwest Territory; "Simon Peter; His Life, Times, and Friends," by Edwin Hodder, the well-known author of "A Story of Exodus;" "Working Men Co-operators," in which Arthur H. Dyke Acland gives an account of what the Artisan's Co-operative Movement has done and is doing in Great Britain; "Photography for Amateurs," a non-technical manual and practical guide for amateur workers, by

T. C. Hepworth, lecturer in the late Polytechnic Institution; and the "Principal Perspective," as applied to drawing or sking from nature, by George Trowbridge, master of the Government School of Art. fast, Ireland.

Funk & Wagnalls will publish shortly in Standard Library, Joaquin Miller's well-ke trama "'49," which has been considerable tered and largely rewritten by the author. also announce for early publication in the series, a book entitled "A Yankee School Tes in Virginia," by Lydia Wood Baldwin. It sents sketches of life during the transition following the close of the war, as seen by o New England's young "school ma'ams," devoted herself to the education of the colrace.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. have just issued ylline Leaves," a gift-book containing omens of fate. The omens are poems. trated with full-page steel engravings. The thor is a well-known Boston littérateur, brated as an expert chess-player and stude psychological phenomena. The book is inte for the parlor, and no doubt many guests w amused by its curious contents. Among books in preparation the most important "Star Drifts Birthday-Book," uniform with Longfellow and Whittier birthday-b Longfellow and "Mortals in the Fairy Realm," under title Miss Clara Wells translates into vers first three sonatas of Beethoven; "Rambl Old Boston," by the Rev. Edward G. Pott lustrated by George R. Tolman; and juvenile called "Heidi, her Years of Wand and Learning," a translation of a very story by the German author, Johanna Spy markably well rendered in English by L Brooks.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish this the first two volumes of a proposed edition fourteen under the title of the "Gentler Magazine Library," which will contain in the fied form the most interesting and valuable tions of the Gentleman's Magazine for one hu and thirty-seven years, from its beginni 1731. The first of these volumes is devot "Manners and Customs," the second to "Di Proverbs, and Word Lore." With thes volumes will appear the first twelve boo the "Odyssey of Homer," in the original on the left-hand page and with the rhy English translation on the right, by Palmer, of Harvard University; a trans of Reuss's "History of the Sacred Scriptu the New Testament," in two octavo vol and a new and tasteful edition of Ande works, in ten volumes. Next week the house will publish the "Life of James son," by Sydney Howard Gay, as the volume of the series of American States 'Captains of Industry," brief biogra sketches, by James Parton, of fifty or men who have been particularly success certain lines of business, and have been plary in the use they have made of their su an octavo volume containing thirteen p by the late Rev. Joseph P. Thompson, the general title "American Commen European Questions, International and ligious," a work of quite miscellaneous acter and yet of real importance; and a ne tion of Cooper's "Sea Tales," and also entire novels.

LIFE AND LETTERS OF BAYARD TAYLOR.

By MARIE HANSEN-TAYLOR and HORACE E. SCUDDER. With three portraits of Mr. Taylor, and other illustrations. 2 vols., crown 8vo, $4; half calf, $8.

The career of Bayard Taylor is one of the most remarkable in American history. A famous traveler and writer of books of travel. a successful novelist, a critic of unusual ability and discrimination, a poet whose great and varied achievements the world does not even yet justly appreciate, and a diplomatist,—the story of his life as told in these volumes is of singular interest. Mr. Taylor's letters furnish largely the materials for the work, and generous selections from them are incorporated in the narrative.

A WONDER-BOOK, FOR GIRLS AND BOYS.

By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Holiday Edition. With illustrations by F. S. Church. 1 vd. 4to, beautifully printed and attractively bound, $2.50.

The Wonder-Book contains classic myths and legends: The Gorgon's Head, The Golden Touch, The Paradise of Children, The Three Golden Apples, The Miraculous Pitcher, 22d The Chimæra.

This Holiday Edition of the Wonder-Book is made peculiarly attractive by many illustrations from designs by F. S. Church, and the book will certainly be in great demand for holiday and birthday gifts.

THE ELIZABETHAN DRAMATISTS.

THE WORKS OF CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE. Edited by A. H. Bullen, B.A. In three volumes. 8vo, each, $3. Large-paper, $4.

These are the first volumes of a handsome library edition of the works of the Elizabetha Dramatists. Their works, once so much read, are now difficult to procure; and it is believe that the appearance of this tasteful edition will be heartly welcomed. Mr. A. H. Bullen, intelligent and careful student of the literature of the Elizabethan period, has prepared the play of Marlowe for publication.

MELODIES OF VERSE.

Lyrics selected from the Poetical Works of BAYARD TAYLOR. I vol., 18mo, vellum, $1.

Many of the lyrics scattered through Bayard Taylor's poetical works are delightfully musical A selection of these is printed in very tasteful style in a little volume bound uniform with Addrich's "Friar Jerome," forming a beautiful gift-book.

TEXT AND VERSE.

Selections from the Bible and from the Writings of John G. Whittier, chosen by Gertrude W. Cartland. In dainty binding. I vol., 18mo, 75 cents.

A verse from the Bible and a stanza of similar character from Mr. Whittier's Works arranged together for each day. The spirit of Mr. Whittier's poetry renders this association altogether harmonious, and the little book furnishes a series of stimulating and consoling thoughts for the whole course of the year.

HANDY-VOLUME CLASSICS.

PARADISE LOST. By John Milton.

THE VICAR OF WAKEFIELD. By OLIVER GOLDSMITH.

TALES FROM SHAKESPEARE. By Charles and Mary Lamb.

THE AUTOCRAT OF THE BREAKFAST-TABLE. By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES

Carefully printed, tastefully bound in blue cloth, gilt top, rough edges, forming peculiarly elegant little books. 18mo, $1.25 each; the set, in box, $5.

CHATTERBOX CAUTION.

All booksellers and publishers are cautioned against publishing, or selling any book bearing the title "CHATTERBOX," either by itself or in connection with other words, which is not issued or authorized by us, as all infringers of our trade-mark will be promptly proceeded against.

Attention is called to the decision of the United States Court for the Southern District of New York, filed July 31, 1884, in the suit of Estes et al vs. Williams et al.

This suit was brought by Estes & Lauriat, in 1880, to test the validity of their right, acquired by assignment from James Johnston of London, to the exclusive use of the title or name "CHATTERBOX," as applied to books of a juvenile character, and after a long and vigorous contest in the United States Circuit Court at New York City, judgment was rendered in their favor, and a perpetual injunction ordered to issue against the defendants, restraining them from the use of the name or title "CHATTERBOX," and they were also ordered to account for damages done by their use of the said trade-mark.

It was not claimed that the defendants could be prevented from publishing any matter that was not copyrighted, but it was claimed and the Court held, that the name "CHATTERBOX" was a distinguishing characteristic adopted and used by Johnston, the English proprietor, in connection with a series of juvenile books published by him, and that thereby he became entitled to the exclusive right to use the word in that manner, which right he had assigned to Estes & Lauriat for the United States and Canada.

The Court in its decision when referring to the publication says: "There is work in these publications aside from the ideas and conceptions. Johnston was not the writer of the articles, nor the designer of the pictures composing the books, but he brought them out in this form. The name indicates this work. The defendants by putting this name to their work, in bringing out the same style of book, indicate that their work is his. This renders the work less remunerative, and while continued is a continuing injury, which it is the peculiar province of a Court of Equity to prevent. These principles are discussed, settled, and applied in McLean vs. Fleming, 96, U. S., 245."

Estes & Lauriat will bring out the new "CHATTERBOX" for 1884 as usual for the Holidays, and they take this method of giving notice generally, and to those parties especially who during the pendency of this suit have been publishing juvenile works under the name or title of "CHATTERBOX" either with or without other words coupled therewith, that they propose to apply to the Courts for protection against any and all such infringements upon their rights, and recompense for the damages occasioned thereby.

NOTES IN SEASON.

We again call the attention of publishers to the lact that next week's issue is our regular Fall Announcement number, for which copy should reach us at once, whether for reading matter, our classified lists, or advertisements. This number is used by retailers as a practical saide in making up orders all through the fall, and it is to every one's interest that it should be as complete as possible.

D. APPLETON & Co. publish this week "The Bouse on the Marsh," a romance by an anon-writer, and one of the latest successes Flagland.

ROBERTS BROS. have just ready "Tip Cat," by the author of "Miss Toosey's Mission," and "Laddie," another unassuming story, full of genuine humor, pathos, and observation of human, and especially children's, nature.

GINN, HEATH & Co. have just ready "Colloquial Exercises and Select German Reader for Schools and Colleges," by Wm. Deutsch, teacher of German in Central High School, St. Louis, Mo.; also a "Handbook of Latin Writing," by Henry Preble and Charles J. Parker, tutors of Greek and Latin in Harvard University.

JOHN E. POTTER & Co., Phil., have ready "Fenno's Favorites," No. 2, the second number of their series of One Hundred Choice Pieces for Reading and Speaking. It contains an introductory essay on "How to Impersonate," which takes the place of that in "Fenno's Favorites," No. 1, on "The Principles of Gesture," and each succeeding number will contain a similar useful essay.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week "Contemporary Socialism," by John Rae, which has attracted considerable attention abroad. Among the chapters that follow an admirable historical analysis of the general subject are those on Ferlinand Lassalle, the foremost prophet of Socialism in Germany, Karl Marx, the "Socialists of the Chair," the Christian Socialists, Russian Nihilism, and a chapter on the theories of Henry George. Other books ready this week are "The Native Religions of Mexico and Peru," by Dr. Albert Réville of the Collège de France, (and who delivered the Hibbert Lectures this year,) translated by P. H. Wicksteed; the sixth volume of Stories by C. Merican Authors, comprising stories by C. H. White, A. A. Hayes, Lina Redwood Fairfax, L. W. Champney, Albert Webster, and Harold Frederic; and "Queer Stories for Boys and Girls," by Edward Eggleston, a series of delightful short stories which will no doubt be hailed by a host of young readers.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 20th the "Life and Letters of Bayard Tay-lor," by Mr. Taylor's wife and H. E. Scudder. Those who fitly appreciate the great achievements of Mr. Taylor in the varied lines of his robust and well-directed efforts will anticipate unusual satisfaction in reading the story of his lite, admirably told, and including very liberal extracts from his excellent letters. With this will appear a holiday edition of Hawthorne's "Wonder Book," capitally illustrated by F. S. Church, and produced in a style which ought to captivate young folks; the works of Christopher Marlowe, in three volumes, the first issue in a new edition of the Elizabethan Dramatists, carefully edited and brought out in very desirable style for the library; "Melodies of Verse, a dainty little vellum-covered book containing the choicest of Bayard Taylor's lyrics; "Text and Verse," a pretty little volume comprising for each day of the year a passage of Scripture and a kindred stanza from Mr. Whittier's poems, selected by Gertrude W. Cartland; and a set of four Handy-Volume Classics, including Holmes's "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," Milton's "Paradise Lost," and Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield," tasteful little books carefully printed and handsomely bound.

An imaginary battle-ground in Tennessee, which mighave been the field of any one of the many hard-foughter tests of the late war, is the scene of this novel. The in is the reconstruction period and the hero a Captain is wicke of the U. S. A., sent to Tennessee with his regment. Near the old battle-field is the home of General Vayne, lat of the Confederate army. It is a tumble-down old phost that had once been the army's headquarters, and has scared a whole glass in its windows. The old general's fortunare in a like state of decay, the one gleam of sunshine in lot being his beautiful daughter. Around this girl and if friend Antoinette St. Pierra the story centres. There is good deal that is weind and sad in it, but it is street. good deal that is werd and sad in it, but it is stron written, and betrays in its pen-hesches of local types same originality shown in "In the Tennessee mounts As the first novel written by Mr. Craddock, deserves pecial attention.

ANOTHER INTERNATIONAL POINT.

Some time since (June 23) we pointed out t great desirability of a clear understanding sween English publishers and English auors as to which party is authorized to sell id benefit from the American market, under rangements for American reissue. The Lonon Bookseller has very cordially taken up the bject in a frank and wholesome editorial, and trust the influence of the Publishers' Circular, * Athenaum, the Academy, and the new ociety of Authors will not be wanting in the The injustice to American me direction. thlishers and the frequent ill-feeling between aglish publishers and English authors that ise from a lack of clearness in contracts, can bily be obviated by a general discussion which all draw full attention to the subject.

We desire now to point out a further complion, solely between the publishers of the countries, which also ought to be cleared y-the lack of clear understanding as to tan English publisher sells when he sells American market." We happen to know e case—that of a London religious publishsociety-in which a house sold plates to one erican house, an edition of 250 copies in tts to another, and an invoice of 50 copies nd to a third, neither one of the three knowor supposing that there had been any other than that to it. In this case, the plates, are told, were ordered a month before the t of the edition in sheets. Each of the erican publishers made a price of his own, each found his sales interfered with unectedly by American rivals. We hear of er cases in which "editions" were sold to or three publishers, each supposing he had the market; and there have been inces in which the representative of the English house has also canvassed the retail trade for the book already sold to publishers.

So far as this is the result of misunderstanding or ignorance, it is unfortunate; so far as it is the result of intention, it is dishonest. A publisher or importer must know what he buys, and this involves knowing whether or not any one is to compete with him in his own market, so far as importations are concerned. One American house has taken the precaution, after some experiences of this sort, to insert the following clause in all its contracts of purchase:

"It is understood that this purchase gives us the entire market for this country, so far as the sale or exchange of either plates, sheets, or bound stock is concerned."

This seems to be clear, explicit, and complete. We recommend to American houses the adoption of such a clause, and to English houses a frank statement to the American buyer as to what it is selling.

THE latest ruling of the Treasury Department, pointed out in Messrs. Westermann's letter, seems to be vexatious and vexatious only, unless the authorities have reason for their action which does not appear upon the surface. It is to be hoped that the men who suffer by this last outbreak of red-tape will have something to say in opposition.

THE Trade Sale, which opens this year (Sept. 30) somewhat later than usual, will be an interesting test of the promise of the fall. The catalogue, as summarized elsewhere, presents an attractive offering, and with cooler weather in sight, there ought to be a good attendance of buyers.

THE Post-Office Department notifies the postal community that English copyright works sent in the mails to England are subject to forfeiture there. This is a customary regulation, but an occasional reminder to the public is desirable to prevent misunderstanding and abuse.

POSTAL MATTERS.

ENGLISH COPYRIGHT WORKS FORFEITABLE IF SENT IN MAILS TO GREAT BRITAIN.

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF FOREIGN MAILS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., August 20, 1884.

According to information received from the British Post-Office, English copyright works sent to Great Britain in mails from other countries may be forfeited under the laws of that country at the instance of Her Majesty's subjects who possess such copyright property.

JAMES S. CRAWFORD, Superintendent of Foreign Mails.

CUSTOMS RULINGS ON PERIODICALS.

MESSES. B. WESTERMANN & Co. have issued the following circular and letter, which explain themselves:

NEW YORK, Aug. 22, 1984.

DEAR SIR: We took occasion recently to address to you a petition to the Secretary of the Treasury, asking for a reversal of recent decisions which make periodicals other than the current numbers dutiable again, notwithstanding the tariff law of March 3, 1883, which makes all periodicals and newspapers free. Should you not have received it, we shall be glad of mailing you another copy.

We have to-day again occasion to acquaint you with another vexatious decision of the Secretary of the Treasury, regarding the importation of books free of duty for college and public libraries.

The practice hitherto was that a written order from the librarian had to be filed with every entry, supported by our own oath, that such books were imported for colleges, etc. The secretary now requires for every book of twenty-five cents or a hundred dollars an affidavit, sworn to by the college president. The importer has to swear his own oath besides all these affidavits, although the secretary, in a previous decision, declares that the importers' oath shall in no case be taken as evidence in such transactions. There is clearly something wrong at Washington, but it is not in our power to have those decisions changed. We doubt not, however, that if the college presidents, librarians, and professors would each individually remonstrate against such rulings and point out the impracticability and most vexatious imposition thereof, that something might be accomplished and matters so arranged that New York importers are not debarred from furnishing, promptly and without onerousrequisitions, foreign books to college and school libraries duty free.

Since the new order took effect, we have been obliged to pay duties on all such books, to procure the necessary oaths at great expense of labor, to file them afterward and apply for the return of such duties paid, a very circumstantial and unjust proceeding. The officers of the custom house at New York themselves are satisfied that the modus operandi as heretofore in use worked quite satisfactorily, but the officials at Washington seem bent on throwing as many obstacles in the way of the pursuit of learning as they can think of. Our proposition to the secretary would be this: "That out of every ten items of free-of-duty books on any one invoice the collector, at his discretion, should point out one for which the written order of the librarian, or, if it must be done, the sworn order should be produced, all other items to be passed free upon the strength of the importers' oath, assuming them to be correct, if the every tenth is so proven by the production of the order. This same principle is applied to the examination of all goods, and of every ten packages on one invoice one is examined and, if found correct, all others are passed without examinations." It is to be assumed that one man's oath is as good as another's, although the secretary seems to put no faith in an importer's oath; but he has no right, we think, to rule as he has done, which, in many cases, would make it cheaper to pay duty than to procure sworn orders, as he now demands.

If you would kindly act on our suggestion and remonstrate against this recent order, we would be much obliged, and trust that the importation of books, duty-free, by New York importers, would still be possible.

Very respectfully,

B. WESTERMANN & Co.

NEW YORK, September, 1884.

DEAR SIR: The facility hitherto given us, a making entry for serial publications, to refer in an affidavit to the original order already on in at the custom house, has also been withdrawn and a fresh sworn order for every new part now required. We shall try hereafter to range it that our friends are not too often important wares by these oaths; but being taken under the property of the property

We earnestly request that all college librarism would kindly try every means in their power have these obnoxious decisions revoked.

For three entries we had no fewer than filly nine such oaths to send out, besides paying do on all these goods, which the law allowed to colin free.

Respectfully,
B. WESTERMANN & Co.

Messrs. Westermann add, in sending us the circulars:

A librarian writes us: "The policy of the Secretary of the Treasury is evidently to discuss away from the American importer. my case, for instance, satisfactory as my dealing with you have been, I cannot afford to probably two hours at the custom house, besing paying (I believe) 20 cents for an affidavit to through a book on which the duty is 25 cents and the same properties of the same properties of the same properties.

It seems very strange to us that the mean the pen suffer in silence these impositions of norant officials. The rag-importers succeed promptly in having an order injurious to the trade revoked. The literary community, though requested by us and others to profugainst the above-referred-to rulings, does a second or the second of the second or the second seem able to protect itself.

THE FALL TRADE SALE.

THE Fall Trade Sale, as already announced. commence Tuesday morning, September 30 9 o'clock, and continue daily until the catale is exhausted. One of the features of the will be the assignee's sale of the balance of stock of the late firm of E. Claxton & Co.'s publications, which, owing to complicati could not be bound in time for their sale in last. As stated by the auctioneers, in a cases the stereotype plates of the books of for sale in this section have been destroyed this will be the last opportunity to buy books. The catalogue itself is much larger it was last year, and would give evidence renewed interest in the system of trade s Of course some of the larger houses are represented, but there are enough in the logue to make a fair show

On the first day Lee & Shepard open the with a list covering 52 pages, in which we among others, offers of 1000 volumes of "Y Folks' Trophies of Travel," 500 volumes their popular hand-books, 1000 volumes of Golden Floral series, 3000 of their "state

vorites," such as "Ring Out, Wild Bells," c., and 1000 volumes of their illustrated Ballad ries. They are followed by John E. Potter & o. with a representative list of their well-known andards and quarto Bibles. Next come Jas. Osgood & Co., with a tolerably full list of eir new books and others. The National Pubhing Co., of Philadelphia, with a large line of nily and pulpit Bibles and photograph albums, se the day.

The second day opens with a small invoice of haefer & Koradi's publications, followed by small consignment of Pollard & Moss's new itions of Dickens, Irving, Doré, and Macau-r's England. Then come T. B. Peterson & os. with a representative list of their most pular books; R. Worthington, with a large roice of his own, the Lovell and Chambers's blications; Virtue & Yorston, with about 500 Immes: Thos. R. Knox & Co., (successors to mes Miller,) who offer sets of Browning, ickland's "Queens of England," Captain iyne Reid's juveniles, besides a number of her standard works; and J. B. Lockwood, Brooks & Co. offer the plates of nine volumes, and Cameron & Ferguson, of Glasgow, Scotland, offer the plates of Waverley novels, twenty-nine song-books, and of half dozen others.

A LITERARY AND SCIENTIFIC CLEAR-ING-HOUSE.

From the Paper World, August.

It is not generally known that the Smithsonian Institution is the greatest literary and scientific clearing-house in the world, yet such is the fact. Its scope in this field is universal. Any person can send there any number of copies of a publication, addressed as desired, and the institution sees that they are delivered without cost to the sender. An American author can thus distribute an edition of a learned treatise through all foreign countries, near and remote, as well as his own, while foreign writers can, in turn, reach every learned society and student in this country or in other foreign countries. Practically the exchanges are made in most cases between societies rather than individuals, and some idea can be gained of the proportions of the work from the fact that the institution has now about 3200 foreign societies or agents with which it is in regular correspondence. Ten years ago there were only 1985, while in 1850 the institution was in communication with only 173. For the sake of convenience the 3200 regular correspondents are reached through 38 "centres of distribution," as they are called, these being bureaus, societies, or individuals authorized to act as its agents in the various countries of the world. Generally the agent is a government bureau or a learned society of semiofficial standing.

In return for the large shipments of American publications the Exchange Bureau receives copies of nearly all the scientific works of the world as soon as printed, and distributes them as desired among our own learned bedies and individuals. This constitutes the second of the functions of the Exchange. A third and final duty of great magnitude is what is called the Government Exchange. In 1868 Congress directed the Smithsonian to undertake this office, and the work has grown until now, by act of Congress, 50 complete sets of public documents are furnished the bureau for distribution among the various governments of the civilized world. It might be surmised that the cost of making such extensive exchanges would be very great, but the expense is surprisingly small. The cost of boxing and wrapping is chiefly borne by those who send the packages. By special arrangement the parcels enter this and all countries duty free. And, through the public spirit of the great carrying companies, the boxes are transported to and from all parts of the world free of

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE has decided not to purchase The Continent.

The Critic for August 30 is a Holmes number. Letters and poems bearing on the subject of the birthday, and written by men and women in the worlds of letters and science, fill twenty-three of its columns.

J. FRED WAGGONER announces that after the 1st of October The Bookseller and Stationer will be suspended, and in its place will be published, monthly, two separate and distinct papers—one to be called The Western Bookseller, devoted to the interests of the book trade, and the other The Western Stationer, devoted to the stationery and fancy goods trade.

THE International Review of Medical and Surgical Technics, heretofore issued in Boston as a quarterly, is now published monthly at Palatka, Florida. Its editors are Dr. Joseph H. Warren, Union Park, Boston, a physician and surgeon of skill and note; Dr. Charles E. Warren, now permanently located in Florida, and Dr. William E. Smith, of Framingham.

The Art Interchange of August 28 is one of the best issues of that popular periodical. It contains a beautiful design in color of wild roses for decorating cup and saucer; designs of dogwood for mirror frames, toilet jar, door panel, and cup and saucer; a conventional floral design for table top in brass repoussé work, two designs for fruit plates, and an exquisite engraving (12½ x9½) of a forest interior.

THE Century will begin, with the November number of the present year, and continue, without intermission (if possible), a series of separate papers, under the title of "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," the object of which is to set forth, in clear and graphic manner, the life and spirit of the most important of modern military conflicts-the War for the Union. The main portion of the scheme will be papers of a popular character on the great engagements of the war, by general officers high in command at the time, either upon the Union or the Confederate side. In many instances the contributor will be the officer of first command, and in every instance a participant in the engagements under consideration. For instance, the battles of Shiloh and Vicksburg will be described by General U. S. Grant, who will contribute four papers to the series; General Beauregard will write of the First Bull Run; General McClellan, of Antietam; General Rosecrans, of Stone River; etc., etc. The Passage of the Forts below New Orleans will be described by Admiral Porter, the Western Gunboat Service by Rear-Admiral Walke, and the fight between the Monitor and the Merrimac by Colonel John Taylor Wood, the senior surviving officer of the latter vessel. Other prominent Confederate generals have engaged to contribute, and some of these contributions will be hardly less notable than those above mentioned. In several instances briefer supplementary papers will chronicle special incidents or consider special phases of an engagement Personal reminiscences of several of the most prominent military leaders, now dead, will also give variety to the scheme. In conjunction with these will appear, from time to time, a number of briefer sketches, entitled "Recollections of a Private," reflecting, with interesting and life-like details, the experiences of the common soldier from time of enlistment to the muster-out: the of the march, the bivouac, the skirmish, the chat the pursuit, the retreat, etc., etc. Auxil branches of the service will also be treated this supplementary way. The illustration the scheme will receive the most careful at tion, and in this particular it is thought that series will possess an unequalled histor interest.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

Mr. Browning is correcting the proofs of new volumne of poems, which he has decided call "Ferishta's Fancies," instead of "Serios as he first intended.

Miss Braddon's forthcoming movel, "In mael," will be published early next most Miss Braddon is now in residence at her shome in the New Forest, where she is but upon her annual, The Mistletoe Bough, while will appear in November.

THE Austrian traveller, Herr won Heat Wartegg, has just returned to Europe from tour of several months' duration through Mean and the less known republics of Cent America, where he made a careful survey of a lake districts of Chapala and Passenaro. It intends to publish the results in a comprehensive work on Central America.

JAMES D. BROWN, Mitchell Librarian Glasgow, is preparing a "Biographical Ditionary of Musicians." The Pall Mall Gaze reports that "all composers of standing are receive adequate notice in it, and the almounworked field of American musical biograph will be taken into account." The book also treat of the literature of "Theory;" a "the principal collections of carols, catched psalmody, songs, etc., will be dealt with."

MR. GEORGE J. ROMANES, the author. "Mental Evolution in Animals," is now gaged on a companion volume on "Mental Evolution in Man." The object of Mr. I mane's former book was to estal lish that a principles of evolution apply to the phenomer of mind in the lower animals. In his new he will seek to show that man's power of the ing about abstractions has also been arrived by a process of evolution.

MR. W. CAREW HAZLITT has obtained the in of a manuscript journal which gives rious particulars of his grandfather, William izlitt, when a boy. Through the kindness of: possessor of this Ms. Mr. Hazlitt is enad to make use of it in connection with his demoirs of Hazlitt," and he will contribute the illustrative extracts from the Ms. to the it number of the Antiquary. These extracts I relate to the journey of the Hazlitts to herica in 1783-87.

IESSRS. KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & Co. will wish shortly the new volume of Sonnets, by J. Addington Symonds, called Vagabunduli rellus. One section of sixty-seven Sonnets, tella Maris," in this book presents dramatiy in sonnet form an episode of passionate erience. A preface guards the author from supposition that this section is autobiophical, and explains its connection with the thological study of a fictitious character ch he attempted in his Animi Figura.

IR. DAVITT'S book, "Leaves from a Prison ry; or, Lectures to a 'Solitary' Audience," appear simultaneously in this country and England, and is expected to be ready for publication shortly. Mr. Henry George is to contribute a preface and chapter to the American edition. "The first part of the work," says the London Academy, "will consist of a monologue addressed to a tame blackbird, which was the author's companion in Portland Prison, on traits of criminal character. Sketches of convict companions in his previous imprisonment in Dartmoor will form another feature of the book, and should afford a curious insight into criminal life, going, as they promise to do, into the various plans and schemes of professional thieves and swindlers. Educational reform, chiefly with reference to the children of the criminal classes, will be dealt with in the second part of the book, on the theory that criminal disposition is not necessarily hereditary, but the result of causes which lie within the power of early industrial and moral education to remove. Chapters on the social problems of our time, the causes of crime in society, poverty as a factor in the production of crime, causes of poverty, relations of labor to land and capital, will follow. In a final chapter on Irish political crime the author intends to criticise the 'Castle system' of government in Ireland, as he thinks it unconstitutional and constantly opposed to every popular feeling and aspiration of the Irish.'

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON'S Early Autumn Announcements, 1884.

Now Ready:

A NEW AND COMPLETE (ILLUSTRATED) EDITION

Works of Edgar Allan Poe,

With a Memoir and a New Introduction on

THE GENIUS OF POE.

By RICHARD HENRY STODDARD. Illustrated with a New Portrait on Steel (the latest taken from life). Etchings from original designs—fac-similes—numerous autographs, etc. Printed from New Plates, large type (double-leaded), on paper made specially for this edition, in Six Volumes, crown 8vo, neatly bound, cloth, gilt top. Price, $9 (in a neat box); also in neat half calf bindings.

This edition contains an introduction on "The Genius of Pos," and a Biographical and Critical Memoir by RICHARD HENRY STODDARD, and the Essays by LOWELL and WILLIS, Pos's Essay on the Poetic Principle, with the Essays on the Rationale of Verse and the Philosophy of Composition, etc., etc.

Eureka: A Theory of the Universe, the critical notes entitled Marginalia, and the chapter on Autography, illustrated by numerous fac-similes of autographs; and the Biographical Studies and the Essays on Cryptography, Pinakidia, and Magazine Prison House, Fifty Suggestions, Quacks of Helicon, and Conchologia, together with the COMPLETE SERIES OF THE POEMS AND PROSE TALES.

Type.—The type is large and clear cut, and the page presents an exceptionally open and attractive appearance.

Illustrations.—This edition contains etchings from GIFFORD, CHURCH, PLATT, PENNELL, VANDENHOFF, and other artists; also a new portrait on steel of Poe, with fac-similes of the first draft of "The Bells," and a number of fac-simile letters. The etchings and portrait are all printed in the best possible manner.

"POE'S writings are as clear and sharp and sustained as the finest sculpture. They combine HAWTHORNE and DE FOE, the lawyer and the mystic; the wild fantasies of the opium-eater and the calm, penetrative power of THACKERAY. They therefore fascinate slike the DREAMER and THE COOLEST MAN OF AFFAIRS."

Ready in September.

By REV. J. T. DAVIDSON, D.D. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

REV. MR. SPURGEON says: "The author gives young men Ans advice—full of grace and thought—enlivened by story and proverb, fresh with sympathy, and on Are with seal. These short talks are just what they should be, and all that they further need is to be largely distributed among the crowds of our advancing manhood."

ARCHBISHOP LEIGHTON.

A BIOGRAPHY. With Selections from his Writings. By WM, BLAIR, D.D. 1 vol., 12mo., neatly bound in parchment, gilt top and side, $1.25.

A MANUAL OF PREACHING.

By REV. PROF. FRANKLIN W. FISK, D.D., Professor of Sacred Rhetoric in Chicago Theological Seminary. 1 vol., crown octavo, cloth, $1.50.

The work sets forth and illustrates the principles and rules of Homiletics in a brief and practical manner. Although chiefly designed for theological students and young ministers, it is believed that the treatise will be of service to older pastors. Reference is made to the most recent literature, both of the pulpit and of works on Homiletics. The method followed in the volume is, first, to take a sermon in pieces and inspect its principal parts, and then to show how to gather materials and form a sermon. The aim has been to make the work, in a brief and practical way, as helpful as possible to the preacher.

A NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION OF

HENRY GRATTAN GUINNESS'S

APPROACHING END OF THE AGE.

Viewed in the light of History, Prophecy, and Science. 1 vol., crown octavo, 800 pages, cloth, $2.50.

This new edition of this work has two important additions—viz, an appendix of 60 pages, containing answers to certain Futurist objections and replies to this volume—which have from time to time appeared since its publication; also a copious index, to facilitate reference to the various subjects treated in the volume.

NEW LIBRARY EDITION OF JOSEPHUS'S WORKS.

3 vols., crown octavo. Steel Portrait. Cloth, $3.75 (in a neat box, same as formerly published in 4 volumes at $9). This new standard edition, in large, clear type, has explanatory notes, observations, and a complete index.

Few business men will deny the great saving of time accomplished by the use of a carefully-prepared book of last est Tables. But most of the books of this character were made years ago, when the present low rates of interest did a prevail. In the prosperous years which succeeded our great Civil War high prices for commodities and high rates of a terest for bonds, loans and mortgages were the rule, but of later years the state of affairs in the business world has gardly changed. Low prices, a plethora of money and low rates of interest no revail, and there is a want of a book of a terest Tables accurately calculated, containing, in addition to the usual tables, calculations of interest at one, two three per cent. This want the book is believed to fill.

THE NEW AMERICAN CATALOGUE.

ONE year ago, in the Fall Announcement number of 1883, the projector and editor of the American Catalogue announced his final decision to proceed with the Supplement, as it was then spoken of, from 1876, which had been put over from year to year because of the discouragement arising from the great loss on the original volume. At the time of Mr. Leypoldt's death, he had prepared general instructions for the direction of the compilers, and the preliminary work of pasting up, alphabeting, etc., had been well forwarded for the books recorded up to December 31, 1883, to which date it was then proposed the Catalogue should be limited. His plans, however, were in great part not matter of record, and perhaps had not been fully matured by himself, and the embarassments consequent upon a change of direction have been the cause of much difficulty and delay. It was determined by the present editor to include in the work books recorded up to June 30, 1884 -making eight years from the close of the original work; to fill any gaps in the way of omissions from the Publishers' Weekly record that were readily discoverable, and to push forward the enterprise so that it might be in the hands of the trade for practical use during the fall sea-

We are glad to be able to state that this plan has been carried out, thanks to the persistent energy of Miss A. I. Appleton, who has had full charge of the compilation, and her ciates, and to Messrs. Rockwell & Churchill, the printers of the original catalogue. We doing our best to complete the first two hunder pages, being half the author-and-title alphaet, so that the first instalment may be sent out the trade on or about September 30. This won have been ready early in September but for a cause already referred to. The rest of the thor-and-title alphabet, completing the body the work, we mean to send out as early as pe sible in November, so that in the rush of the and Christmas business the retail trade may h this important list at their service. The subject alphabet, probably extending to a third hundred pages, will follow, and we trust the while work may be completed within the six me after the date on which the record closes. believe no bibliography of equal size or im tance has ever been so promptly pushed throu

The American Catalogue, 1876-1883, thus be fully half the size of the original w in other words, half as many books are s to have been issued in the eight years as we print and for sale in 1876. The original cost over $25,000; the deficit is to-day $2300, without the charge of a penny for services of Mr. Leypoldt and, for the most # without charges for interest on capital. was a heavy burden to Mr. Leypoldt-doub one of the burdens which helped to kill. An arrangement was made by which a por of this burden was carried by others, and sale of all the sets remaining—at the incre price-will not quite suffice to make good ! investment and recoup Mr. Leypoldt's We make a last appeal in connection with new volume, to the trade and to all frie of bibliography, to do what they can to mote the sale of these few remaining con now priced at $40 the set.

The larger part of the great editorial con the original work came from the many culties and delays in dealing with the crude terial of American publishers' catalogues. work was nothing less than that of buildi foundation for American bibliography making the bricks for it without straw. quired four years' hard work and a conseq outlay for the salaries of a considerable sta compilers that far outran every estimate. that time the bibliographical system of office has been more thoroughly organi toward approximate completeness, and the ficulties of the new Catalogue, though have been less. If there are any serious sions of books since 1876, it is a fault for we can scarcely be held responsible. less, we have already sent out a circular to all publishers (about fifteen hundred epresented in the Catalogue), asking them to ompare the Catalogue, as soon as parts are isued, with their own lists, and give us immerate word of any omissions, with a view to a cossible addendum.

It had been proposed, in the consultations etween Mr. Leypoldt and the present editor ver the plans of the original Catalogue, that iter its issue a continuous catalogue should be ept at the office of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, hich, from the basis of our full-title Weekly ecord (made complete by every possible means inquiry), should be the systematic basis, first the Monthly Index, and then of the Yearly idex of the TRADE LIST ANNUAL, and finally ade into continuous alphabet month by month ad year by year, become the material of the MERICAN CATALOGUE, requiring only the final wision at the end of each five years to go right the printer. The burdens upon Mr. Leypoldt evented him from carrying out this plan; but it sow intended to commence this system. This ice will then be able to answer at once any quessus as to a book referred to either by author, le, or subject, and to issue the AMERICAN CAT-DGUE for the period ending June 30, 1890 bich would seem to be the natural termination the next period, providing thereafter for gular quinquennial issue), more promptly than reatalogue of its kind before. We also prose to keep a record of any omissions discoverin the previous volumes, in which case, if enterprising bibliographer of the year 1900 is sturesome enough to undertake a catalogue books of the century (poor man!) so much of material shall be ready at his hands ! We ask now the hearty and immediate supt of the trade, of libraries, and of all interestin bibliography for the new Catalogue. In w of the size of the new work, it is at $10 the acest bibliography ever issued, as is emphad by comparison with the original Catame and with the English Catalogue. This z (which is the price in sheets) will be raised 12 later. More than half the limited e lition relve hundred and fifty is already subscribed but we are very desirous to push the subscriplist forward, so that a fair profit may be asid at once to Mr. Levpoldt's estate. It is that this co-operation should be asked from e for whom he worked.

MR abbreviations of publishers' names and ibliographical terms in the AMERICAN CATA-UR are so generally self-explanatory, that we time little, if any, inconvenience will be felt ancessary delay of the title-page and other thory sheets, at least until the first alphabet is pleted. Meanwhile, however, we shall issue in convenient shape (12mo, flexible cloth, at $1) a Directory of American Publishers, containing the abbreviations used in the AMERICAN CATALOGUE. We can supply this also in sheets, printed on one side only, for use as addresses, if demand for it in that shape is shown by advance orders.

THERE is much interest in the trade, especially in view of Messrs. Estes & Lauriat's cautionary signal in our last issue, as to the bearing of Judge Wheeler's decision, not only on the main "Chatterbox" question, but on such side issues also as "Chatterbox Junior," "Baby Chatterbox," "Sunday Chatterbox," and the like. Probably lawyers, like doctors, will differ as to just what is the reach and what are the specific applications of this somewhat sweeping decision; but the pith of it seems to be, not that the title "Chatterbox," nor the contents, nor any other specific part of the totality is protectable, but that the courts will protect the originator of the combination of all known as "Chatterbox" against books issued as imitations and in such guise as to persuade the public that they are buying the publications of Johnston or his representatives. It is perhaps open to question whether such publications as those named above can be construed to come within the limits of this decision, and further light will be waited for with interest. All this confusion shows the need of a fair and square international copyright, under which no such questions can arise.

THE Hospital Saturday and Sunday Collection Association has issued its annual report, in which is acknowledged the contribution of the Book Trade Auxiliary Association, of which Mr. Henry B. Barnes has been the leading spirit, to the extent of $339 in 1883 as against $225 for 1882. Ours is a modest trade, in comparison with the more munificent contributions of the dry goods and tobacco trades, but every little helps, and it is well to have the book trade represented as such in good works. When the time comes round again, we trust our collectionsmay grow in grace. The total collections in 1883 were no less than $43,062.74.

THIS issue is, as usual, a double number, furnishing a key to the fall season in general. It is of the same size as last year, but more publishers are represented, and its contents certainly promise plenty of books for the fall trade. In our succeeding issue, we shall, have a supplementary list of announcements, which fact publishers are requested to bear inmind.

DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY OF THE FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

THE descriptive summary which here follows presents, as usual, in its alphabetical arrangment by publishers, a survey of the entire field, so far as the necessary information is at han Other books, not yet fully determined upon, will find mention in subsequent issues. In of announcement lists proper, the books will be found arranged by classes, while the advertising pages will afford further detailed information as to prices, sizes, styles, etc.

The two for are flower pieces of every variety of con nation, and the latter two are floral cards, vignettes of children's heads, some of thes Mrs. Lathbury, which cannot fail to bee very popular.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued the part of the romance by Admiral Porter enti be "a story of remarkable adventures, thorog original in its plan, and possessing that card requisite of old-fashioned fiction, a well-wre plot." The story is unusually long, and it therefore been decided to publish it in part form of issue much in vogue in England in days of Dickens and Thackeray. These will appear at intervals of a fortnight, and will have an illustration by Alfred Fre During September they will bring the fifth volume of "Bancroft's History the United States" in their new edition of great work, partly rewritten and wholly res by the indefatigable author; "A Natura Rambles about Home," by Dr. Charles Abbott; "The Three Prophets," containing facts in the lives of Chinese Gordon, Mol med-Ahmed, and Araby Pasha, and vividly scribing the events before, during, and after bombardment of Alexandria, written by Co Chaille Long, ex-Chief of Staff to Gorde Africa, ex-United States Consular Agent is exandria, etc.; "Noble Blood," a novel

The whole series combines originality, simplicity, and literary ability and discernment, while the numerous illustrations and maps make it especially attractive to scholars. They also have in active preparation Philips' Geographi-They also cal Readers, in six different grades or books.

J. W. BOUTON, New York, announces an English translation of the wonderfully clever skit that appeared in Germany some months since aimed at Shapira and his Egyptian "find." It was written by Karl Maria Seyppel, a young genee painter at Düsseldorf. The English wording of the satire can hardly be termed a translation, as the original idea and the stiff and unnatural Egyptian designs are about all that remain of the German "Er, Sie, Es," the English rhymster having made it even more telling to English readers by covert allusions to the modern political and social life in the English speaking world and by extremely witty double entendres that are of course not to be translated. The style of the German book, with is marvellous imitation of antiquity, its timestained pages, sack-cloth cover, leather-thong clasps, corroded seal, and ragged, dilapidated edges, will be closely followed. Each impression of the work takes some months to produce, in consequence of the peculiar character of in material and the length of time needed to invest it with its air of antiquity, and no more copies will be in the market for some time after the limited edition is sold. Those desiring a copy of this unique and artistic work should therefore make speedy application. So great an Egyptian scholar as Georg Ebers lent his known edge and help, and took the most intense in terest in the mechanical production of this biblio phile's joke at the expense of Shapira and the purveyors of pre-historic literature. Writing w the artist, he says: "Life is so much in earne that we must be thankful to any one who help us to a hearty laugh."

IRA BRADLEY & Co., Boston, announce for the fall and holiday season, "Carola." by Hesh Stretton; "Almost too Late," by H. C. Garland, "Shadows," by Mrs. O. L. Walton. author "Peep behind the Scenes," etc; "Pioneers a Family, or the Adventures of a Young Governess," by J. R. H. Hawthorne, an interesticatory of pioneer life; and a superb "Red Liedition of the British Poets," comprising Tenses on (complete), Shakespeare, Byron, Som Moore, Burns. rated preacher and traveller, by S. T. Liverlore.

Cassell & Co. announce that four volumes are ow ready in the Artists' Library, a new series signed to furnish to art students, art degners, art manufacturers, and all interested art valuable hand-books on the history and actical application of art. The works are well-known writers, and are issued under e patronage of the Administration of Fine rts at Paris. They are translated by comtent authorities, and edited by Mr. John parkes, Principal of the South Kensington Art hools. They are profusely illustrated, and ill be helpful and interesting to students and aders. Those now ready are entitled "Anatby for Artists," a translation, by F. E. Fenn, from the French of Matthias Duval, member the French Academie de Medecine, and Promor of Anatomy in the Ecole des Beaux Arts; The Dutch School of Painting," translated by Powell from the French of Henry Havard, which is added an introduction by John uskin; "The English School of Painting," taslated from the French of Ernest Chesneau L. N. Etherington; and A. J. Wanter's Flemish School of Painting," translated by sie Rossel. Among their steadily lengthen-glist of fine art and iliustrated works, which ow more beautiful bookmaking year by year, e'Studies of Animal Painting," by Frederick ylor, late President of the Royal Society of noters in Water Colors, containing instrucms for the pupil, and eighteen beautifully lored plates; "Principles of Perspective," as plied to model drawing and sketching from ture, by George Trobridge, Head Master of e Government School of Art, Belfast, illustratwith twenty-three plates; and the third ies of the "Wild Flower Portfolio," a selecnof forty of the finest wild flowers, printed in tomo lithography in the most perfect manner, i put up in two exceptionally handsome boxes. te books on drawing, containing blank paper 'copying each example, will be issued under title of "How to Draw," "Instructions in awing Animals," "Elementary Forms," floral Ornamental Forms," "Landscapes," i "Machinery," all of which will be wided by competent masters in each of departments from which the books take ir names. They will also have a second ies of the "Studies in Flower Painting, staining twenty plates and text by F. E Ime, whose name has become so familiar to on many birthday and Christmas cards. In department of art publications the seventh mme of the Magazine of Art must not be med by, although it would seem that critics connoisseurs had left nothing more to be d of the beauty and merits of this "richly strated and varied record of the beauties of cient, mediæval, and contemporary taste." its monthly parts, fine arts in all their anches are fully represented by pen and scil, and when twelve of these parts are put ter a cover and issued in the bewildering niety of style that makes all the books of this tisse so tempting, they form a most acceptable dition to the best-stocked artist's library. mecellaneous literature will receive some this season, among additions more important of which will rank an édition Have of "Romeo and Juliet," with twelve subeb photogravures from original drawings by Frank Dicksee, expressly made for this work, and reproduced by Messrs. Goupil & Co., of Paris, in their well-known style of execution. The text will be printed in black and red on Whatman's hand-made paper, and a series of ornamental headings and initials has been specially drawn for the work, of which each one is pronounced a little work of art. Chateaubri-and's "Atala" will be brought out in a handsome volume in cloth, full gilt, and also in full morocco. The text is translated by James Spence Harry from Didot's edition of the author's works, with an introduction by Edward J. Harding; the well-known Doré illustrations will be used, and, it is necessary to say, made as telling as good taste, fine paper, and excellent facilities for manufacture render possible. The second series of "Character Sketches from Charles Dickens" is announced, containing six plates from the original drawings by Frederick Barnard, reproduced in photogravure, printed by Goupil on India paper, and representing, as they appeared to the brain that evolved them, the two Wellers, Mr. Pecksniff, Little Nell and her Grandsather, Rogue Riderhood, Caleb Plummer and his Blind Daughter, and Mr. Peggotty. "Cathedral Churches of England and Wales, descriptive, historical, and pictorial, edited by the Rev. Prof. Bonney, and containing upward of 150 illustrations; the "Concise Cyclopædia," edited by Wm. Heaton, tastefully gotten up with colored edges; the "English Cycle Directory for 1884," compiled by Charles Spencer, issued in a very cheap edition and also in a very hand-some one; "The Dictionary of English His-tory," a complete record of the English nation at home and abroad, arranged for easy reference, and said to answer every question that may arise on the subject of which it treats; "The History of the Year," a complete record of the events of the past year, full, popular, and accurate; an "Illustrated History of Music," by the Rev. Emil Naumann, Director of Music at the Royal Chapel in Dresden-these and several more scarcely less important works are among the new books, while new editions are to be brought out of their "Bible Dictionary," "Old and New British Ballads," "Comic History of the United States," Hodder's "Heroes of Britain sible, this house is doing even more for the children than for their elders, and it becomes difficult to pick out the titles our space allows us to give from this great variety of material, which is all pretty and all good. The colored lithograph board cover that is now so popular for children's books is a leading feature of this house, and some of the very best work in this style of binding is to be found on their books. Their pretty original designs and their tasteful arrangement of colors form a pleasing contrast to the crazy, purposeless lines and shricking combination of purposeless lines and shrieking combination of colors seen on many of our children's books. In this special style of binding, with innumerable illustrations, will be issued "Æsop's Fables," "Bo-Peep," a charming collection of stories, "Childhood's Happy Hour," "Tame Creatures," "Wild Creatures," "Duncan's on Land and Sea," by Kate Tannett Woods, author of that universal favorite "Toots and his Friends;

"Frolics at the Farm," "Gulliver's Travels," " Hither and Thither," with the touching sub-title "Good Times for Papa's Little Daughters;"
"Little Folks' Volume for Fall of 1884," "Myself and my Friends," and one-syllable editions of "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Robinson Crusoe," in which the most difficult work of giving sense in one-syllable words is remarkably well done by Mary A. Schwacofer. Leaving the lithograph board covers we come upon hosts of forthcoming books, all appropriately dressed in cloth of all colors, and with designs of every shape. We must run rapidly through the list, and refer to the classified summary for a complete showing of their line of new children's books for the coming season, and the long list of new editions of old favorites. E. C. Phillips has a book on "All the Russias;" Clara L. Matéaux writes of "Brave Lives and Noble" and of "Rambles Round London;" Maggie Browne gives "Chats about Germany;" Mary Heild presents "Glimpses of South America; Dr. Gordon Stables, of the Royal Navy, takes his readers "O'er Many Lands" and "On Many Seas;" "Children of all Nations" is a narrative Seas; "Children of all Nations is a narrative of the every-day pursuits of children in various countries, very instructive and interesting; "Cuckoo in the Robin's Nest," "Daisy Bright Eyes," "The Giant's Cradle," "Happy as a King," "Harry Bradford's Crusade," "John's Mistake," "Round the Mulberry Bush," "Stories of the Tower of London," etc., will all reach the hearts of book-loving children of every age, character, and taste.

S. E. Cassino & Co., Boston, have just ready "Our Birds in their Haunts: A Popular Treatise on the Birds of Eastern North America," by Rev. J. Hibbert Langille, being the personal recollections and study of bird life by the author, who is well known as a frequent contributor to Forest and Stream; also "Beacon Lights for God's Mariners," compiled and illustrated by Elizabeth N. Little, author of the "Pansy Text-Book," a handsome and unique presentation book for the holidays, with lithograph silvered cover, fully illustrated, and containing texts from Scripture and from the poets. We believe it is the intention of this firm to withdraw from the general publishing business in order to be able to confine themselves more especially to subscription books, of which they already have some valuable ones, and to scientific specialities.

THE CATHOLIC PUBLICATION SOCIETY Co. is preparing a volume of selections from the writings of Cardinal Manning by W. S. Lilly, similar to his volume of selections from Newman, which has been quite successful; "The Life of St. Caarles Borromeo," with an inroduction by Cardinal Manning; and a second volume of "Meditations for Every Day in the Year," by Cardinal Wiseman.

THE CENTURY Co. have in preparation for immediate publication a new book of stories, rhymes and pictures for little folks, to be called "Baby World." ROBERT CLARKE & Co., Cincinnati, have just issued for the Filson Club of Louisville, Ky., a handsome quarto entitled "John Filson, the

First Historian of Kentucky; an Account of his Life and Writings, prepared from Original Sources," by Reuben T. Durrett, president of the club. This is the first of a series of publications to be made by the Filson Club, an association organized for the purpose of collecting and preserving original historical matter relating to the early history of the central West, and especially to Kentucky. In 1784 John Filson, who lost his life while laying the foundation of Cincanati, published a history and map of Kentucky, which were not only the first of this State, but the initial chapter in the annals of the Valley d the Mississippi. It has been denied by masy. and doubted by more, that Filson ever issued a map with his history, though it is specially mentioned. This is at last settled by the beautiful photo-lithographic fac-simile of one of the original maps which accompanies this volume. Only a very limited number of copies are placed on sale. They have also just ready "The Price ciples and Practice of Common School Educate tion," by Rev. James Currie, M.A. Principal of the Church of Scotland Training College Edinburgh, and author of "Early and Infan School Education," etc.; and "Synopsis Chess Openings, a Tabulated Analysis," William Cook, of the Birmingham Chess Cha with a supplement containing American inve tions in the chess openings, together with ire analysis in the openings since 1882, and a of the chess clubs of the United States a Canada, by J. FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT have recently begun a series of books under the general title of American Questions. The first of these, Prof. Patton's "The Democratic Party: its Political History and Influence," has already run through by "Black and White: Land, Labor, and Politics in the South," by T. Thomas Fortune, the (colored) editor of The New York Globe, the chief organ of his race. This is described as a spirited, vigorous, and aggressive book, claiming large advances on the part of the negroes in material prosperity, and giving some significant warnings concerning their oppression-not as a race, but as the laboring class of the South. Very shortly, too, will appear, in the same series, Judge Tourgée's new book, "An Appeal to Cæsar." This deals with an "American Question" of grave import, one which greatly exercised the late President Garfield, and it is in fulfilment of a pledge to him that Judge Tourgée has formulated the startling facts and sta-tistics which a careful analysis of the census has made evident. The judge thinks that, so far from the negro question gradually disappearing from American politics, it is in reality only just beginning to become of vital significance, and his book offers a series of vistas in different directions through the serried array of census figures that are simply astounding, while his keen, vigorous treatment of them compels and rewards attention. Other books are in preparation for this series. Besides these, Messrs. Fords, Howard & Hulbert will shortly publish "Dorcas, Daughter of Faustina," an exquisite story of the early Christians, ty E. C. Kouns, author of "Arius the Libyan." "On a Margin" is a novel "intensely" modern full of the agic of the street of the stree ern, full of the spirit of the time, characterized by an unusual vigor and power, and by a shrewd philosophy as well. Also "The Field of Honor," a very complete history of duelling-the judicial combat of Europe, the private duel of the civilized world, and graphic descriptions of all the noted hostile meetings in Europe and America—by Maj. Ben. C. Truman, of San Francisco. Many of the chapters have appeared during the year or so past in a California daily, and have attained a wide newspaper popularity. There is nothing so full on this subject extant, and it will be a valuable book, not only for reading, but for reference. This house will also issue "Tenants of an Old Farm," a profusely illustrated "nature's serial" about young folks and all manner of insects, by Dr. Henry C. McCook, a high scientific authority and a charming writer, which should be a favorite holiday book, and one available for prizes, gifts, etc.; a newly gathered selection of H. W. Beecher's recent sermons, under the title of "Evolution and Revolution," showing the in-fluence of the new philosophies on the old theologies and Christian thought and life; "The Apology of Sir Archibald Allison." an anonymous political pamphlet, which deals with the facts of the present industrial, commercial, and political situation, in fantastic but most suggestive fashion, and promises to be a "sensation;" and a little hand-book entitled "Comforting Thoughts," selected from Mr. Beecher's sermons and prayers by one familiar with them, for the use of those in trouble of bereavement or adversity. Gen. Jas. Grant Wilson's "Bryant and his Friends" will not be ready quite as early as was anticipated.

THE FOWLER & WELLS Co. have just published a work on physiology and hygiene in the form of an allegory, called "Man Wonderful, in the House Beautiful," by Drs. C. B. and Mary A. Allen. It is adapted for home and school reading, and has already been strongly com-mended by parents and teachers. Among their most important announcements for the coming season is Emily Faithfull's work, entitled "Three Visits to America," recording her impressions of institutions, people, and things on this side of the Atlantic. It is promised to be a very chatty work, covering an immense field of observation extending North, South, East, and West. By special arrangement with the author, it will be published simultaneously here and in London about October 15. They will also publish a new edition of Redfield's "Comparative Physiognomy," a unique work, which has been out of print for some time. "Massage," giving the principles and directions for its application in all forms of chronic diseases, by Dr. G. H. Taylor, the pioneer of the "movement cure" in this country; "Controlling Sex in Generation," by Samuel H. Terry, who claims to have systematized a series of experiments giving very interesting and important results, both as affecting hu-man and animal creation; the "Catechism of Phrenology," illustrating the principles of phrenology by means of questions and answers; and "How to Study Character," by Thomas A.

Hyde, a graduate of Cambridge. This firm in now doing business as a joint-stock compand and will fully sustain its reputation in the specifine of its publications to which it has devote its attention in the past.

ARPER'S BROTHERS make announcement the pleasant story of domestic and descriptort-door life that E. P. Roe has been tell-from month to month since last Christmas pe pages of Harper's Magazine will be public in book-form for the coming holiday sea-

Its bewitching illustrations, that have med many during the shifting seasons, so bically and lovingly portrayed by William bitton Gibson and Frederick Dielman, will to even more advantage when the engravwork, so ably done by King, French, mgling, Hoskin, and Putnam is properly set a a finely made book. A work of equal intic merit and of equal perfection of execution to "Sketching Rambles in Holland," written leorge H. Boughton, and illustrated by himit. A. Abbey, J. E. Rogers, and others. This iso running through Harper's Magazine, and in need be told how life-like are its human mes and how true to nature its landscape prings. They have just ready the "Complete Works of Alfred, Lord Tennyson," a complete edition of Tennyson's poetical works, including his early poems omitted from the present English editions and recent contributions to the periodicals. It contains every poem referred to in the bibliographies of Tennyson, many of which are reprinted in this edition for the first time from annuals or other fugitive volumes found in the British Museum and elsewhere. A complete index gives the date of the several editions in which the poems first appeared. The Friendly edition of Shakespeare is announced as nearly ready. It is broad and comprehensive in its plan and eclectic in its methods, Mr. Rolfe's edition of Shakespeare having proved one of the most useful editions of the great English dramatist's works accessible to American readers. The school edition being now complete in forty volumes, it has been considered advisable to issue the work in a form adapted to libraries and to the use of general readers and Shakespearian students. Each volume of the Friendly cdition contains two plays, with the excep-tion of the last volume, which embraces the sonnets and the poems. The order of the plays is in the main chronological; but in some instances a play which may be earlier has been put after one which may be later for convenience of arrangement. "Some Literary venience of arrangement. "Some Literary Recollections," by James Payn, are just ready, and make an instructive and well-told collection of anecdotes about our best-known and bestloved writers; "The History of the Four Georges," by Justin McCarthy, and a "Life and Times of the Rev. Sydney Smith" are also forthcoming; William Black's latest novel, "Judith Shakespeare," will be one of the leading features of the season, with its illustrations by Abbey; the out-of-door romance, "Love and Mirage, will also see the light in book-form this fall. the department of juvenile literature this house announces some excellent books, and has just issued some remarkably entertaining ones. "Laboulaye's Last Fairy Tales," will make a very handsome volume, with upward of two hundred and fifty illustrations. It has been ably translated by Mary L. Booth, whose former work in translation on Gasparin's, Martin's, and Cochin's writings is well-known and much approved. It seems strange that the brilliant Professor of the Institute of France, whose lively sympathy during the late civil war won him our country's love and gratitude, should have found recreation from his graver labors in narrating these fanciful stories, which will delight both old and young. Francis S. Drake has written an "Indian History for Young Folks," which will be issued with numerous illustrations, including a map of the United States showing the Indian reservations; and Ernest Ingersoll, the popular author of "Friends Worth Knowing," has furnished short studies in natural history under the pleasing title of "Country Cousins," to be published as a handsome illustrated book. The fourth instalment of Stormonth's English Dictionary has just been issued in the Frunklin Square Library. This dictionary will be complete in twenty-three parts, and the publishers will then furnish handsome muslin covers to bind the finished work.

H. L. HASTINGS, Boston, has in preparation an interesting list of publications, comprising "Historical Illustrations of the Old Testament, Gathered from Ancient Records, Monuments, and Inscriptions," by Rev. G.O. Rawlinson, M.

A., with additions by Professor Horatio B. Hacket, D.D., a preface by H. L. Hastings, and a full alphabetical index; "Home, Marriage, and Family Relations in the Light of Scripture," by James Inglis, with preface and introduction by H. L. Hastings; "Consecration," an elegant little devotional gift-book, by H. L. Hastings; "Errors of Evolution, by Robert Patterson, of San Francisco, author of "Fables of Infidelity," a trenchant work discussing geological evolution, the origin of life, and Darwinism, and forming a valuable contribution to the current controversy on these questions: and "The Works of W. K. Tweedie, D.D.," comprising "A Lamp to the Path," "Seed Time and Harvest," and "Glad Tidings," with a preface or introduction to each by H. L. Hastings.

John Highlands, 229 N. 9th St., Phila., calls the attention of the trade to the fact that he will hereafter publish the following books, formerly owned by E. Claxton & Co.: "Outlines of History," "Questions on Outlines of History," and the "Historical Chart," all by Robert A. Labberton; "Drifted Snowflakes;" 'Thoughts that Cluster Round our Homes: "Leaves Gathered in the Daily Walks of Life;" Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," with Scott's notes; Bunyan's "Holy War;" Baxter's "Saint's Rest;" Doddridge's "Rise and Progress;" Winchester's "Family Prayers;" "Heights of Eidelberg;" "Glennair;" Combe on "The Constitution of Man;" "Complete Cook, Confectioner, and Baker;" and "Book of Politeness."

M. L. HOLBROOK will have ready in October "How to Live a Century and Grow Old Gracefully," by J. M. Peebles, M.D. The author has aimed to "avoid technicalities and Greek and Latin phrases, and to be practical rather that original or elegant."

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just issued two excellent books for boys, one of which, "Captain Phil," by M. M. Thomas, tells a boy's experience in the Western Army during the late Rebellion in the most spirited manner, that cannot fail to please all boys and give them an idea of the time and place in which their fathers fought to save the great Republic. other is a translation from the French of Louis Rousselet, by W. J. Gordon, a story of the days of Washington, called "Ralph, the Drummer Boy." They have in preparation a "Guide to the Civil Service of the United States as Classified under the Civil Service Act of 1883," including full information regarding the examinations for admission, and a list of all the non-elective offices and subordinate positions under the government, giving the salary compensation of each. It will also give the State services of such States as have adopted the competitive system, and an appendix containing the text of the National and State Civil Service Acts and the rules and regulations which have been issued in accordance therewith; the Annual Report of the U. S. Civil Service Commission; the names of existing Boards of Examiners; and full sets of questions which have been used in examination for various branches of the Civil Service. The work is by John M. Comstock, Chairman Board of Examiners for Customs, N. Y. They have in press the concluding volume of Taine's "French Revolution." translated by John Durand; "The Rise of Intellectual Liberty," a history of Free Thought, by Frederick May Holland, one its ablest exponents. They also annous several beautiful collections of poetry, of wh one of the most popular is sure to be "Repsentative German Poems," in the original te with close English versions by various known translators, edited by Karl Knortz, I self a poet of no mean reputation, and who! shown excellent judgment and refined tasts his selections from the vast field of the poof "the Fatherland." Scarcely less welo Scarcely less welco will be the "Chansons de Roland," transh by Leonce Rabillon, of Johns Hopkins U versity; a volume of poems by Michael Fuentitled "Callirhoë: Fair Rosamund;" a m edition in seven volumes of Shakespear works, which will be put in the Leisure He series, and enable everybody to possess a s readable Shakespeare at a moderate price; a new volume from the graceful pen of Am Dobson, to be called "At the Sign of Lyre." A new novel, by the author of "Cal Back," the title of which has not yet be decided, is also promised. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will publish & unusually important volumes during the aut and holiday season. The most important of and in fact the greatest contribution to art cations which they have made for many will be Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat," illust by Elihu Vedder. This poem, long know French, English, and American readers of the most exquisite fruits of Oriental get is now for the first time produced in a sworthy of its merit. The fact that Mr. Ve has spent fifteen years in study for this and that he has been entirely occupied for past year in preparing his drawings, warr the assertion that the volume is one of gree trinsic value. He has endeavored to mal accompaniments to the stanzas rather than trations, and his inclination, training, and rience have peculiarly fitted him for the which he has so successfully accomplished, igns possess a dignity and power of concepi hitherto almost unknown to American art. it is not too much to predict that the book will eccepted by artistic and literary circles as the production by which Mr. Vedder will be best on in the future. The fifty-eight illustrations their title-page of folio size are printed by a fac-simile process, and are bound in a cover gned by Mr. Vedder. The translation used he well-known version by the late Edward gerald. Another beautiful holiday book is tled "Illustrated Poems of Oliver Wendell mes." Dr. Holmes selected such poems as esired included in the volume, and also wrote e charming verses as an introduction. The ies of such artists, among others, as Crowninld. Bolton Jones, Ross Turner, and Freder-. Vinton, and such engravers as Andrew. son, and French, guarantee a rare beauty of stration and a high degree of artistic merit. la third volume—this time for children—may be included among the holiday books of the -" A Wonder-Book for Boys and Girls," by haniel Hawthorne. It is tastefully illustrated F. S. Church, who has made thirty-six designs ressly for it. Most attractively bound, it Most attractively bound, it not fail to commend itself to any one who ats a really good book for little people. Other mile books for the holidays, which are both and excellent, are Scudder's "Viking Bodand Hoppin's "Two Compton Boys." former book is the final volume of the faite "Bodley Books," and treats of the travels be Bodleys in Norway and Denmark. It is basely illustrated. Mr. Hoppin's volume, this somewhat similar to his jolly "Auton me," is full of fun and pictures, and will be by young boys and old boys with equal sure. Under Biography may be classed the ife and Letters of Bayard Taylor," in two mes, edited by Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Horace Scudder, from materials hitherto unused. book, which has three portraits and other trations, gives an interesting account of for in his various aspects as author, poet, eller, critic, and diplomatist. Mr. James on contributes a book, well-described by title, which runs as follows: "Captains of ustry; or, Men of Business who did Someg besides Making Money: A Book for ing Americans." It contains several pors. and will be an instructive and stimulating ume for the young Americans for whom it ntended. "Some Heretics of Yesterday," he Rev. S. E. Herrick, contains interesting unts of Tauler, Wicklif, Huss, Savonarola, iner, Cranmer, Melanchthon, Knox, Calvin, gny, Wesley, and William Brewster. The for has here endeavored to give accounts of great religious reformers, which will form a nected history of the marked phases of religthought for more than four centuries. The mlar series of American Men of Letters also perly finds a place under Biography. A volume Ralph Waldo Emerson" will shortly appear the pen of Oliver Wendell Holmes. It mises to be a book of pronounced interest, as one who knows Dr. Holmes's life of Motcould anticipate. It is perhaps the most able volume which will appear in the series. Agar Allan Poe" will be written by George Woodberry, and this volume is expected to ply a place as yet not adequately filled by book about him which has as yet appeared. in volume contains a portrait of the subject of the biography. The American Statesmen series, which has been so prosperous in its career, will include a study of John Adams, by John T. Morse, Jr., the editor of the series, already known as an interesting and scholarly writer, and a life of James Madison, by Sydney Howard Gay, who wrote, in collaboration with the late William Cullen Bryant, the "Popular History of the United States." The American Commonwealths naturally follow here, and the names of the authors of their worth "Maryland: The assurance of their worth. "Maryland: The History of a Palatinate," by William Hand Brown, of Johns Hopkins University, is nearly ready, and will be followed by "Kentucky," by Nathaniel Southgate Shaler, Professor of Geology in Harvard University and Director of the State Geological Survey of Kentucky. Each volume contains a map and index. The series so far has met with a success gratifying alike to editor, authors, and publishers. Among the philosophical and religious books to be published is an important work, in two octavo volumes, by Wilhelm Reuss—"A History of the Sacred Scriptures of the New Testament"—which has been translated from a late German edition, with additions by Edward L. Houghton. The book treats of the origin, collection, preservation, and dissemination of the books of the New Testament, and concludes with the use made of them It is already a standard work in theology. in Germany. "The Continuity of Christian Thought," written by Rev. A. V. G. Allen, of the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge, Massachusetts, is a survey of religious thought since the beginning of the Christian era and a hopeful reading of the signs of the times. A new volume of Joseph Cook's Boston Monday Lectures, called "Occident," will discuss the religious and social problems of the Western world, and will be followed next year by "Orient, which will treat similar phases of Eastern These lectures are in the author's thought. "Persia," by the late Sammost striking style. uel Johnson, is fitly mentioned here. This book, just completed at the time of his death, will finish the important series of "Oriental Religions," upon which Mr. Johnson was so long at work. His two books "India" and "China" have become standard, and this will, no doubt, equal them in excellence. A paper read by Mr. John Fiske at the Concord School of Philosophy is to be published under the title of "The Destiny of Man Viewed in the Light of his Origin." In it the author applies the principles of evolution to man's origin and destiny, finding strong arguments for his immortality. A volume will soon be published by the late Rev. Joseph P. Thompson, author of "The United States as a Nation," called "American Comments on European Questions, International and Religious." The title explains itself, and the work is written with that breadth of view and practical wisdom which characterized the author. Another little volume, which finds perhaps a place under religious books, is called "Text and Verse." contains a selection of parallel passages from the Bible and from Whittier's works, arranged for each day in the year, and is compiled by Mrs. Gertrude W. Cartland. It is peculiarly dainty in appearance, and will be as helpful as it is pretty. The department of poetry is unusually well filled. One of the most important of the volumes is part second of "English and Scottish Popular Ballads," edited by Prof. Francis J.

Child, of Harvard College. The work (which is sold by subscription) treats of the origin of these ballads, and notes the various versions of them which are extant. "It is impossible," the London Academy says, "to praise too highly the loving care and scrupulous accuracy with which Prof. Child has edited these treasures of antiquity of our land. His work is up to the highest level of the best European scholarship, and the amount of information and illustration he has got together is astonishing, and is very happily put." Scarcely less important are the dramas of Christopher Marlowe, which form the first three volumes of a series of Elizabethan Dramatists. These early plays are now difficult to obtain, and on this account the project will be welcomed. The volumes are beautifully printed, and are published in a Large Paper edition, as well as in a hardly less attractive style for ordinary use. Middleton's works will be next in order, after those of Matlowe. Miss Elizabeth Stuart Phelps's "Songs of the Silent World," as their title leads one to suppose, is a collection of poems, many of which tell of the land she described so well in "Beyond the Gates." The book also includes some love-songs of a more mundane nature. Miss Phelps's poetry, like her prose, is sure to be full of helpful and beautiful thoughts. "Melodies of Verse," a little volume in vellum covers, which will be a favorite among lovers of tasteful books, is composed of selected poems from Bayard Taylor, whose shorter lyrics were marked by grace and spirit. A new Household edition of the poems of Ralph Waldo Emerson, bound in uniform style with the other newly published Household Poets, will also soon appear. As there is no praise too high for the noble spirit of Emerson's prose, so, too, his poetry holds an unique place. Other new collections of poems in Household style are devoted to Edmund Clarence Stedman and Lucy Larcom -both poets dear to the American public. Both "Twenty these volumes will contain portraits. Letters from England" is written by Miss Florence Kelley, and comes under the head of Travel. In it an account is given of special features of English life which are of interest to women and to students of social science. "In the Lena Delta," a story of the search for De Long, told by Engineer G. W. Melville, of the U. S. Navy, adds another chapter to the painful record of Arctic exploration and adventure. It is well illustrated. Among the fiction and light literanustrate. Allowing the action and right fields ture to be published may be mentioned a new novel by F. Marion Crawford, author of "Mr. Isaacs," "A Roman Singer," etc. The title of this book is "An American Politician," and it will be, in scene and plot, something entirely new. A collection of Mr. W. H. Bishop's clever tales, under the odd name of "Choy Susan and wither Script" in the property of the control other Stories" is soon to be expected; and a powerful novel by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, of Philadelphia, which is now running as a serial in The Atlantic, will also be produced in book form. "On the Frontier," by the ever-popular Bret Harte, contains three Western stories in his own inimitable style. Among educational volumes in preparation may be mentioned a new edition of Mrs. A. C. L. Botta's well-known "Hand-Book of Universal Literature," which the author has revised and enlarged. The Riverside Literature series, which has met with so much success in supplying supplementary reading for schools, will have new numbers. Longtellow's "Song of Hiawatha" (in two parts with notes) and "Under the Elm and or Poems," by Lowell. The miscellaneous box comprise some works of much important Chief among them is "The Gentleman's Ma zine Library," a classified collection of the pricipal contents of The Gentleman's Magazin from 1731 to 1868. This valuable set of bod is edited by G. Lawrence Gomine, F.S.A., will be complete in fourteen volumes. The two volumes on "Manners and Customs" "Dialect, Proverbs, and Word-Lore" are a ready. The books are beautifully printed antique style, and are to be had in cloth and Roxburgh. There is also an exquisite L Paper edition, limited to fifty copies, who would delight a Dibdin or a Walpole. THE KETTERLINUS PRINTING HOUSE, Phila., have published a handsome holiday volume for boys and girls entitled "Little Bell and other Stories," by Margaret Vandegrift, author of "Clover Beach," etc. The volume is a small quarto, printed with great taste, with the illustrations by E. B. Bensell, in colors. They will have ready in October "The Absent-Minded Fairy," by the same popular writer, and the same artist will furnish the colored illustrations to her bright and entertaining text.

HENRY C. LEA'S SON & Co., Phila., have in preparation an unusually large number of new books, among which the most important are: "Ophthalmic Science and Practice," by Henry Juler, the well-known London specialist on diseases of the eye, to be illustrated by a large number of very beautiful chromo-lithographs of microscope drawings. A new "Manual of Chemistry," by Professor W. Simon, M.D., of Baltimore, intended for beginners in pharmacy and medical chemistry to use in their laboratory work; Schreiber's well-known manual on massage, translated from the German by Dr. Walter Mendelson, of New York; and a textbook on medical physics, a practically new subject, by Professor John C. Draper, which will be fully illustrated. Anything emanating from the study of the famous physiologist, Dr. John C. G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press a superb illustrated edition of "Holland and its People," by Edmondo de Amicis, written in the graphic style that makes this author so delightful, whether "jotting" his thoughts about "London" and high-pressure civilization or describing the quiet, dreamy life of old Dutch towns. The edition now promised will be known as the Zuyde-Zee edition, and will be limited to six hundred copies, each of which will be numbered. The work will cover about four hundred pages, printed in new pica type, to be distributed immediately after printing the work. Twenty-five copies will be printed on Whatman paper, with two sets of etchings—one set on India paper, bound with the text, and one set on tinted satin, mounted with mat and portfolio, ready for framing. These will be the first impressions of type, etchings, and cuts. Then two hundred and fifty copies will be printed on the finest ragged-edge linen paper, with the same two sets of etchings; and finally three hundred and twenty-five copies will be printed on the same handsome paper, with the set of etchings on India paper bound with the text. The fullpage etchings will be from drawings of R. Swain Gifford, Charles A. Platt, Samuel Colman, Joseph Pennell, Chas. A. Vanderhoof, and others, and, it goes without saying, will give accurate and poetically conceived representations of the historic cities, towns, and buildings of Holland. Full-page photogravures from plates made specially for this work will be given of some of the world-renowned pictures of the most celebrated Dutch painters, and will include Rembrandt's "Lesson in Anatomy," Van der Ho'st's "The Burgomaster," Franz Hals' "The Fool," Paul Potter's "Bull," one of Tenier's "Interiors," and one of Ruysdael's "Landscapes." Throughout the text will be scattered illustrations of Amsterdam, Dortrecht, Rotterdam, the Zuyder-Zee, the gate of St. Catherine, Delft, the Prison, the Hague, the Hotel de Ville, Leyden, etc. The edition has been prepared at great cost, and will form a unique and beautiful volume, quite equal to anything yet publish de by this house, whose reputation for literary and artistic taste is conceded by the fraternity as well as by the public. Among the many books of exceptional intrinsic merit, just issued or immediately forthcoming, special mention should be made of "Half a Century of English History," pictorially presented in a series of one hundred and forty seven cartoons, selected from the gallery of Mr. Punch, and describing the careers of Peel, Palmerston, Russell, Cohden, Bright, Derby, Salisbury, Disraeli, and Glad-stone, the men who for the past fifty years have ruled the British Empire; "The Land of Rip Van Winkle," a narrative of a tour through the Catskills, with their legends and traditions, written con amore by A. E. P. Searing and illustrated by Ernest Heinemann and Joseph Lauber; "American Orations," from the colonial to the present time, selected with special reference to the light thrown upon the more important epochs and issues of American history, edited, with introductions and notes, by Alexander Johnston, Professor of Jurisprudence and Political Economy in the College of New Jersey; its companion volume, "British Orations," a selection of important and representative politselection of important and representative political addresses of the past century, edited with the skilled judgment of Henry K. Adams, Professor of History in the University of Michigan; and "Life and Times of Gustavus Adolphus," by the Hon. John L. Stevens, LL.D., recently U. S. Minister to Stockholm, a companion volume to Gindely's "The Thirty Years' War." Among miscellaneous publications of a literary character we may look publications of a literary character we may look for the "Complete Works of John Dryden," in 18 volumes, illustrated, with notes, historical and explanatory, with a life of the author, by Sir Walter Scott, revised and corrected by George Saintsbury; The Nutshell series, a gathering of the best thoughts of the best writers, edited by Helen Kendrick Johnson, whose knowledge and taste is a guarantee of the value of her selections, grouped in six volumes.

Cable, a book which promises highly interesting; Max O'Rell's new book English social life, the title of which will be nounced later; "Stuff and Nonsense," a full of capital fun, written and illustrated a B. Frost; and "In Partnership: Studies ry Telling," by Brander Matthews and H. C. nner. This latter is a collection of eight ort stories, two written in collaboration and ee by each author alone. This duality of or assures a greater variety than a book of at stories by one author usually possesses, ile the fact that certain of the characters apr and reappear in five of the stories gives a ty to the volume quite as unusual. One of stories—a very striking and original effect Mr. Bunner—has not been printed before. is called "A Letter and a Paragraph." For dren they promise a rare treat in a volume "Old-Fashioned Fairy Tales," by Mrs. Bar-Harrison, illustrated by Miss Rosina Emt, whose fancy it has been to reproduce someng of the style of a certain old time fairyik, beloved in many nurseries more than a atter of a century back. The present tales purely fantastic, containing none of the ar-coated germs of science and philosophy ninistered in so many children's books of ret years. Giants and ogres, knights and les, fairies, elves, and gnomes live again in ties bearing such titles as "The Princess antine." "Sybilla, Myrtillo, and Furioso," thalinda, or the Ice-King's Bride," and sondina, or the Turkey-Queen," making in over three hundred pages, charmingly emished with Miss Emmet's fanciful sketches. cover design, in two shades of Indian red black, shows an old-fashioned fairy facing an fashioned witch, each surrounded by the em-us of her craft. "The Story of Viteau," by ak R. Stockton, a story in which this genial ter has opened a new vein and one that he shown all his well-known skill and ability in king. While describing the life and sur-adings of Raymond, Louis, and Agnes at au, at the Castle of De Barran, or in the ds among the Cotereaux, he gives a picture rance in the age of chivalry, and tells, at same time, a romantic and absorbing story fiventure and knightly daring. Mr. Birch's ked illustrations add much to the attraction he book. Besides these, they will issue a edition, at a reduced price, of Stockton's he Floating Prince and other Fairy Tales;"

"The Boy's Library of Legend and Chiv-"The Boy's Library of Legend and Chiv"comprising "The Boy's King Arthur," sightly Legends of Wales," formerly issued
